Raymond Sees Solution of the Child Labor Problem if Tenement Is Made a Fit Place to Live In.

GERMS THRIVE IN SLUMS.

Isolation of Business of Making Candy, Macaroni, and Other Foods Would Curb the Spread of Disease.

BY RAYMOND.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—The ramifications of this tenement labor problem with special reference to its effect upon the children, are most mysterious.

In one tenement with one nationality there is a certain phase to be considered, while over on another side of the city people speaking the same tongue have essentially different habits of life and of earning their living as well.

Taken as a whole, one nationality follows a certain class of work, but this rule is constantly modified by conditions of the great city itself. There are meeting lines in the tenement country where the most incongruous races rub up against each other, where racial traits are modified in the strangest way, and where the children with intuitive adaptability acquire habits which belong to nations and times far removed from their own.

Mott Street Cosmopolitan.

It is on Mott street from about Canal to Bayard, and around the corner on Roosevelt street, that one may see to the best advantage this curious meeting of the human waters. There one may find a Chinese importer, next to him an Italian grocery store, and third in the list a Yiddish delicatessen establishment.

In some cases I am bound to admit that the Chinaman has the advantage of his Caucasian business contemporaries so far as the appearance of thrift and of sanitary conditions is concerned. Your east side Hebrew is almost invariably a merchant or a manufacturer of clothing in some form. The Chinaman is also developing into a merchant class. The Italian alone seems strangely destined to a life of toil, while the Greek boys from Roosevelt street and that neighborhood have overflowed the country and are now controlling the bootblack industry of the United States.

Producers and Consumers.

Everywhere there goes on in the tenement district the manufacture of food in some shape or another, and in all of these cases the children participate, first as producers, and then as consumers. When the old mother from the Jewish pale of settlement in Russia is hard at work upon her coats, she depends upon the youngest members of the family to watch the strange messes cooking upon the stove. Likely as not there is a boarder in the combination who sits down to the table for breakfast and dinner. With the stove handy, and a necessity for utilizing the fuel, it is entirely natural that other things are cooked than those required for the immediate family. Candy of a certain sort is manufactured all over the tenement district.

When an Italian man chooses to remain at home and not participate in manual labor in the great city, he is engaged in nine cases out of ten in some department of the manufacture of macaroni. Primarily, they are supposed to eat it themselves. Practically, it is sold invariably to the neighbors, and frequently in quantities to large dealers. There is every reason to believe that in certain sections of the Italian quarter the manufacture of macaroni for the general trade is carried on in these filthy basements, packed in boxes, and labeled with well known brands of the imported article.

Macaroni Exposed to Infection.

On the whole it seems to be true that the most depressing products of tenement manufacture are sold among the tenement people themselves. A Russian family will make the cheapest kind of a coat for shockingly low wages, but that coat will be sold by a Yiddish peddler from one of the push carts which clog the streets in the Jewish quarter to such an extent that the doctor's buggies have to be supplied with gongs like miniature patrol wagons to enable them to get through the streets to the bedsides of the sick and dying.

The macaroni made in the tenements is exposed for sale in the little stores which fill up the fronts of the buildings, hanging on racks in such a way as to be exposed to infection constantly.

Bakeries are supposed to be required to occupy separate establishments, but it is the commonest thing in the world for Italian and other families to devote themselves to the manufacture of a certain article of food. Of these the doughnut or cruller is a favorite. It is made with almost the same facility of manufacture as the macaroni. It comes into being most of the time in a dingy lighted basement under about the same conditions as those which prevail in the manufacture of candy and popcorn cakes which are sold in the retail stores of the entire lower part of the city, both on the east and west sides, and which almost invariably are of the lowest grade of tenement manufacture, in spite of the inspections of the local officials, because it would take an army of men to control tenement manufacture unless there is a general law prohibiting it altogether.

Ice Cream Tenement Luxury.

Ice cream is the one great luxury of the poor. Not only the children but grown people as well, perspiring at every pore from the heavy, heated atmosphere of the tenements, swarm into the streets day and night, and pennies which are labored for with such brutal patience are frequently spent in a moment for a little dish of ice cream or the more mysterious ice cream sandwich, which is sold on every corner. Almost without exception this ice cream, which can be had for a penny at a push cart or in dingy little stores and sidewalk booths, is made in a tenement. It could not possibly be made anywhere else and be sold at the prices it commands.

During the entire season of hot weather the ice cream industry is pursued in the tenements in every locality. Heaven only knows where the "cream" comes from or what it is made of, but that is the least unpleasant feature of the case. Children are engaged in this industry almost to the exclusion of others. That is to say, the man or woman of the house will do the heavy work, will fill the freezers, pack the ice cream, but the children in droves assist in the process of manufacture, as it is carried

DIVORCE DECREE GIVEN MRS. COREY

DART FOR WEALTHY MEN.

Sister of Respondent Asserts He Is Not Fit Person for Custody of Son, Who Is Awarded to Mother.

Reno, Nev., July 30.—[Special.]—A divorce was granted today to Mrs. William E. Corey, wife of the president of the United States Steel corporation. The action was taken in the Second District court of Nevada, sitting in this city, after Mrs. Corey and several witnesses had testified in her behalf. Corey was represented by counsel, but made no contest.

The case was submitted without argument, and the jury, which was out only a few minutes, took but one ballot.

No mention was made of Miss Mabelle Gilman, the actress, whose name has figured in many sensational stories with that of the steel magnate.

It was published recently that Corey as soon as he was free would wed a wealthy New York woman whose aims were social rather than domestic, but who asserted that if her name was connected in any way with the divorce proceedings she would refuse to carry out the agreement.

Plaintiff in Tears.

Mrs. Corey was in tears when told that she had been given a divorce and the custody of her 16 year old son, Allan Corey. She drove at once to her home on Riverside avenue, where she says she will continue to reside.

An interesting feature was the testimony of Miss Addie Corey, sister of the respondent, who appeared for Mrs. Corey. She said she did not consider Corey or any other wealthy New York men as proper custodian of a boy of Allan's age.

The question of alimony was not introduced. Mrs. Corey made an interesting admission, however, touching upon this phase of the case, stating that in May, 1906, several weeks before her petition for divorce was filed, she negotiated, through her attorneys, a financial settlement with her husband. She was not asked what the nature of this settlement was.

Mrs. Corey Tells of Estrangement.

"I am a resident of Reno, Nev.," said Mrs. Corey when placed on the stand, "and the wife of William Ellis Corey, the defendant in this action. We were married on Dec. 1, 1883, at Pittsburg, Pa., and lived together until May 1, 1905. At that time my husband deserted me and went to New York. I followed him and held a conversation with him in the Hotel Lorraine. It was there that he told me he had decided to live apart. He said it was impossible for us to live happily together and that I never would see him again. He stated that he intended going to Europe for several months. There was no scene. I talked with him about the matter and urged him again to resume his place in our home, but he refused. I have never seen him since."

Mrs. Corey added that she came to Reno for her health and that she had no intention of bringing an action for divorce at the time she took up her residence in Nevada. She stated that she selected Reno upon the advice of her sister-in-law, Miss Addie Corey; that they considered this place their future home and expected to live here in the future. She stated that she was best suited for the custody of her son and asked the court to place him in her care.

Affected While Telling Story.

Mrs. Corey was visibly affected while telling her story. She testified without evasion and in a clear voice. Her attorneys feared she would collapse, as her health has suffered since the separation.

In his opening statement her attorney, J. R. Redding of New York, stated that she had been driven to a separation and the divorce proceedings by the sensational stories printed in the newspapers.

"Is it true that newspaper notoriety was the principal factor in your separation from Mr. Corey and is responsible for this divorce proceeding?" asked Benjamin Curler, another of her attorneys.

"Such is not the case. The stories that may have appeared in the press had nothing to do with it," said Mrs. Corey.

Miss Corey Sustains Witness.

Miss Addie Corey, sister of the respondent, was an interesting witness. She corroborated Mrs. Corey's statement that Corey had deserted his wife, and told how she and her aged mother had made several ineffectual attempts to effect a reconciliation. Her brother, she said, had lost sight of his home, being absorbed in business and infatuated with the fast life of New York.

"Do you consider Mr. Corey a proper custodian for his son?" she was asked.

"I do not," she replied.

"Why?"

"For the reason," she said, "that he is not a proper person for his son to associate with. He has no home, and his associates are not fit companions for a young man of Allan's age. I do not think any New York man is fit to have charge of a boy of his age."

"Do you mean all New York men, Miss Corey?" continued the attorney.

"I mean wealthy New York men."

Witnesses Establish Residence.

Allan Corey stated that at the time of the parting his father called him to his office and told him he had decided to part from his mother.

"He said I was too young to understand the reasons. He then said that my mother was a good woman and that my place was at her side."

Several witnesses were introduced to establish the residence in Nevada of the plaintiff, all being citizens of Reno.

At the conclusion of the trial Attorney Sardis Summerfield of Reno stated that his client, William E. Corey, was as anxious for the decree of divorce as his wife.

"If the decree is granted," he said, "Mr. Corey will be entirely satisfied. He has consented to the divorce. This understanding between Mr. Corey and the attorneys of Mrs. Corey was reached some time ago."

T. R. Chadbourne of Pittsburg also appeared as counsel for Mr. Corey, who was not present.

MUSKELLUNGE FISHING—A STUDY IN EXPRESSIONS.

WOMAN 'IN HURRY' RUNS CAR

Mrs. S. H. Chidester of Evergreen Park Takes Control Herself.

PUSHES THE MOTORMAN OFF.

Three Coal Wagons Are Smashed Along South Halsted Street.

Mrs. S. H. Chidester of Evergreen Park proved she was a speedy and spectacular, if not a cautious, "motorman" yesterday.

She came into Chicago in the morning to visit old friends, near the stockyards, and late in the afternoon she started homeward, having in mind a Grand Trunk railway train outgoing which would stop at the Grand Trunk station at Forty-ninth street at a certain moment, and carry her on to Evergreen Park.

It was with this distinct plan in mind that she hailed a south bound Halsted street car at Thirty-ninth street. It proved to be a little later than allowed for a comfortable, leisurely trip to the railway depot, and Mrs. Chidester no sooner had boarded the car than she began to urge the motorman to hasten, explaining how urgent was her desire to reach Evergreen Park promptly.

Motorman Deaf to Entreaties.

The motorman was No. 516. He had his own views about the running of trolley cars in Halsted street. He was not deeply impressed with the Evergreen Park suggestion.

At Forty-first street the car stopped to allow a teamster to make up his mind whether and how soon he was going to get off the tracks. Mrs. Chidester grew nervous, but restrained herself with fair success.

At Forty-third street it took two old men a little longer to get on than seemed necessary, and Mrs. Chidester went out on the front platform to further impress upon the motorman the importance of catching her train.

Motorman No. 516 distinctly told his passengers that running cars was his profession and that he required no advice.

Hurls Mocking Man from Car.

Mrs. Chidester was now furious. She told the other passengers in the car that she was going to "get No. 516's job" if it took her a month. For this the motorman gave her a derisive laugh.

Then, before the motorman realized what had happened, his lever was in a pair of determined feminine hands and he was running along in the rear trying to overtake the car of which he had recently been in charge.

His speed was scarcely a match for the flying car, which now was making a record run. Barring shocks to the nerves of other passengers and the débris of a few wagons scattered along the way, the flight, ending at Forty-ninth street, was entirely successful.

Stops were made neither for crossings nor for passengers to get on or off. Three teamsters were given new ideas about the rights of the road and three coal wagons, on which they were riding when the car struck them, are laid up today for repairs.

Mrs. Chidester was finally overpowered by the conductor and some of the men passengers on the car and taken to the stockyards police station.

She was released later, after convincing the police officers she was not insane. And she missed her Evergreen Park train.

DREAM WARNS CONDUCTOR OF DEATH UNDER WHEELS.

Robert Moore, Northwestern Freight Man, Heeds Vision, Tries in Vain to Get Substitute, and Is Killed.

Robert Moore, 10 North Maplewood avenue, the conductor of a Northwestern freight train who was killed at Rochelle, Ill., Sunday morning, was warned in a dream of his fate just one week before the accident. So unnerved was he over the premonition that he tried in vain to get a substitute to take his place on the run which proved a fatal one for him.

Moore awoke suddenly a week ago Sunday night and arose from his bed ghastly pale. His wife, startled from her sleep, asked him what the trouble was.

"O, I have had an awful dream," he said, "and I can't sleep any longer. It seemed to me that I was being cut to pieces and that I was dying."

The dream was so vivid that it prayed upon his mind. His next run on the Northwestern was scheduled for Saturday night last, but he did not want to take it for fear of an accident. The train was held twenty minutes for him while he made a last effort to get a substitute. It being Saturday night, he was unable to find an available man, so he took charge of the train himself. At Rochelle he stepped off the caboose and started across the tracks to the depot, when he was struck by another train and killed.

Moore was 35 years old. He will be buried at Clinton, Ia., today.

J. HOBART MOORE IS TAKING BATHS FOR NERVOUS BREAK.

Chicagoan Seeking to Recover from the Effects of Overwork at Colorado Resort—Wife Says He Is Better.

Glenwood Springs, Colo., July 30.—[Special.]—J. Hobart Moore of the firm of Moore Bros. of Chicago is taking cave baths. Nobody in his party will say anything about his complaint. His physician also is sworn to secrecy.

All that is known is that he seems feeble and drives in a closed carriage every day to the baths. The impression is that his case is serious, a result of overwork and a general breaking down.

Moore, with his brother and a corps of attendants, arrived in a private car on Saturday. He has denied himself to all callers.

Mr. Moore Better, Says Wife.

Mrs. J. Hobart Moore, at the Moore summer home in Lake Geneva, said last night that she had received a telegram from her husband during the afternoon saying he was much better and was enjoying the baths at Glenwood Springs, Colo., greatly.

Mrs. Moore said her husband was suffering from nervous prostration, following overwork, and, as Mrs. Nathaniel Moore, wife of his son, was ill at the Lake Geneva home, it was decided Mr. Moore should go west for his health. He left Chicago on July 21. Mrs. Moore said she did not know when he would return.

PUTS KINK IN PRAYER CHAIN

RELIEF TO KEYSTONE STATE

Postoffice Inspector May Bring Suit Against Alleged Violators.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—[Special.]—Prayer by the endless chain system will be stopped by the postoffice authorities, and it is likely that the promoters of this style of worship will find themselves defendants in the near future in suits charging them with misuse of the mails. The matter was laid before Postoffice Inspector G. V. Craighead this morning, and he is investigating.

For many months churchgoers of western Pennsylvania have been annoyed by receiving letters containing the following prayer:

O, Lord Jesus Christ, we implore Thee, O, Eternal God, to have mercy on all mankind, keep us from sin by Thy precious blood, and take us to be with Thee eternally. Amen.

Dire Results as Penalty.

With the prayer the person in receipt of the letter would receive an admonition not to fail to send it to nine other persons with instructions for each of those nine to send a letter with the prayer to nine others. Each letter threatened dire results to the person who failed to carry out the instructions.

The matter was laid before Inspector Craighead through receipt of one of the letters by Miss J. C. Miller of 11 North Bouquet street. The letter accompanying the prayer is as follows:

This prayer was written by Bishop Lawrence, who recommended it be written and sent to nine other persons. He who will not write and send this will be overtaken by some misfortune. One person who did not pay attention to it met with a dreadful accident. They who will write and send this prayer for nine days, commencing on the day it is received, will experience great joy at Jerusalem. It is said that he who writes this will be delivered from every calamity. Please do not break the chain.

Claims Violation of Law.

The letter was signed: "A Friend."

Miss Miller received two such letters and was much annoyed. The other letter she received bore the signature of the sender, who is a young woman connected with the church to which Miss Miller belongs.

Postoffice Inspector Craighead says the method is a clear violation of the postal laws. He said if the names of the senders were placed in his hands he would sue.

PRESIDENT SAYS NO ONCE MORE

Secretary Loeb Writes Peoria Woman That Roosevelt Will Not Be a Candidate Again.

Peoria, Ill., July 30.—[Special.]—William Loeb Jr., secretary to President Roosevelt, has written a letter to Mrs. L. A. Kinsey of this city, who sent the president a newspaper clipping in which it was suggested that he again be a candidate for nomination as president. Secretary Loeb says: "The president has nothing to add to the statement issued on the night of the election in 1904. His decision as announced at that time is irrevocable."

COOKE CONVICTED; PRISON TERM HIS.

Second "Big" Politician Given Penitentiary Sentence in Three Months for Grafting.

LINN ALREADY IN CELL.

Motion Made for New Trial in Present Case and Defendant Out Pending Argument of It.

John A. Cooke was found guilty last night of conspiracy to defraud Cook county while clerk of the Circuit court. His punishment was fixed at indeterminate imprisonment in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. The jury returned its verdict at 8:30 o'clock last night in Judge Smith's court.

Only two ballots were taken. The first was unanimous as to guilt and the second was unanimous for the maximum punishment under the statute.

The conviction of Cooke marks a second historic step in the year 1906 in Cook county politics. He is the second "big" politician to be sentenced to the penitentiary within three months for grafting. His prosecution followed close upon the heels of the conviction of John A. Linn, who had succeeded him in the same office and who is now serving his sentence in the prison at Joliet.

The "graft" industry in county offices thus seems to have suffered a check. Credit for the conviction of the two officials is given jointly to the state's attorney's office and the Citizens' association.

Cooke Hears Verdict Unmoved.

The hardy Lorimer lieutenant, Cooke, last night heard the verdict of his judges with a brave face. He knew when he entered court at 8:25 o'clock that a verdict had been reached. By reason of the quickness of the decision he judged he had received no quarter. He sat quietly in his place behind Attorneys Donahoe and Hartnett when the jurors filed to their places at 8:30. As usual, he was well groomed and looked unlike a prospective prisoner in the penitentiary.

Alexander F. Moore, 4137 Calumet avenue, a clerk for Swift & Co., was foreman of the jury. He handed the written verdict to Bailiff Oleson, who carried it past the defendant to Clerk Robert Charles. There was a rustling of paper, but Cooke did not look around. He gazed straight into the eyes of the jurors.

"We, the jury find the defendant, John A. Cooke, guilty of conspiracy in manner and form as charged in the indictment and fix his punishment at imprisonment in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000," read the clerk.

"Poll the jury," demanded Attorney Donahoe.

"Was and is this your verdict?" asked Clerk Charles, as he called the names of the jurymen.

"It was and is," responded each man as the question was put to him.

Defense Seeks a Delay.

"I wish to make a motion for a new trial," said Attorney Donahoe. "We have been working twelve months without a vacation and I would ask that some time be given, as much of the testimony of the trial remains to be written up. I would ask that you set the time for hearing the arguments on the motion for some time in September."

"I object," said State's Attorney Healy. "This case ought to be disposed of not later than Saturday or Monday."

Judge Smith asked the attorneys for both sides of the case to appear before him tomorrow, when he will set a date for hearing the arguments for a new trial.

Judge Smith spoke at considerable length in thanking the jury.

"I am sure the court and public appreciate the services you have rendered," he said in conclusion. "I consider your verdict in this case a fair and just one."

Cooke Goes; Old Bond in Force.

Court was adjourned and Cooke seized his hat and turned to go. His bonds of $30,000 were allowed to stand as surety.

"Have you any opinion to express regarding the action of the jury?" he was asked.

"Well, I guess enough statements have been made," he responded. Then, with a smile that came hard, he added: "I don't look scared, do I?"

State's Attorney Healy and Assistant State's Attorney Olson were highly pleased with the verdict.

"It was the only verdict solely possible," said Mr. Olson. "All the evidence was on one side. It could not have been more conclusive. The sentence means that Cooke may be imprisoned for five years. That is the maximum."

"We couldn't have had a more satisfactory verdict," said Mr. Healy.

He refused to talk about the supposed attempt at bribery which caused the removal of the jury from the Revere house to the Virginia hotel. It is believed by Criminal court attaches that the nature of the verdict precludes any further action in the matter. Neither is it expected that action will be taken against the clerks who were shown to be Cook's coconspirators.

Names of the Jurors.

William L. Boettcher, Evanston, carpenter contractor.
John Lucas, 11028 Michigan avenue, blacksmith.
Otto Fry, 3004 Lakewood avenue, musician.
Thomas B. Carr, 6000 Union avenue, bookkeeper.

Instructions of the Court.

The instructions given to the jury before it retired at 5:30 were considered fair by both sides. Judge Smith ordered that evidence showing that Cooke unlawfully withheld records from his successor in office be left out of consideration, because that charge is not specified in the indictment on which Cooke was being tried. He was indicted on twenty-six counts.

The court also ruled out that part of the evidence given by the alleged accomplices in corroboration.

The attorneys for the defendant base their

One of the features of the trial was the insistence of the attorneys in presenting testimony as to Cooke's good character. Cooke and his brother "Billie" Cooke, have been conspicuous figures in south side politics for years. Long before Cooke became clerk of the Circuit court in 1897 he had been a busy henchman of Lorimer.

Together with other politicians who sailed under the same banner he held sidewalk councils in front of O'Connor's saloon at Clark and Randolph streets.

What time he could spare from politics he devoted to the leather business.

His home is at 769 South Halsted street. The specific cause of his downfall lies in the padding of pay rolls in his office and other species of grafting. State's Attorney Healy claims to have accounted for almost $23,000 of stolen money and estimates that about $50,000 probably leaked out of the office while Cooke was clerk.

Healy Demands Extreme Penalty.

The closing address of State's Attorney Healy was a judicial and argumentative plea to the jurors to find Cooke guilty. He recommended the maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000.

"That he got the money there can be no doubt," said Mr. Healy. "The names on the pay roll were 'dummy' names.

"The poor devil who steals for bread more than $15 goes to the penitentiary. The man who forgets his oath of office in a position of public trust is deserving of no consideration. If we impose only a fine upon this defendant we make a farce out of his trial. The maximum punishment only will suffice in his case. If on a record such as this we can escape a conviction of guilt, it is difficult to see how a record of guilt can exist at all.

"For the man who holds another man up with a revolver, we may feel some respect. The holdup man takes a chance. He may be shot by the intended victim or may be arrested for his unlawful deed. But the man who takes advantage of a man in a subordinate position in order that he alone may profit by that man's wrongdoing is the most dastardly, cowardly kind of a criminal. That man is always thinking: 'Punishment never will come to me; it must go to the other fellow.' Cooke thought that when he induced Bradley and Seinwerth to commit these acts that he never would be discovered.

"When Cooke first went into office he said to Bradley: 'I understand this office is worth from $15,000 to $25,000 a year.'

"'It would get us all into trouble to get as much as that out of it,' replied Bradley, 'but I will get you what I can.'"

Tells of Evidence in Trunk.

Mr. Healy then went over the evidence of how Cooke took the books of his office to the west side in a trunk. He discussed the statute of limitations, declaring that the evidence was of an origin recent enough to make the conviction of Cooke legal. He referred to George W. Cooke, brother of the defendant, and intimated that he had been kept out of sight by the defense lest his testimony prove injurious.

Attorney Donahoe, in his closing address in defense of Cooke, charged that the defendant was the victim of powerful political enemies and intimated that he was being tried in an unfriendly court. Judge Smith did not take cognizance of the remarks, but State's Attorney Healy replied briefly to them.

The attorney compared the trial of Cooke to the Goebel case in Kentucky. He represented Cooke as a Caleb Powers. He denounced Bradley and Steinwerth as having told one story to the grand jury and another at the trial.

MANN DENOUNCES PARKER FOR ADVERTISING TACTICS.

The tactics of the Francis W. Parker following in advertising a Parker meeting at the Masonic hall, 7439 Ingleside avenue, last night, where Congressman Mann spoke, brought forth a new flow of indignation from Mr. Mann.

Mr. Mann, as well as each of the houseful of Thirty-third ward republicans who attended the meeting, received one of the Parker dodgers at the door. Holding one before the audience he said:

"This is a fair sample of the political tactics used by my opponent. This smarty act is too cheap for consideration. But to 'turn the other cheek also' I will read the bill:

"'Republican massmeeting, Grand Crossing Turner hall, Seventy-fifth street and Dobson avenue, Tuesday evening, July 31, at 8 o'clock. The speakers will be John R. Thompson, candidate for county treasurer, and Francis W. Parker, candidate for congress. Senator Parker will discuss Mr. Mann's record and his own, particularly on the question of capital and labor. Mr. Mann already has spoken and it is understood will speak again in Grand Crossing attempting to stem the tide.'

"Now, Mr. Parker knows that that last statement is a flagrant lie. If you see the tide through his eyes, it is rolling up like a mountain, but it's only mist. Mr. Parker is a rich man, and I am a poor one, but I'd spend the last nickel I have to advertise my meeting legitimately, before I would resort to this kind of tactics."

Mr. Mann took up the labor question. He detailed his work for the establishment of the commerce and labor department, and said he was the originator of the bureau of corporations.

After the reading of the Roosevelt letter Mr. Mann commented:

"And I'd rather have the opinion of Theodore Roosevelt's little finger than that of the pin head on Mr. Parker's shoulders."

Union Unanimously Commends Proposal to Impose Death Penalty on Men Who Assault Women and Girls.

Ald. Herlihy's fight against assailants of women was approved unanimously last night by the steamfitters' union, which met at 166 Madison street. Resolutions were adopted commending the proposal to make capital punishment the retribution for miscreants who insult girls and women.

Some of the men at the meeting went even further than the alderman, and urged that assailants of women should be burned at the stake.

The resolutions adopted were introduced by Fred E. Black, and were directly opposed to the sentiment expressed by the steam engineers at their last meeting when they expelled the alderman from the union because he introduced the capital punishment measure in the city council.

Official notice of the application of the steam fitters' helpers for a charter in Chicago was read to the members. The helpers are supposed to be led in their fight for admission to the national organization by "Skinny" Madden, although his name was not referred to in the application. After some discussion a committee was appointed to decide on plans by which the helpers may be admitted.

Cornelius P. Shea, national president of the teamsters' union, and L. T. Hughes, secretary, arrived at the Sherman house at night. The fourth annual convention of the national union will open next Monday in Chicago. Shea hopes to be reelected president. Albert Young of Chicago has announced himself a candidate for the position.

The local council of the Iron Molders' union yesterday sent out circulars to all similar unions in the United States asking them to warn all union and nonunion men alike to keep away from the iron molding shops of Chicago on account of the strike in this city.

CAMP CLOSES WITH PARADE.

Desplaines Services Ended by Observance of Annual Custom—300 Converted During Meeting.

Shouts, songs, and prayer marked the parade of the Methodist campers at Desplaines last evening, signaling the close of the forty-seventh annual services. They have made 300 converts. The parade, an annual observance, was in charge of Capt. J. R. Fitch, who led the camp colony in a circular tour of the tents and tabernacle, the ministers and elders in the lead.

SHUNS NEW OFFER OF FEDERAL JOB.

DIDN'T 'MAKE GOOD' ONCE.

Yates Supporters Active in His District; Mayor and Carey Confer.

Lieut. Gov. Lawrence Y. Sherman, who already has ground for a breach of promise suit against Senator Cullom, Senator Hopkins, John Ames, William A. Northcott et al. of the federal organization, has been tempted with a second proposal from the same gay deceivers.

This time Mr. Sherman, ripe in the experience gained last year at the state fair, refused to be cajoled. This is not the lieutenant governor's first "season," and being no longer an innocent and coy young person he has learned to cast the eye of suspicion and distrust on the blandishments of men.

He was offered another federal appointment last week by the men who promised to connect him with the interstate commerce commission, where he was to have the position vacated by former Gov. Joseph Fifer of Illinois.

The fact that the second appointment was offered is admitted. What it was to be is not disclosed and may not have been to Sherman, but it is thought to have been an attorneyship in connection with a federal commission.

Deaf to Further Cajolery.

Mr. Sherman said "no" right off the bat to this second proposal from the men who abused his trusting confidence in the matter of the interstate commerce commission. He will not sue for breach of promise on that incident, but he will not lend the willing ear to further cajolery.

Reports from Sherman's congressional district, the Fourteenth, have not filled the Cullom managers with unbounded confidence. They have learned that the Yates managers are making a fight in Sherman's own county, McDonough, which promises bad news, and that in several other counties the situation is even worse.

Sherman's ability to carry his district for his own purposes never has been questioned, and to the federal organization it seemed like ingratitude for the man to whom had been promised a nice federal appointment to neglect the interests of the promisers there. To be sure, the position was not given him, but it was a good promise.

It was thought that Mr. Sherman might show more agility in the cause if he were made another promise, and therefore the Cullom managers made it. Mr. Sherman gave them one reproachful look and declined to consider it.

Randall Shows Hand by Letter.

A complete explanation of the game now being played by the Randall-Jamieson-Braden republicans in the Sixth ward is carried in the letters now being sent out by Mr. Randall, incidentally under the letterheads of the board of assessors. Mr. Randall is a candidate for county treasurer.

Here is what Mr. Randall says of his own candidacy:

"You were kind enough to sign my petition and pledge me your support for renomination for the office of assessor. If I secure a majority of the delegates from the Sixth ward I will be renominated. If I do not secure a majority of the delegates and Mr. Thompson does I will not be renominated."

There is nothing in the letter, and there is nothing in anything Mr. Randall says elsewhere, to indicate that he is a candidate for county treasurer, and yet that is the office for which he is running.

Mr. Randall will not be renominated for the board of assessors, but if he does get the delegates he will be chosen county committeeman to succeed Mr. Thompson.

Candidates to Be Announced.

Gov. Deneen will return to Chicago today for the closing series of conferences with his party leaders preceding the primaries. It is announced as the purpose of the republican leaders to make known their selections for municipal court judges in advance of the municipal convention. By this means it is expected to head off criticism which might follow the election of municipal convention delegates in the dark.

Dunne and Carey Confer.

Mayor Dunne and Tom Carey took up a discussion of politics during the day, but explained afterwards that the subject was the general one of harmony for the primaries and did not relate to mayoralty affairs. Mayor Dunne was asked if he was a candidate for renomination, and replied:

"I have nothing to say."

Walter Clyde Jones, the Deneen candidate for the state senate to succeed Francis W. Parker in the Fifth district, has issued a statement in which he says that his opponent, H. R. Rathbone, has declared his intention of voting for one of the United States senatorial candidates, without regard to the popular vote.

Richard Yates will speak in the Twenty-fifth ward, Pease territory, tomorrow night at Belmont hall, Belmont avenue and North Clark street.

Senator Cullom was the guest of the Hamilton club at luncheon, former Gov. Richard Yates having been present at a noonday affair last week. Mr. Cullom made a speech without getting into political subjects.

CHARGES AGAINST MANN CITED BY STATE SENATOR PARKER.

Opponent of Congressman Issues Statement to Second District Voters Summarizing Accusations.

State Senator Francis W. Parker submitted yesterday to the voters of the Second congressional district, where he is a candidate against Congressman James R. Mann, a statement giving a résumé of the charges he has brought against his opponent and of the answers and defense he alleges the congressman has made to each.

This statement says:

"To the republican voters of the Second congressional district: The new primary law compels consideration of candidates' records.

"I have said that Mr. Mann is a member of the Lorimer-Jamieson-Braden-Porter-Randall machine—he admits it; that they form the backbone of his political support—he admits it; that his victory will be their victory—no one denies it.

"I have said that he is a member of the Aldrich-Elkins-Lorimer political group at Washington, whose delay of great remedial legislation like rate regulation and pure food and activity in passing pro-trust legislation like the 'Elkins-Mann' anti-punishment and the packers' 'immunity bath' bills threatens the success and even existence of the republican party.

"He admits and justifies his action on the 'anti-punishment' and 'immunity bath' bills, although they have since been repudiated and changed by congress. He admits that he voted for Mr. Lorimer's amendment to the meat inspection bill which President Roosevelt declared to be 'very, very bad.'

"I have said that he engineered the mileage claim of $190,000 for expenses never incurred—he admits it.

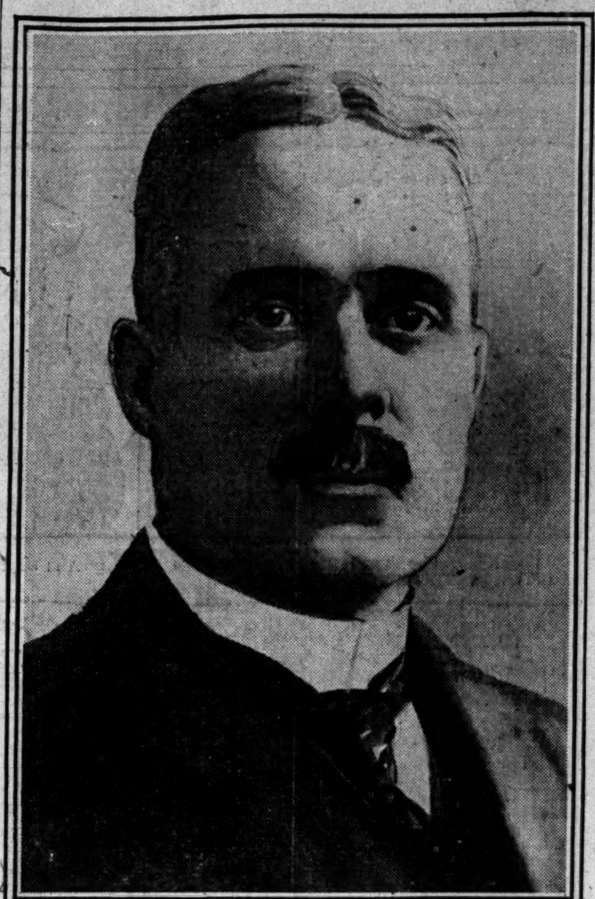

"I have said that he has used tens of thousands of dollars of public service franking what is plainly campaign literature in this contest to influence voters—nobody can deny it.

"Mr. Mann accuses me of being a trustee of the university. I admit it, but it has always been at the expense of time and money to me."

DARES CULLOM TO PLEDGE

YATES PROPOSES JOINT PROMISE AS TO PRIMARY VOTE.

Under Arrangement Proposed One Receiving Fewer Ballots Next Saturday Would Retire Finally from the Contest—Meeting a Whirlwind of Enthusiasm for the Ex-Governor, More than 1,500 People Present—Bishop Samuel Fallows Speaks.

Richard Yates challenged Senator Cullom last evening to stand by his assertion that he is "just going to leave it to the people."

"There are a dozen or fifteen questions that I have been propounding to Senator Cullom during the last two weeks," said the former governor at a meeting in Oakley hall, Oakley avenue and West Madison street. "Now I am going to ask him a new one. Here it is:

"Senator Shelby M. Cullom, will you, I doing the same, stand on some platform in the city of Chicago and pledge the people of Chicago that if I get more votes than you do next Saturday you will withdraw from the senatorial contest?

"I have received no answers to my former questions and I predict that I shall receive no answer to this. But I read every day in newspapers controlled by Cullom that 'he's just going to leave it to the people. If that is the case is it not the reasonable thing to withdraw if he fails to win the approval of the people? Is it not fair? I think it is."

Whirlwind of Enthusiasm.

The meeting was a whirlwind of Yates enthusiasm. More than 1,500 people crowded into the little hall, filling the seats and clogging the aisles, and listening with unflagging attention through two solid hours of speechmaking.

An unexpected feature of the meeting was the presence of Bishop Samuel Fallows, who preceded the former governor and gave him the most enthusiastic indorsement the candidate has received from any Chicagoan. At the close of the meeting Col. Jules Lumbard, the "war time minstrel," sang "America," much to the delight of half a dozen civil war veterans in the front row.

In his speech the former governor laid special emphasis on his plea for recognition from Chicago voters in return for his aid to Gov. Deneen in the republican state convention of 1904.

Yates' Claim on Chicago.

"I am in the city of Chicago tonight," he said, "because I think my friends have some claim on this city.

"At the republican state convention in 1904 I had some friends. I even had some delegates. And on the seventy-ninth ballot in that convention 404 of them voted, at my request, for Charles S. Deneen. When they did that my friends did more to bring about what Chicago wanted in state politics than you here in Chicago did in ten years.

"Moreover, I make this assertion: When my 404 delegates voted at my request for Deneen I did more for Chicago than Senator Cullom has done in his lifetime. Shelby M. Cullom was in full control in Illinois politics from 1876 to 1890 and has had power over a faction of the party during the ten years since then. Although he has had this power for thirty years, he has never helped Chicago to get or have a governor.

"Chicago had a governor in 1876. His name was John L. Beveridge. He was a Christian gentleman, as well as a good soldier, and he was a good governor. He deserved a renomination, and by all the laws of politics it was his right. But it was taken away from him by another, and that other was Shelby M. Cullom.

"Chicago then lost the governorship, and it didn't get it back for twenty-eight years—until poor, despised Dick Yates came to the rescue with his 404 delegates, nominated a Chicago governor, and in so doing frustrated an able bodied and all but consummated conspiracy to nominate for governor some man safely away from Chicago, and, therefore, less apt to heed the people and press of Chicago than the edicts of the senatorial despotism."

Indorsed by Bishop Fallows.

"If Richard Yates asks any office at your hands," said Bishop Fallows, "you can fully trust him, through and through, and he will never betray your interests. I know him thoroughly, and I know that he is a worthy son of a worthy sire. If he is elected a United States senator you will find no boodle attached to him—none of the criticism that may be justly made about some senators of vast wealth who have made their circuitous golden ways into the public favor. There was no governor prior to Yates who was cleaner or more loyal than he. Therefore, I am with him heart and soul."

R. H. Stephens was chairman of the meeting. Today at noon the former governor will hold the first noon meeting of his campaign in the Chicago opera house.

GUS NOHE AUTHOR OF BOOK

LORIMER PAMPHLET HAS PRINTED TITLE, THAT'S ALL.

Inside Nothing but Blank Pages Are Seen—Contents Supposed to Indicate How Much Friestedt Knows of Filling the Office of Congressman—Democratic Petitions Are Examined by Workers—Statement Issued to Voters.

The versatile Gus Nohe has added to his accomplishments by blossoming out as an author. He has sought modestly to sink his own identity in his literary work, which is just off the presses, and has used the name of L. P. Friestedt, candidate against Lorimer for congress in the Sixth district. The title of his new work is:

WHAT I KNOW
About Filling
by L. P. FRIESTEDT,
170 South Central Park avenue,
Chicago.

Inside Only Blank Paper.

The title page is followed by fourteen pages of perfectly good white paper, which stare at the inquisitive reader thus:

This neat joke of the festive Gus is much applauded in the Lorimer headquarters in the Rookery building, and they are thinking of making him poet laureate to write an epic describing the battle when Battling Billy and the Pride of the Yards meet in joint debate.

Friestedt Men Inspect Petitions.

Mr. Friestedt's followers also are engaged in literary pursuits, but theirs run in the direction of research and not of original composition. They are examining the signatures to numerous democratic petitions which have been filed with the county clerk and the secretary of state. Their work already has borne fruit, and they have discovered that some of the men who are taking a prominent part in the Lorimer campaign have disqualified themselves from voting the republican ticket by signing the petitions of candidates of another party.

At his meeting last night Mr. Friestedt said: "These pages may be blank, but they are white, and they will find no stain on my record. I am in the middle of the road and I intend to stay there."

In this connection a statement to the voters of the district was issued during the day by John E. Holland, chairman of the Friestedt executive committee, in which it is said:

"We expect attempts at fraud from the now frightened and desperate political bosses whose careers have been shown up by investigations of the Citizens' association. Wholesale voting by hired democrats will be used to defeat the will of the people."

TELLS OF SUICIDE IN NOTE.

Police Seek in Vain Body of Man Who Left Letter to His Sweetheart.

A note, which told of the intention of the writer to end his life in the lake, was found late last night by South Park Policeman Michael Crowe at Harrison street, near the river.

The note reads as follows:

Dear Sweetheart Alva: I am going to the Forty-seventh street pier to drown myself tonight. Please let me stay where I am and do not drag the lake for me. Also do not let my mother know I am gone, for she will be crazy. Good-by, sweetheart, too late. JOE THEAS.

4242 Artesian avenue.

CORNED BEEF NOW LORIMER WEAPON

BIG CROWD IN TENT FED.

"Blond Boss" Declares Canned Meat Keeps Indefinitely Without Spoiling.

Congressman Lorimer's trust in packing house products was illustrated last night when he fed to the large audience which crowded his tent at 441 West Monroe street a can of corned beef which he declared was at least twenty years old and put up at the old Libby, McNeill & Libby plant at Sixteenth and State streets.

Along with this ancient can one only a few weeks old was opened, and those present ate the contents of both with evident relish. Should wholesale sickness develop in the neighborhood Mr. Lorimer will have himself to thank for the defeat which doubtless would follow.

The congressman from the Sixth district, however, did not confine himself to feeding the crowd with solid food. He devoted much of his time to a denunciation of former Senator William E. Mason, the champion of Luther P. Friestedt, Mr. Lorimer's opponent.

Mason's Letter Is Ignored.

No acceptance of the challenge for a joint debate, sent to the Lorimer headquarters in the afternoon by Mr. Mason, was announced, and it was unofficially given out by "Fire Escape" Gus Nohe that no attention would be paid to it by the congressman until he actually receives it.

After announcing that the meat inspection bill passed by the last congress was his own individual work, Mr. Lorimer declared that the inspection of meat in the big packing houses has been going on since 1891, and has never been unsatisfactory to the government, but that it was the sanitation which called forth the storm of disapproval during the last winter. The new bill, he also said, compelled inspection where it had been optional before.

The question of labeling the cans then came up, and, after explaining that Mr. Mason had been inquiring about the matter, the speakr produced the two cans before mentioned, and a corps of aproned assistants opened them and passed it out. He declared if meat was properly put up it would be as good at the end of a hundred years as in ten days.

Directing his attention to the former senator, Mr. Lorimer declared Mason's efforts before congress in behalf of the pure food bill last winter were not disinterested nor patriotic, but were actuated by purely business motives, and to prove this the speaker produced and read receipts signed by William E. Mason and given to H. B. Meyers, editor of the Pure Food Journal, for over $300.

Friestedt Threatened by Mail.

Luther P. Friestedt, Congressman Lorimer's opponent, declared at a meeting which he addressed last evening that threatening letters are sent him almost daily, and that he is advised to drop the campaign or he "never will mix in another one." Mr. Friestedt spoke at Forty-second and Colorado avenues.

DOG IS BARRED; LEAVE HOTEL.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Depart When Request for Small Bathtub Is Refused.

"If Pinkah cannot occupy our room, why, we won't stop here," and Clerk Robert Mann of the Palmer house was obliged to erase the names of Mr. and Mrs. Eduard Ludwig, Berlin, from the hotel register.

The two had reached the hotel early yesterday and were given apartments on the parlor floor. Soon after going to their rooms a bellboy was asked to "fetch a small bathtub so Pinkah can have his bath." Clerk Mann was told of the order, and ascertained that Pinkah was a diminutive Skye terrier.

He informed Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig the animal would have to be sent to the baggage room, and they left the hotel.

Clothes Shop Is Selling Summer Clothes at a Great Reduction.

We still have a few summer weight garments which we would sell at a reduction of one-third from our regular prices. The same class and styles of clothes included in this sale we readily sold during the season at prices from $20 to $50.

We have always made it a point to sell only the latest style clothes. We would not carry stock over from one season to another. It were better for us to sell them to our patrons at a discount of one-third, rather than sell them to the clothing stores to be sold by them next season.

TREASON CHARGE HITS DUMA HEADS

MANY FACE PRISON CELLS.

Armenians and Tartars Engage in Organized Warfare in South Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—The public prosecutor has started proceedings against the members of the lower house of parliament who signed the Viborg manifesto.

The charge under which the signers of the manifesto will be brought to trial is a violation of article 129 of the criminal code, which provides for "attempts to overthrow the existing government." This is virtually high treason. The maximum penalty is hard labor in the mines.

No arrests yet have been reported, and the constitutional democrats do not anticipate anything approaching punishment of their representatives. It is understood that the arrested will be admitted to bail pending trial. The constitutional democrats are chiefly apprehensive that the possibility of prosecution held over the heads of their leaders will render them ineligible for reelection, in the same manner that Prof. Milukoff and M. Hessel and others were excluded from the last lower house.

Socialist and radical members of the late house may have to cool their heels in cells for a long time and thus be prevented from continuing the full fledged revolutionary agitation upon which they now are embarked. Many of these ex-members now are living under cover in the houses of friends in St. Petersburg or have gone into hiding in the provinces. Two peasant ex-deputies have cut off their luxuriant hair and beards and scarcely can be recognized.

Government's Action Not Explained.

The motives of the government for abandoning its attitude not to prosecute the signers of the Viborg manifesto, as set forth recently by Premier Stolypin in an interview, is not stated, but evidently it was influenced by the need of doing something to counteract the effect of the Viborg address. This has attained an enormous circulation in the provinces, in spite of the greatest efforts on the part of the administration to prevent its publication. The government doubtless also desired to check the perfect flood of other manifestos which the radical members of the late house are putting forth in connection with the revolutionary organizations.

A manifesto to the peasants of Russia has been issued in the joint names of all the various labor, socialist, and revolutionary organizations, including the representatives of these organizations in the defunct lower house. This manifesto declares that the hopes reposed in the lower house of parliament have been blasted by the diabolical designs of the crowd of grand dukes, courtiers, and wealthy land proprietors assembled around the emperor, whose only purpose can be the maintenance of their power over the people. By dispersing the elected representatives of the people and arresting and imprisoning them the government has declared war on the nation, and a struggle is beginning in which rivers of blood will flow and for which the criminal government is responsible. The people must not spare the government.

Alleges Betrayal of People.

This manifesto further accuses the government of betraying the fatherland by invoking the aid of German and Austrian troops. The people therefore are urged to remove the local authority everywhere, to replace it with men elected by themselves and to confiscate all state funds. The troops also must conform to the orders of those elected by the people. The workmen in the towns, the peasantry, and all toilers must, in conjunction with the troops, seize the liberty and take the land which the government has denied them. The land thus possessed must be handed over to the popularly elected local authorities pending the elaboration of a new land law.

The manifesto calls for elections on the basis of universal suffrage and concludes with the words:

"Down with the government and the emperor! Long live the dear and free Russian people!"

WAR IN SOUTH RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 30.—Advices received here from Tiflis dated yesterday show that a regular campaign is progressing between Armenians and Tartars in that section. Yesterday large forces of Tartars attacked Askeran pass, which was occupied by Armenians, but were unable to break the Armenian cordon. Fighting is now going on in the villages of Haramurt, Haladad, and Karanlukh. The Tartars are concentrating against Askeran pass.

On July 27 Kurds attacked the villages of Kalbalikened and Kiermischan and were endeavoring to force an entrance into Shusha. At the latter place they were repulsed by Russian troops under Gen. Zoloschakov.

News received here from Yelisavetpol says that communication between Agdam and Shusha has been interrupted for five days. Firing between Armenians and Tartars continued from July 25 to July 28. The fighting near Shusha increased in severity on July 29 and resulted in the burning of the town. The government has dispatched reinforcements to the scene.

The rumor in circulation last night that Gen. Trepoff had been assassinated turns out to be as baseless as the report to the same effect which was current early last week.

Official Slain by Reds.

WARSAW, Russian Poland, July 30.—M. Burago, the leading official of the Sochatchev district, and a policeman who was escorting him were shot dead by revolutionists near here today in revenge for the part they had taken in the repression of the agrarian strike movement.

While the church of Wilanow, a suburb of Warsaw, was filled with worshipers today, an unknown person outside began firing rapidly with a revolver. A panic followed, the church service was broken up and the congregation, in a wild effort to escape, crowded on board a ferry boat, which sank, drowning five persons.

TO OUTDO DREADNOUGHT.

ITALIAN CONSTRUCTOR PLANNING TO ECLIPSE BIG WARSHIP.

Col. Cuniberti, Chief Builder of Emmanuel's Navy, Gives Bare Hint of Forthcoming Fighting Craft That He Promises Will Rout Anything That Floats — Declares Japanese War Proved Inefficacy of 12 Inch Guns.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 30.—According to an article contributed by Col. Cuniberti, chief constructor of the Italian navy, to a new issue of Janes' Fighting Ships for 1906-'07 Italy is building a battleship which is as great an advance on the Dreadnought, as the latter was on its predecessors.

The Dreadnought itself, it is contended, was based on ideas that Col. Cuniberti contributed to Janes' Fighting Ships for 1903, but Col. Cuniberti, who is perhaps the greatest living warship designer, holds the Russo-Japanese war proved twelve inch guns exceedingly unsatisfactory. It is deduced that he regards the Dreadnought as not being of the type best calculated to succeed in modern naval warfare.

Vessel with Greater Guns.

He outlines, although with cautious reserve, that a "new ideal ship has been found, the main armament of which will be eight 13.5 inch guns, each firing a 1,250 pound shot, against the Dreadnought's 850 pounds."

In addition its greater caliber guns will be so mounted as to enable all to be fired either singly or broadside, an arrangement that hitherto has not been adopted. This result will be achieved by placing four turrets, each containing two guns, at four angles of a rhombus—that is, two turrets will be on the center line, one forward, and one aft and the others each abeam.

Therefore, though the Dreadnought can fire at one discarge 5,100 pounds ahead or astern and 6,800 pounds in a broadside, the new ideal will fire 7,500 and 10,000 pounds respectively or 50 per cent more than the British ship. The Dreadnought's speed, too, will be exceeded by two and perhaps three knots.

The waterline armor on the Italian ship, too, will be thicker than the Dreadnought's.

Can Whip Dreadnought Easily.

Accepting the details as accurate, it is seen the ideal ship will be able to keep outside the danger zone of Dreadnought's gun fire and sink the latter while it will be unharmed.

The Daily Mail is making a feature of the foregoing, adding some information of its own. It declares the Dreadnought is outclassed at every point. It contends it will be useless to build two or three ships of the Dreadnought type, as is proposed, and urges Great Britain to outdo the ideal ship by building a similar vessel, but making its armament 16 inch guns.

ALFONSO TERRIFIES COURTIERS

Evades Them and Goes for Drive with Queen in Public Cab—Hides in Shop.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SAN SEBASTIAN, July 30.—Before embarking on the yacht Giralda for Santander, preparatory to embarking for England, King Alfonso indulged in one of his pranks with which he delights to terrify his anxious courtiers and heads of police.

Accompanied by Queen Victoria, he entered a small boat, but relanded and hailed a public cab. The driver recognized his majesty and asked: "Where to, your majesty?" Alfonso replied: "I'm not the king. He's aboard. I'm his brother. Take us for a quiet drive anywhere you like."

After the drive he stopped at a pastry cook's shop. He and the queen entered and went to a private room, where they had tea cakes. Passers saw them through the window, and a crowd gathered, whereupon the king pulled down the blind. The couple finished their tea and embarked in the late evening.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

PETROPOLIS, Brazil.—Secretary Root and Lloyd C. Griscom, American ambassador to Brazil, were entertained at luncheon by baron de Rio Branco, minister of foreign affairs. A diplomatic dinner was given by Minister Griscom at the embassy this evening. Secretary Root conferred with the American delegates to the Pan-American congress today.

WINDSOR, Eng.—Second Lieut. John Jacob Astor, son of William Waldorf Astor, rescued a trooper of his regiment, the First Life Guards, from drowning in the River Thames.

BERLIN—Allison V. Armour, N. Y. Y. C., has authorized a denial of the oft repeated report that Emperor William has purchased his auxiliary schooner yacht Utowana.

LONDON.—The Daily Telegraph says a meeting between King Edward and Emperor William has been definitely arranged to take place in Germany the coming autumn.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL TO RESIGN AS MOVE FOR PEACE.

Government Then Will Appoint New Municipal Body, Which Will Choose Executive — Incoming Legislative List Will Be Made Up of Moderates, Nunes Supporters, and One Liberal —Waste of Public Funds Charged Against Old Administration.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, July 30.—The municipal embroglio over the ayuntamiento is about to be settled by the resignation of the mayor and council and the appointment by the government of a new council consisting of twenty, one moderate, six Nunez men, and one liberal. The new councilmen will elect a mayor, but it is understood they will choose men who have confidence in the government. The outgoing ayuntamiento and the previous one cause much complaint. Two councilmen now are being prosecuted on a charge of malfeasance, the outcry in general being that the city's money is being squandered in many ways and the interests of the city not safeguarded.

KAISER PROBES ARMY BRIBE.

Orders Searching Inquiry Into Charge That Maj. Fischer Benefited from Supply Contract.

BERLIN, July 30.—Emperor William has ordered a searching investigation into the case of Maj. Fischer, who was attached to the headquarters staff in German southwest Africa, and who has been arrested on the charge of receiving bribes from firms selling war supplies.

It appears from details published this morning that Maj. Fischer had been receiving money for years from the firm which has the monopoly of supplying the colonial forces in German southwest Africa. This money was given nominally as loans, and, according to the press reports, the total of the sums paid finally reached $25,000.

Maj. Fischer's salary was $2,000 a year. There was no prospect whatever of his ever returning the loans.

RUSH THE WELLMAN AIRSHIP.

Forty Men Working in Preparation for Attempt to Reach Pole—May Start in August.

SPITZBERGEN, Tuesday, July 24, via Tromsoe, Norway, July 30.—Forty men are working day and night to get the airship of the Wellman expedition started toward the north pole this summer. The big balloon house will be finished in a fortnight.

Allowing ten days for inflation and trials, the monster airship may be able to start for the north pole the latter part of August. Everything depends on the weather, which, so far, has been good.

There have been many visitors to the headquarters of the expedition at Spitzbergen, including the prince of Monaco on his yacht, Princess Alice, and the passengers of two tourists steamers. All have expressed amazement at the amount of work already accomplished.

MARIE CORELLI AS SHE IS.

First Official Portrait of Writer Appears as Frontispiece to Latest Book.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 30.—The first official portrait of Marie Corelli appears today as a frontispiece to her latest work, "Treasure in Heaven." Miss Corelli says in the preface:

"Owing to the fact that various gross and, I think I may say, libelous and fictitious misrepresentations of me have been freely and unwarrantably circulated in Great Britain, the colonies, and America, it appears advisable that an authentic likeness of myself as I truly am today should now be issued."

"It simply is that to myself the personal self of me is nothing."

PASSES THE EDUCATION BILL.

English House of Commons Acts Favorably Upon Measure—Lords Discuss Irish Cottages Measure.

LONDON, July 31, 3 a. m.—The education bill has passed its third reading in the house of commons by a majority of 192. The Irish laborers cottages bill passed the committee stage in the house of lords at an early hour this morning after several amendments against the government had been carried by large majorities. The colonial marriages bill has passed its second reading in the house of commons.

2 MEN MAROONED 154 FEET IN AIR.

Chimney Builders Caught in Big Flue, with Only Plank to Stand Upon.

TEAR SHIRTS INTO STRING

Pull Up Long Rope and Slide to Safety After Five Hours and a Half.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Two men were held prisoners inside the new reinforced concrete chimney at Milliken Bros.' steel plant at Mariners' Harbor, S. I., for five and a half hours this afternoon. They were on a plank 6 feet long by 2 feet wide ten feet from the top of the chimney, which is 164 feet high.

Their rescue was effected after a long struggle by other employes and members of the fire department, who were called to aid in getting the men down. The prisoners on the chimney were Harry Towyne, foreman of the job, and Conried Briol, his assistant. Both are expert chimney builders.

The work had been practically finished when the men went up to do some cementing near the top. A ladder 168 feet long in twelve foot sections had been rigged up inside the chimney. Towyne and Briol climbed up this at 1 o'clock.

Rip Up Scaffold Floor.

They cemented the top or rim of the chimney, then climbed down to a scaffolding that had been built ten feet below the top, when a small ladder they had used in reaching the top dropped. Towyne and Briol began to rip up the floor of the scaffolding. They had ripped up all the timbers but one—the largest—the centerpiece of the scaffold. They stood on this as they dropped the last of the other boards.

The last plank they dropped didn't go straight to the bottom, but struck on the side of the chimney and, glancing, crashed heavily into an upright ladder some distance below the two men. The force of the plank snapped the ladder and the upper half of it tumbled in a heap below.

The two men found themselves marooned high up with only a plank two feet wide to stand on. They cried for help for what seemed to them days. About 5 o'clock the other workmen around the plant walked into the chimney ground level and heard the cries of the two prisoners.

Big Crowd Gives Advice.

News of the men's plight spreads quickly. Soon a large crowd was at the bottom of the big flue. All sorts of schemes for getting them down were advanced.

While the crowd was collecting, among them members of a fire company, the marooned men were trying to help themselves. They made their shirts into a thin tape line and lowered it 154 feet to the bottom of the chimney. With this they drew up an inch rope, their idea being to slide down on it on the inside after throwing one end of it out the top of the chimney and having it anchored to something solid.

Rope Sticks, Won't Budge.

But when they threw the end over the top of the chimney it stuck in the soft concrete and would not budge either way.

When the men had got the rope they thought themselves all right and dropped their shirt made line. Their knives went with it.

They were nonplused for a minute. Then they began making another thin line out of their undershirts. With this they drew up a fishline, then another inch rope. They successfully threw this out the top of the chimney and the end was fastened to a railroad track on the ground.

The men in turn slid down the rope, but badly burned their hands in doing so.

KILLS SELF WITH DYNAMITE.

Wellington, Kas., Youth, Crossed in Love, Blows Self to Atoms on Main Street of Town.

Wellington, Kas., July 30.—[Special.]—Disappointed in love, a young man named Graham D. Gibbs today tied a package of dynamite around his neck, lighted the fuse, and blew himself to atoms on the main street of Wellington. His act was witnessed by scores of people, who realized what he was doing but were helpless to save him.

When Gibbs called on Miss Rosa Gaubet last night he was asked to leave by the girl's mother. He told a friend that he could not live without Miss Gaubet and was going to kill himself. He appeared on the streets early this morning carrying a package which proved to be dynamite. He stopped in front of the Wellington National bank and lighted the fuse.

The spectators stood at a safe distance awe stricken by the impending tragedy. As the fuse burned close to Gibbs he suddenly seemed to realize he was on the verge of a terrible death and strove desperately to free himself from the dynamite.

The ground for blocks around was strewn with particles of the body and clothing of the wretched man. A large hole was torn in the street where he stood, and many windows were shattered.

REPORTS STEAMER FOUNDERED

Rumor Says Austrian Ship Carolina Went to the Bottom in Gulf of Mexico.

Pensacola, Fla., July 30.—It was rumored here today that the Austrian steamer Carolina, Capt. Bartolich, which cleared from this port on July 24 for Marseilles, Spezzia, and Venice, had foundered somewhere in the Gulf of Mexico.

Later another rumor was in circulation that the vessel had gone aground on one of the Florida keys. Careful inquiry fails to confirm either report. The vessel sailed from here with a cargo of phosphate, cedar slats, and barrels of tallow.

It is a new vessel and of the most modern construction. It is not believed by the consignors of the cargo, the Gulf Transit company, that there is anything in the report. No definite advices have been received.

25 CENT GAS IS POSSIBILITY.

Kansas City Aldermen Pass Ordinance Granting Franchise to Two Chicago Promoters.

Kansas City, Mo., July 30.—Mayor Beardsley's gas ordinance, granting a thirty year franchise to J. B. Wilbur, president of the Royal Trust company of Chicago, and C. H. Randle, director of the same concern, passed the lower house of the city council tonight with several amendments. The measure passed the upper house of the council two weeks ago. The grantees are to supply natural gas for domestic purposes at a rate of 25 cents a thousand feet and to factories for 10 cents a thousand feet. The price of manufactured gas shall not exceed 75 cents. The city may assume control of the plant at the end of ten years.

OKU CHIEF OF JAP STAFF.

Besieger of Port Arthur and Victor in Number of Battles Succeeds Late Gen. Baron Kodama.

TOKIO, July 30.—Gen. Oku has been appointed chief of the general staff of the Japanese army in succession to the late Gen. Baron Kodama, who died on July 22. Gen. Oku commanded the left army during the Russian-Japanese war, and achieved a series of brilliant victories, including Nanshan and Tieling. The army under his command isolated Port Arthur at a critical stage of the siege.

Happy Day for Invalid Children.

Off for the Afternoon Drive

The convalescent children at THE TRIBUNE'S summer hospital in West Chicago had a big day of it yesterday—a day they never will forget. In parties of four and five they were taken for long drives through the country.

At nearly every farmhouse along the road they were met by the farmer or his wife or his children, who gave them baskets of everything good that farmers raise out there and told they might take the baskets home with them. At some of the farms they were taken out into the fields and shown growing corn and blossoming potato plants; at other farms they were allowed to help milk the cows; and at still others they were shown how butter is made and allowed to try their hands at churning.

Most of the children never before had seen butter churned or been close enough to growing corn to see how it looks on the stalk, and their delight knew no bounds.

OIL KING LEAVES TARRYTOWN FOR HOME IN CLEVELAND.

Greets Archbold of Standard, Who Puts in Appearance at Depot Before Departure of Train and Two Magnates Engage in Earnest Conversation for Some Time—John D. Chats with Small Boy and Poses to Give Kodak a Chance.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 30.—[Special.]—If ever John D. Rockefeller was in good humor it was tonight when he departed for Cleveland on train 19, which is due here at 6:19. Mrs. Rockefeller, faithful John, and two servants made up the party.

Mr. Rockefeller drove down to the station about 5:30, and many were surprised to see him so early, as he generally allows himself but a few minutes to catch a train. While waiting he walked over to Riverside station and, meeting a little urchin, said:

"How are you my young man? Can you swim?"

The boy told him he could. Just then John D. Archbold came to the station. Excusing himself from the boy, Mr. Rockefeller turned and grasped Archbold's hand and welcomed him warmly.

Together they paced up and down the platform. Then, for fear some one would hear them, they went into the station and held an earnest conversation for nearly half an hour. While in the station Mr. Rockefeller was overheard to say:

"If I get arrested, John, I want you to come over and take care of me."

Affable to Archbold.

Then there was talk of "planning a big trolley company." Just before train time Rockefeller and Archbold emerged from the station and Rockefeller led Archbold across the tracks by the hand, then taking his arm they walked south of the station. Mr. Rockefeller talked earnestly and explained things with his hands and arms and would look up into Archbold's face in a serious way. His manner was so friendly toward Archbold that a lad, clad only in overalls, said:

"Gee, I wish I had some one to think as much of me as Rockefeller thinks of Archbold."

Mrs. Rockefeller came to the station with a maid about 10 minutes ahead of time and buried herself walking up and down the station platform. She wore a suit of gray with an empire waist and black hat, trimmed with flowers. She wore a small black boa around her neck. Her husband wore striped trousers, black coat, straw hat, and carried an umbrella. He talked with Archbold until the train was coming into the station, when he went forward to Mrs. Rockefeller, and said, "Come, mother," and helped her aboard the train. Just before the train came in he was asked to say something, but he laughed and said he guessed the public was tired of hearing about him.

Gets Laugh on Archbold.

Seeing a reporter was ready to snap his picture, he beckoned him to snap and even held the train and delayed, helping Mrs. Rockefeller to pose. However, it was so dark the snap failed. As the train was pulling out he waved to Archbold and took off his hat to say good-by. Just then a reporter approached Archbold, and Rockefeller, seeing the move, laughed heartily. He beckoned to the reporter to snap Mr. Archbold, at which the latter laughed.

"Mr. Archbold, it would be good news if I knew what you and Mr. Rockefeller were talking about," said the reporter.

"I know it would," replied the Standard Oil vice president, "but you will have to guess at it."

"Did you talk about the Standard Oil cases?"

"No; they have been all thrashed out."

"Is there any truth in the story Mr. Rockefeller will be arrested when he gets to Cleveland?"

"None whatever. Mr. Rockefeller will not be troubled by the courts."

WEDS CHICAGOAN IN SECRET.

Muskegon Girl Announces Marriage to Jesse W. Evans—Chinaman and "Black Devils" Mentioned.

Muskegon, Mich., July 30.—[Special.]—Lucille Brocke, the 17 year old daughter of Dr. Alfred Brocke, a Muskegon physician, today startled Muskegon by publicly acknowledging that she was secretly married to Jesse W. Evans of Chicago in that city on March 30.

Only two months ago she announced her alleged engagement to Lee Joy of Chicago, one of the country's wealthiest Celestials. Her parents now want a divorce, but the mother says her daughter is in the power of a mysterious man, possessed with powerful "black devils" who holds a magnetic spell over her. He has, she says, caused the daughter to disclaim her own parents and leave home.

The alleged black devil possessor says all the parents want the divorce for is to remarry her to Lee Joy and receive $10,000.

INVENTOR SUES NEW YORKER FOR $27,500 FOR SERVICES.

Claims This Amount Is Due Him from Barton Sewell, Vice President of American Smelting and Refining Company, as He Had Persuaded First Wife to Make Agreement by Which Court Case and Publicity Were Avoided—Promised $30,000.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Barton Sewell, vice president of the American Smelting and Refining company, has been sued in the Supreme court by Joseph Blasco de Lery, an inventor, 132 Nassau street, to recover $27,250, with interest from Oct. 1, 1904. De Lery claims Mr. Sewell owes this amount for services he rendered in pursuading the first Mrs. Sewell to get a divorce with as little publicity as possible and without troubling a court to learn how many millions Mr. Sewell was worth.

Had Many Domestic Troubles.

De Lery acknowledged that Mr. Sewell has paid him $2,750. The inventor, through his counsel, Blandy Mooney and Shipman, served his complaint on Mr. Sewell in April last.

Sewell has had domestic troubles of various kinds in the last five years. Only the other day Mrs. Sewell No. 2, as she is known now, had her marriage annulled on the ground he had not been properly divorced from his first wife when he married her, No. 2.

Claims to Have Written Agreement.

De Lery says in his complaint that on June 15, 1904, he entered into a written agreement with Sewell by which De Lery was to receive $30,000 if he could negotiate an amicable agreement without publicity with wife No. 2, who was about to sue Sewell for divorce.

DETECTIVES TELL HOW THEY GOT MRS. HARTJE'S LETTERS.

Testify They Looted Coachman Madine's Trunk to Secure Love Billets Said to Be from Divorce Defendant.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—The sixth week of the Hartje divorce trial was begun today with the introduction of the long expected evidence regarding the way in which Augustus Hartje procured the forty love letters which his wife, Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, is alleged to have written to "Tom" Madine, the coachman, co-respondent in the case.

John B. Staubb, a private detective, swore that on two occasions he opened Madine's trunk at the house in which Madine roomed, May 31 and June 18. On the second occasion John A. Anderson, another detective, was with him. Staubb is the man who has been known as "Craig."

After the letters had been shown to Andrew Plisher, Hartje's brother-in-law, they were mailed by Staubb to Attorney J. Scott Ferguson, chief counsel for Hartje.

Staubb was unable to tell what other articles were in the trunk and several times became tangled under the fire of cross examination.

GIRL IN DETECTIVE ROLE.

Blanche J. Coleman Remembers Theater Tickets in Pocketbook, Goes to Playhouse, Follows Occupants of Seats, and Police Arrest Leo Hager —He Puts Blame on Stranger in Somber Garb, Whom Bluecoats Now Seek.

How a school teacher turned detective and traced the person who robbed her while she was sitting in Holy Name cathedral, State and Superior streets, came to light yesterday. She is Miss Blanche J. Coleman, 163 Homan avenue, and the police are searching for "the woman in black" who is believed to have robbed her. The police have made one arrest—Leo Hager—but he blames the deed on the mysterious woman.

After the robbery Miss Coleman went to the detective bureau and told her story. That proved to be time wasted, however. She said that while attending the church services a woman dressed in somber garb sat beside her. When she left the edifice she discovered the loss of her pocketbook.

Two persons who did not give their names informed Miss Coleman they had seen the woman in black take the purse.

Tracks Suspects by Tickets.

She heard nothing of the matter from the detective bureau, but on Friday suddenly remembered she had two theater tickets in the pocketbook. They were for that night and presuming the tickets would be used, Miss Coleman went to the theater and saw two women in the seats she had purchased. One of these was Mrs. Annie Price, 168 North Franklin street.

Miss Colemnn waited until the performance was over and followed the women to the home of Mrs. Price. Miss Coleman then went to detective headquarters and Detectives Griffin and Mullin were sent to the house. When they questioned Mrs. Price as to the manner in which she came into possession of the tickets she refused to talk.

Youth Puts Blame on Woman.

At this moment Leo Hager, 26 years old, who the police assert is a member of a gang of thieves that make a practice of robbing church worshipers in the vicinity of the cathedral, entered the room and admitted he had given the tickets to Mrs. Price.

Hager told the detectives that several days ago he went to a rooming house at 130 North Clark street, and while speaking to "Kid" McCarthy was introduced to a woman dressed in black who gave him the tickets.

According to Lieut. Rohan, more than $500 in jewelry and money has been stolen recently from members of the Holy Name parish.

The police were given a description of the strange woman and a search of the north side will be made to find her, meanwhile Hager is being held.

POSTPONES CRISIS IN CUMMINS FIGHT

State Committee Parleys in Deciding Contests in Delegations.

LIVELY TIME IS CERTAIN.

"Standpatters" May Be Turned Down; Youngsters Are for Governor.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Des Moines, Ia., July 30.—[Special.]—The republican state committee dodged the main issue in the Cummins fight today, but promises to meet it tomorrow. By a vote of 6 to 5, two members not voting, it ratified the action of Chairman Spence in calling the committee together to hear contests, but failed to decide the contests. It said it wanted to hear more evidence tomorrow.

As far as it goes, this is a victory for the anti-Cummins people. Cummins' adherents deny the right of the committee to pass on contests at all. But in order to do the "standpatters" any good, the committee has to go further and decide all contests in their favor.

There is a strong tip out tonight that the committee will balk. It is predicted the committee will hold for Perkins in some instances and for Cummins in others. If this happens the Cummins faction still will have a majority in the temporary organization.

That would stop all chance of two conventions. But it would not prevent an exceedingly lively one. The two sides would be so evenly balanced that every inch of ground would have to be fought. And everybody here feels like fighting. It is going to be a stirring convention whatever happens.

"Standpatters" Control Committee.

That a majority of the committee is in sympathy with the "standpatters" was shown all through the proceedings today. But at the same time the Perkins advocates made so sorry a showing in the only contest which was really heard—from Dallas county—and a "protest" from Boone, that the idea got out that a majority would refuse to go through with the "stand pat" program as the leaders of that faction want. Should the majority have its backbone stiffened overnight, though, and stand for the program tomorrow, then the long predicted bolt can be looked for.

Dallas county made the news of the committee meeting. T. J. Bevington of Woodbury county, personal representative of Perkins, appeared for the contestants. G. W. Clarke, speaker of the lower house of the last legislature, who lives in Dallas, at once challenged the authority of the committee to hear the contest. In doing so he made a point which will be fully debated tomorrow.

Then he followed with an assertion that the Perkins people—naming Bevington for one—had used money to bribe residents of Dallas county to get up an affidavit on which the contest was based.

Bevington Admits Charges.

Clarke so far proved his case as to secure acknowledgment from Bevington that one man had been paid "for his time" and that Bevington, although not a resident of the county, had sat in the county convention under a proxy.

The legal point Clarke made was that, allowing it is the custom of republican national conventions to have the national committee make up temporary rolls of conventions, still it has been the universal rule that the committee cannot go behind the returns and must accept the credentials when regular.

In Dallas, as in most other contested counties, the Cummins delegates are the only ones holding credentials of any kind. Speaker Clarke contended that if they are unseated the rule that the committee cannot go behind the returns must be broken and the committee set up authority to pass on the legality of every county convention.

"If this can be done," said the speaker, "it lies in the power of this committee to say arbitrarily who shall sit in Wednesday's convention, a power no committee, state or national, has ever claimed."

Say Cummins Voted Democrats.

The assertion made by the "standpatters" was that in Dallas enough democrats voted in one township primary to change the complexion of the delegation of fifteen to the county convention and that these fifteen made the difference between the Cummins and Perkins majority. Bevington had an affidavit from a man named Galbraith asserting this to be a fact.

Then Speaker Clarke unloaded an affidavit from a man named Hutchins that he had been called before Bevington and offered money if he would furnish an affidavit similar to the Galbraith one, but that he refused, although being paid $2 for his time. Clarke produced another affidavit from a man named Weems that a like offer had been made to him, and that he had seen the money paid to Galbraith.

"Now," said Clarke, "nobody heard anything about these democrats voting until the day after the primary, when Bevington and 'Charlie' Johnson of Des Moines appeared in Dallas and incited a contest. Two which they persuaded residents of the county to start, were withdrawn before the convention met and it was not until the permanent organization that anybody in the convention, unless it was Bevington, who sat under a proxy, knew a contest was intended."

Boone County Protests.

The Boone "protest" brought forth indignant objection of another sort from the delegates from the county. Bevington did not claim any Perkins delegates in that county, but asserted that, as the call for the county convention only provided for the election of delegates to a congressional convention, it had no power to select delegates to a state convention.

"It is true," replied Judge S. R. Dyer, "that the call only provided for delegates to a congressional convention. But general attention was called to the fact as soon as it was issued. Letters appeared in the local papers making it plain that delegates to the state convention would have to be chosen, and the fact was thoroughly advertised before the primaries were held. Every republican in the county knew of the mistake in the call."

"Who issued the call?" asked Chairman Spence.

"A lawyer who was then chairman of the county committee, but who soon after left us and is now a rival of Bevington in Sioux City," replied Judge Dyer with a smile.

"I have said the call was a mistake. But my idea is it was something more serious. Every republican in Boone county knows the community is overwhelmingly for Cummins. The question is whether the county is to be disfranchised on account of this 'mistake' or worse of a former chairman of the committee."

Big Contest on Boards Today.

The Scott county contest is to be heard tomorrow. This is a big one, as Scott has thirty-five delegates. Dallas has eighteen and Boone twenty. All three must be decided in favor of the "standpatters" to give them a majority in the temporary organization.

Delegates came to town fast today, and Cummins and Perkins badges were in evidence everywhere. The Perkins ones bore "O. B." in large letters. It was explained that they stood for Oyster Bay, indicating the "standpat" position on the tariff question. Cummins humorists asserted the letters meant "out of business." One veteran of the civil war, wearing one, said:

"I guess they mean 'old boys.' The youngsters all seem to be wearing the Cummins ones."

This is almost generally true, for it would be possible to tell the members of the two factions apart by ages if they wore no badges.

The "standpatters" had a massmeeting in Y. M. C. A. hall this evening. It was well attended. The speakers were Congressmen Hepburn, Lacey, and Cousins, James Berryhill, George D. Perkins, Maj. Rathbun, and "Lafe" Young.

RUSH FOR SALOON PERMITS

KEEPERS HURRY TO AVOID FAILURE UNDER HARKIN LAW.

Ordinance Limiting Number of Bars Goes Into Effect Tomorrow—Office Buildings and Proposed Hotels May Be Without Buffets Under Measure's Provisions—7,174 Applications Granted Up to Last Night, a Decrease Over Last Year.

Until Chicago's population nearly doubles it apparently will be impossible for the city to issue any more saloon licenses after today. The Harkin saloon limitation ordinance goes into effect tomorrow, and the saloonkeepers who want to start in business before the law bars them out were busy yesterday. Many of them personally took their applications to have them approved by the police.

There are nearly 200 applications in the hands of the city collector to be examined. Unless these are approved by tonight no licenses can be issued. There have been 7,147 saloon licenses issued up to last night, of which 6,389 were renewals, seven for the full year, and 778 new saloons. Last year the total number of saloon licenses was 8,007.

Lewis Uncertain Regarding Question.

New office buildings under construction in the loop district may have to get along without buffets unless the licenses prove transferable. Corporation Counsel Lewis was asked for an opinion on this matter. He sidestepped the question. George Eckels, attorney for the Commercial National Bank building, called on the attorney. He explained that in the new bank structure provision had been made for a buffet, but that it would not be completed until after the limitation ordinance had barred all future saloons. Eleven large buildings in the downtown district are in a similar predicament. The proposed Otto Young hotel, the proposed Belfeld hotel, and the proposed Sebree hotel are in the number.

Speculate on Bar Licenses.

"On the other hand, if exceptions are made in favor of these big office buildings it is likely there will be considerable complaint by a great many persons in outlying districts who also have made advance applications for saloon licenses without having their saloon buildings ready."

A combination recently formed among saloonkeepers, politicians, distillers, and brewers to corner as many of the saloon licenses available and sell them after today has met with some success.

FUGITIVE MOTHER AND TWINS WILL BE DEPORTED TO RUSSIA

Absence of Judges Prevents Immigration Authorities from Delaying Action—Faces Peril by Riots.

Four federal judges, on their vacations, probably are responsible, through the simultaneous absence from the city, for the deportation this morning of Mrs. Czarne Feierstein and her 8 year old twins to Russia, whence they fled, in terror of the riots, less than a year ago.

The three had been admitted to the United States on the perjured affidavit of a man who claimed Mrs. Feierstein was his mother. As soon as the family passed at Ellis Island he eloped with the eldest daughter and disappeared. This left the mother helpless, and she was traded to Chicago by the immigration authorities and arrested.

Then Probation Officer Minnie Jacobs, who had become interested in the case, undertook to find a federal judge who could stay the summary deportation proceedings, a local society having indicated its willingness to give a bond guaranteeing that Mrs. Feierstein would not become a public charge. Courtrooms and chambers in the federal building were all closed, and Miss Jacobs spent the afternoon in an unsuccessful hunt for the absent four at their homes. An injunction alone could stop the authorities.

She appealed for more time, but Immigration Inspector Schubert announced that he would have to start for New York with the family at 10:05 o'clock this morning. Then she decided to risk an early morning trip to Highland Park after Judge Grosscup, only to learn that he, too, was away, in Cincinnati.

CREDITORS SEEK PROPERTY OF OFTEN MARRIED WOMAN.

Trustee in Bankruptcy of Grace Snell-Coffin-Walker-Layman-Love Files Suit Against Estate of Her Mother.

Creditors of Mrs. Grace Snell-Coffin-Coffin-Walker-Coffin-Layman-Love, daughter of Amos J. Snell, who was murdered years ago in Chicago, yesterday sought possession of property located in Cook county, and valued at $76,000, which is part of the estate of her mother.

The proceedings were begun in the United States Circuit court by Attorney Russell Whitman for C. J. Richards of Racine, Wis., trustee for Mrs. Love's bankrupt estate. The proceedings are for the ejectment of trustees the tenants of the property. Trustee Richards claims an interest in the property for Mrs. Love as an heir of her father and if he is successful Mrs. Love's creditors will be benefitted.

The proceeding means that the question will be tried in the United States court whether Mrs. Love has any equity in the estate of her mother. The tenants of the property involved are J. L. Johnson, Otto Larson, Emil Youngquist, Alfred Johnson, and Fred Fried.

CHICAGO BEST SHIPPING POINT.

Large Metal Manufacturing Plant to Be Moved Here from Cincinnati Soon.

Excellent shipping facilities to be obtained here are given as reasons by M. W. Williams for the removal of a large manufacturing plant from Cincinnati to Chicago. Mr. Williams, who is at the Palmer house, said yesterday:

"I am the general sales agent for a large metal and steel manufacturing concern at Cincinnati, and have come to Chicago to establish our business here. Chicago has water and rail connections second to none in the United States, and if this deep waterway goes through there is no telling how far down into Illinois Chicago will be extended, and we want to get in on the ground floor before the rush comes."

Chicago is to be made the principal shipping point for pine lumber from the Bahama Islands. For this mission E. Hollenbeck of Bahama is in Chicago.

"If we can secure proper conditions lumber will be sent direct to Chicago for a principal shipping point," said he.

CRY OF DANGER SAVES LIFE.

Lineman Rescued by Companion Who Heard Him Murmur, "Cut the Wire."

Prompt action and presence of mind of William Delke, a lineman employed by the Commonwealth Electric company, saved the life of Horace Stanley, 26 years old, 1637 West Madison street, yesterday afternoon.

Stanley and Delke were making repairs on wire in Lincoln street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets. Stanley had climbed to the top of a post and was fixing a wire when he caught hold of a heavily charged wire. Delke did not notice his companion's peril until happening to glance in Stanley's direction he noticed that he was attempting to speak.

Hurrying to his friend's side he was able to hear him murmur, "Cut the wire."

Delke cut the wire and seizing Stanley around the waist bore him to the ground.

CRITICISE DUNNE FOR PLATOON ACT

FACES AN INVESTIGATION

Despite Official Action to Contrary, Mayor Prepares to Inaugurate Scheme.

When the aldermen return to their municipal duties in the fall, after their vacation, there will be a lively session of the city council, devoted to an investigation of what is called Mayor Dunne's unwarranted forcing of the double platoon system on the fire department.

Ald. Frank I. Bennett and other members of the finance committee yesterday criticised the mayor's action as unauthorized and a defiance of the formally expressed will of the council.

A majority of the firemen, as well as the Chicago board of underwriters, are equally opposed to the two platoon system under present conditions.

Mayor Announces Plan.

The mayor during the afternoon announced that the double platoon system would be inaugurated in the fire department beginning with the First battalion.

To do this it will be necessary to appropriate seventy-two out of the 129 new firemen provided for by the finance committee last April.

These 129 men were especially provided—one for each engine company in the city—to give each member of the department an additional twelve hours off each week—making twenty-four hours instead of twelve hours that he could spend with his family, providing he had a family.

The mayor, under the advice of the political element which is backing the two platoon systems, has disregarded the action of the finance committee, which was approved by the council, and without as much as a "by your leave" has helped himself to the extra firemen. He has left fifty-three men to be divided among the 118 companies not included in the first battalion.

The double platoon system will be a fine thing for the 176 members of the first battalion, who will each have twelve hours off every day.

The remainder of the 1,300 members of the fire department will have to worry along without their extra half day a week.

Aldermen Stirred by Act.

"The mayor had no authority to establish or inaugurate the double platoon system at this time," said Chairman Frank I. Bennett of the finance committee. "The council voted down an ordinance providing for the double platoon system on the recommendation of the finance committee, because there was not money enough to establish it and because most of the firemen did not want it. This action is clearly in opposition to the will of the council. The extra men were provided for a specific purpose—to give each engine company an additional man, so that all the firemen would get an additional twelve hours off each six days. There is no authority for using these men for any other purpose.

"I don't know what the council will do about it. It does not meet until fall. I am not prepared to say whether I personally shall take any action until I have looked into the matter more closely."

Snow Criticises Mayor.

Ald. Snow, another member of the finance committee, said:

"The 129 men were provided for by an especial appropriation by the finance—one man for each engine company—to give the firemen an extra twelve hours off each week. The matter was gone into to considerable length by the committee. Different committees of firemen appeared and the majority of them favored the extra day rather than the two platoon. A few agitators in the department are clamoring for the double platoon system, but a canvass of the men will show that a majority of them do not want it and this action of the mayor is forcing it on them. It is not fair to the firemen who will be deprived of their extra twelve hours every six days. It is entirely contrary to the will of the council."

To Assign New Men Tomorrow.

It is the intention to establish the two platoon system tomorrow by the addition of the 125 new men to the department. Four of the original 129 already have been assigned to engine companies where their services were most badly needed. The territory to be protected by the engine companies under the new system is between the river, Twelfth street, and Lake Michigan.

Mayor Dunne was asked last night concerning his order installing the double platoon system.

"All I care to say is this," said the mayor. "I have instructed Marshal Horan to install the two platoon system from battalion to battalion as fast as he can find men for it. As to how the men will be distributed or how far they will go, you will have to see the fire marshal."

"But," the mayor was asked, "were not the 129 men provided for an especial purpose—to give each man in the department an extra half day off once a week? Did not the council so decide and did it not vote down the two platoon system?"

"The ordinance," said his honor decidedly, "gives the fire marshal full authority to run the department according to his own ideas and to dispose of his men as he sees fit."

Under the new arrangement each of the eleven companies will consist of eight men, making eighty-eight for each shift. The double platoon projectors want nine men for each shift, but say they can get along with eight.

DELINQUENTS OUT ON PAROLE.

Twelve Boys from the St. Charles School Are Liberated by Judge Tuthill Pending Good Behavior.

Twelve boys, brought to Chicago yesterday by C. W. Hart, superintendent of the state school for delinquent boys at St. Charles, were paroled by Judge Tuthill, who is president of the board of trustees of the school.

The boys had been taken from the congested Polish and Italian quarters of the city, and all were brown and healthy. One mother, who was in Judge Tuthill's courtroom, expressed concern lest her boy had been fighting as she regarded an eye that was swollen almost shut.

"No, that's where I was stung by a bee," the boy explained.

Judge Tuthill said that from pigeons, which the boys usually made their first pets, they had turned to bees, and that almost every boy at the school had his hive of bees.

"At St. Charles the boys have a real chance to enjoy out of door life," the judge said, as the last of the parents left the courtroom. "Each boy has his garden. He can harness a horse or milk a cow. All of the boys paroled today understand farm work and have been taught to read, write, and spell. Several of them could not do any of these things when they were sent out."

WANTS TO TEACH THE BLIND.

Frank H. Rittenhouse Applies for Use of Charts Kept in Schools for the Sightless.

Frank H. Rittenhouse, 35 years old, a blind coffee merchant living at 1494 Thirty-fifth street, sought permission from President Ritter of the board of education yesterday for the charts for teaching the blind to read at the three schools for the blind.

"I was stricken blind two years ago," said Mr. Rittenhouse. "And since then have found my only pleasure in reading the books for the blind at the public library. If I could have the use of the school charts I would gladly teach any blind person the rudiments of reading."

COL. LEWIS HIMSELF FORCED TO ADMIT REVENUE IS DUE.

Property in La Salle Street Occupied by Rookery Building and Other Real Estate Held Subject to Assessment by Assistant Corporation Counsel and His Superior—Board of Review Demands Payment—Big Corporations Fought.

The city of Chicago, which, through the corporation counsel's office, has been making life miserable for some of the big corporations by demanding more taxes in million dollars bunches, will have to pay a large amount of taxes itself on property that it claimed was exempt.

By strange irony of fate the corporation counsel's office has given an opinion in opposition to the exemption in question. The opinion came from Assistant Corporation Counsel Barge and was reluctantly concurred in by J. Hamilton Lewis, the main tax crusader.

The property that Mr. Barge, to the deep gratification of the board of review, which doesn't altogether fancy Col. Lewis telling it what it ought to do with the big corporations, has decided is not exempt for the reason that it is not used for municipal purposes, and the amount of taxes claimed is as follows:

	Assessed value.	Taxes due.
Rookery building site	$356,000	$73,470
Fort Dearborn addition, occupied by engine house at Washington street and Michigan avenue	35,560	2,280

School Property Is Involved.

The taxes are for last year except in the case of the Rookery, which is for back taxes and forfeitures. The taxes on the Rookery site amount to nearly $25,000 a year and the city only gets an income of $35,000 a year from the leasehold. This as well as the Franklin street site is school property. The city does not own the site of the engine house, but under the lease is responsible for the taxes.

Despite his unusual predicament, Col. Lewis turned over to the assessors a long list of property belonging to railroads that he held should be taxed as real estate and not as trackage, for the reason that it was not used for railroad purposes. It included twenty brick buildings and fourteen wooden buildings and the colonel thinks they will add to the city's net revenue $50,000 a year in taxes.

Lewis After Steel Company.

Col. Lewis went before the board of review and asked to have the assessment of the Illinois Steel company advanced $3,500,000. The company's personalty valuation was fixed by the assessors the same as last year —$3,518,000. The corporation counsel thought that the reviewers should increase the full cash valuation on the real estate in South Chicago by $2,000,000 or $2,500,000 and the buildings "which the company had erected on land filled in without warrant from the city" an additional $250,000, with the remainder of the increase he asked for on the company's personalty in the Rookery. Attorney W. D. Haynie told the reviewers that the corporation paid taxes to the amount of $123,000 a year, and he considered that enough. The matter was taken under advisement.

The board confirmed the assessors' valuation of the personalty of the Chicago Edison and Commonwealth Electric companies at $12,945,000, a gain of $500,000 over last year.

TEXT BOOK WAR REOPENED BY WOMAN SCHOOL TRUSTEE.

Mrs. W. C. H. Keough Makes Bitter Attack on Macmillan Readers, Which Were Recommended by Supt. Cooley.

The text book war in the school board was reopened yesterday by Mrs. W. C. H. Keough, school trustee, who in a letter addressed to her colleagues on the board bitterly attacked the Macmillan readers, which were recommended for adoption by Supt. Cooley, and openly advocated the selection of the Wheeler readers.

Mrs. Keough declared the plan of Dr. De Bey to have a set of readers prepared by the teachers of Chicago should be carried out eventually. She said the Macmillan company had resorted to Standard Oil measures by slashing prices to such an extent that the small publishers would not be able to compete with them in the market.

"Macmillan fourth reader is most appalling," the letter said. "Ten fairy stories, three of them devote sixty-nine pages to their weird recitals. Pages 11, 17, and 23 are ornamented with unmouth, as well as unnatural cartoons. Such cartoons would result in a repetition of the Hyde Park poster scandal in which the residents of the aristocratic district sent a protest to the members of the school management committee that the pupils were encouraged and permitted to insult womanhood by the drawing of such cartoons, and yet by the adoption of the Macmillan's fourth reader the board of education would instruct the coming generation to continue along such lines."

THREE INDICTED FOR PERJURY.

Rich Farmer Accused of Allowing Insane Wife to Be Buried at the Expense of Cook County.

Gustave Metzler, a wealthy farmer of Cooperstown, Mich., was indicted by the Cook county grand jury for swearing falsely that he was a resident of Cook county and unable to pay for the maintenance of his wife, with the result that the woman became a public charge at the Kankakee asylum for the insane, where she died and was buried at Cook county's expense.

According to the state's attorney, after Metzler's wife had been buried he returned to Michigan and told the neighbors of "how easy they are down there." Edward Werle, one of the neighbors, wrote to Assistant State's Attorney Harry Olson about it. Werle was subpœnaed and came to Chicago to give his testimony. He stated that Metzler is well supplied with worldly goods.

Alice M. Murphy and Alice Hoyt also were indicted for perjury. It is charged that Mrs. Hoyt scheduled $8,000 in property which she did not own for bail of $8,000 for Thomas Martin, charged with operating a confidence game. Mrs. Murphy, it is said, scheduled $20,000 worth of property which she did not own for bail of $5,000 for Clarence C. Claff, charged with conspiracy.

WAR ON FREE LOVE CHECKED.

Police Temporarily Restrained by Court from Interfering with New Religious Sect's Tent Meetings in Chicago.

Carl Mattson, the pioneer of a new religious sect who has been holding meetings in a tent on a vacant lot near Fletcher and North Clark streets, resumed last night the meetings which were stopped by the police on Thursday night. Mattson secured from Judge Honoré an injunction restraining the police from interfering with his meetings. The injunction will be argued on Thursday.

The police objected to the meetings on the ground that Mattson advised his hearers to ignore the law on the statue books and be guided only by the law as laid down in the Bible and interpreted by Mattson, which was a mixture of free love and polygamy.

Mattson has been preaching his doctrine among the Swedes of Wisconsin and Minnesota and he claims to have established a number of churches.

TO ENFORCE WIDE TIRE LAW.

City's Lawyer Declares Ordinance Will Be Put Into Operation at Once.

Notice was given in Judge Honoré's court yesterday by Assistant Corporation Counsel Mathias that the city is preparing to put into active operation the wide tire ordinance, which went into effect last January. The ordinance has not been enforced since a few days after it took effect because of an agreement entered into between the city and J. W. Fernald & Co., 583 Morgan street.

WANTS NEWSPAPERS TO HELP BUILD RAILROAD IN SOUTH.

Frederick A. Johnson Comes to Chicago to Secure Live Material for Sleepy Towns.

JOURNALISTS—CAPABLE AND ENERGETIC, wanted to establish southern newspapers. Call at Room "M," Sherman house, Monday, or leave full address. Address F B 332, Tribune.

A visit to room M revealed its occupant to be Frederick A. Johnson, "first vice president and general manager of the Chattanooga, Anderson and Atlantic railway company," and otherwise a promoter of the road. It is a single track line now pushing its tenuous way from "Chattanooga to the sea" at Charleston, S. C.—pushing, that is, as well as it can in the face of J. Pierpont Morgan and the Southern railway.

But this railroad man made it clear yesterday that he was primarily interested just now in newspapers, for the sake of the artistic and psychological "boom" which they can give to the sleepy southern cities so fortunate as to be tapped by the road.

"We are going to launch several newspapers," he said—"one in Charleston, another in Anderson, and a third in Columbia, the capital, sir, of South Carolina. We want newspapers down there to make the towns self-conscious. Bless you, some of them don't know they are alive. Like Topsy, they just growed.'

"Newspapers, sir, in my business, spell success. Newspapers mean sensitive communities, alert chambers of commerce, advertising, self-confidence, and success. We need them as much as we need ties and steel rails."

ACCUSED OF ABDUCTING GIRL.

Isadore Boyle Admits Inducing Annie Asher to Leave Home, but Declares He Did Not Mistreat Her.

Isadore Boyle, 38 years old, 1450 Madison street, a tailor, was arrested yesterday on a charge of abducting Annie Asher, 15 years old, daughter of L. Asher, a boot and shoe merchant, 188 West Congress street.

Boyle admitted having induced the girl to leave her home, but said he had not mistreated her.

Asher said after the disappearance of his daughter his wife missed a $200 diamond ring, which he believes his daughter had stolen. She was found on the west side Saturday and arrested. Her case was continued ten days by Justice Chott. Pending the hearing of her case, being unable to secure bonds, the girl is being held at the Harrison street annex. She declared Boyle had not mistreated her.

VOLIVA'S ELECTION URGED BY OFFICERS OF ZION CITY.

Ecclesiastical Council Also Unanimously Recommends His Selection for the Office of General Overseer.

At a meeting of the 300 officers of Zion City last evening, Wilbur Glenn Voliva was loudly proclaimed the candidate of his faction for general overseer of the city. Resolutions adopted earlier in the day by the ecclesiastical council, declaring Voliva the council's unanimous choice, were read by V. V. Barnes. The choice of the officers will be made at a meeting of the people to be held in the tabernacle today.

John C. Hately, receiver for Zion City, spoke hopefully of the conditions in the city. Reports of suffering and poverty, he says, are exaggerated, and conditions are no worse than in any ordinary town of the size of Zion City.

"The industries are in a good condition," said he, "and there are few men in the city who have no employment. The bank was examined this morning and found to be solvent. Some of the citizens have been helped from the city fund, $200 having been given out last Saturday, but hereafter all such aid will come from the church fund."

Deacon F. C. James, head of the employment bureau, said he had difficulty in supplying the demands for men and that he was unable to find enough to fill the orders for skilled workmen and laborers in the country about Zion City.

The Dowie supporters have given no indication of their intentions in the carrying on of their political campaign, and probably will go to the election without any preliminaries.

CHAUFFEUR FREED AT INQUEST.

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Roy Ickes, Who Ran Down and Killed a Man in Michigan Avenue.

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Roy Ickes, the chauffeur who was arrested Sunday evening for running down and killing a man at Washington street and Michigan avenue. The jury held that the man met his death by accidentally falling in front of the machine. The body was not identified.

The vehicle Ickes was driving contained Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lippert, 7131 Eggleston avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rauand and their three children of Milwaukee.

The case against Alfred Sebastian, chauffeur of H. C. Flonacher's automobile, which was stopped Saturday night by a bullet fired by South Park Policeman Frank R. Shrewbridge, was continued until Wednesday by Justice Callahan. After the order for continuance was entered Attorney Carl Meyer and James Weiman, an insurance man, had a scuffle with Policeman Shrewbridge and both were arrested.

Eczema Broke Out Also on Hands and Limbs—Suffering Intense—Doctors Said Too Old to Be Cured—An Old Soldier of 80 Years Declares:

"CUTICURA TREATMENT IS A BLESSING"

"At all times and to all people I am willing to testify to the merits of Cuticura. It saved me from worse than the tortures of hades, about the year 1900, with itching on my scalp and temples, and afterwards it commenced to break out on my hands. Then it broke out on my limbs. I was advised to use salt and water, which I did, to no effect. I then went to a Surgeon, who commenced treating me with a wash of borax. This treatment did me no good, but rather aggravated the disease. I then told him I would go and see a physician in Erie. The reply was that I could go anywhere, but a case of eczema like mine could not be cured; that I was too old (80). I went to an eminent doctor in the city of Erie and treated with him for six months, with like results. I had read of the Cuticura Remedies often. I was strongly tempted to give them a trial, so I sent for the Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent and continued taking the Resolvent until I had taken six bottles, stopping it to take the Pills. I was now getting better. I took two baths a day, and at night I let the lather of the Soap dry on. I used the Ointment with great effect after washing in warm water, to stop the itching at once. I am now cured.

"The Cuticura treatment is a blessing and should be used by every one who has itching of the skin. I can't say say more, and thank God that He has given the world such a curative. You can use this letter as you please. A very much befriended man, Wm. H. Gray, 3303 Mt. Vernon St., Philadelphia, Pa., August 2, 1905."

THAWS IN DISPUTE OVER THE DEFENSE

STRIKES AT NEW GAS LAW

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New-York, July 30.

Mrs. William Thaw went to the Tombs today to make a final plea with her son, Harry Thaw, that he come over to her view, that he should accept the advice of the Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge firm in preparing his defense in his trial for killing Stanford White. Thaw wouldn't budge from his attitude that his killing of White was justified, and his wife stood by him and opposed the entreaties of his mother. As a result, there is a break between Mrs. Thaw and her daughter-in-law—the first open one since she returned from Europe—and when Mrs. William Thaw left the Tombs she deliberately, in the opinion of those who saw it, snubbed Mrs. Harry Thaw.

Thaws in Open Break on Defense Question.

When Mrs. William Thaw got to the Tombs she met Mrs. Harry Thaw and at once resumed the pleas she had been making to her son for a couple of weeks that he accept her view that the killing of White was an insane act. Thaw showed the same stubbornness, resisting and opposing his mother's advice, that has been his habit on every occasion when Mrs. Thaw or any one else argued with him. It was said today that he was even more vehement when his wife openly sided with him and that he practically said he didn't want to be bothered any more on the subject.

Judge Robert Shirley of the Circuit court of Illinois was a visitor in the County courthouse today. He sat on the bench in the Supreme court with Justice MacLean for a couple of hours, attired in one of the silk robes which the justices in this county wear.

The Brooklyn Union Gas company has discontinued its quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, ostensibly because it has been complying with the law to sell gas at 80 cents a thousand. Up to March the company had been paying 2 per cent quarterly dividends, but at that time it was decided to cut the dividend to 1 per cent. The passing of the dividend by the Brooklyn company is interpreted as intended to show 80 cent gas is not a paying proposition, that, therefore, the law ought to be repealed.

Gas Firm Passes Dividend; New Law Cause.

Inasmuch as the Brooklyn Union is controlled by the interests that control the Consolidated Gas company in Manhattan, the news of the passing of the dividend caused a break of six points in the Consolidated stock. Wall street feared the Consolidated might pass its dividend this week.

The executive committee of the Consolidated will meet tomorrow and the directors on Thursday. The Consolidated has been paying 9 per cent dividend and Wall street is inclined to believe that the dividend will be put on a 4 per cent basis if it should be declared at all.

For the first time in sixty years, it was said at the coroner's office today, a whole day passed without a death being reported. The day ran between 10 o'clock on Sunday night and tonight at the same hour.

From a source seemingly reliable, an announcement was made today that Mrs. Margaret Olivia Sage, widow of Russell Sage, intends to distribute $10,000,000 to charity as soon as her friend, Miss Helen Gould, gets back from Europe.

Miss Gould to Direct Mrs. Sage's Gifts?

Mrs. Sage, it is said, believes that Miss Gould is able to give her some valuable advice as to how to distribute the money advantageously. The nephews and nieces of Russell Sage, who heard this story declared it probably was true, as Miss Gould and Mrs. Sage had for years been working together along the lines of philanthropy laid out by Miss Gould.

The Sage relatives added that if Mrs. Sage has $10,000,000 at her command it shows conclusively that Russell Sage had turned over to Mrs. Sage a large sum of money during his life time.

However, it is now said that the Sage relatives have no intention of contesting the will at present, and that they will sign waivers so the will may be admitted to probate on Sept. 21. Then, after each of them receives the $25,000 allotted to them, a meeting of the legatees will be held at which action may be taken toward organizing an association for the purpose of raising funds to carry on an action in the Supreme court to set aside the will.

They have hinted that if Mrs. Sage volunteers to give an additional $75,000 to each nephew and niece there will be no legal fight, but the attorneys for the executors are not in favor of making any such settlement.

Bond for $10,000 was filed with Commissioner Shields this morning by the National Surety company to insure the appearance of Fred L. Pomeroy, general traffic manager of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad on the second Wednesday in October to answer to the indictment for "having unlawfully and willfully offered, granted, and given rebates." Pomeroy, with F. S. Guilford, first vice president of the New York Central, and with that road as a corporation, is indicted by the federal grand jury for complicity with the American Sugar Refining company of New Jersey in violation of the anti-rebate laws.

Files Bond for Accused Sugar Rebater.

When asked how soon he would think it advisable to make public the names of the corporations against which the indictments on the rebating charges were returned by the federal grand jury, United States District Attorney Stimson said it will be far better for the ends of justice if the names are not made public until after the grand jury has concluded its work.

The jury will resume its rebate investigations next week. One of Stimson's assistants said that if the Standard Oil company's part of the rebating business is under investigation he was not aware of it.

MOTHERS KICK GIRL LURER

FIND THEIR THREE SMALL CHILDREN IN MAN'S ROOM.

Attack Him with Whip, Flats, and Feet Till Police Go to Rescue—Prisoner Is James A. Burns, 315 Fulton Street—Victims Mildred Tenny, Della Doherty, and Helen Rubens, 5 to 7 Years Old, Whose Parents Reside in Same Locality.

After being whipped and kicked by the mothers of three small girls who were found in his room James A. Burns was rescued by the police yesterday afternoon and locked up at the Desplaines street station.

Mildred Tenny, 5 years old.
Della Doherty, 7 years old.
Helen Rubens, 7 years old.

Each child lives with her parents at 319 Fulton street, and Burns lives at 315 Fulton street. It is charged that for some time he has taken them to his room, which is on the second floor, enticing them by gifts of candy and small coins.

Mothers Burst Into the Room.

A man who learned of the presence of the children in Burns' apartment in the afternoon notified their parents. At the first word the mothers and others gathered on the stairs and entered the room. Burns, seeing them at the door, escaped by a rear entrance and reached the street, but there he was stopped. The women struck him with fists and feet. Mrs. Tenny had procured a whip, and with it she struck him across the face several times.

George Bowes, a saloonkeeper at Fulton and North May streets, arrived at this time in a buggy. Burns was powerless to defend himself and the crowd was growing every moment.

"Here," Bowes said. "Get in and I'll take you to the depot, where you can get away."

Burns was near the buggy, and, breaking away from the women, reached it and threw himself on the seat. Bowes whipped the horse and it started south to Lake street and then east to Desplaines, the crowd following.

Crowd Pursues the Buggy.

John Tenny, father of one of the girls, arrived home just as Bowes and Burns started away in the buggy. He followed and soon was in the van of the pursuers. He was unable to overtake the horse and buggy, but continued in the chase, hoping for an accident that would delay Burns.

As Bowes turned the horse south again on reaching Desplaines street, Burns jumped from the buggy, ran past the police station, and turned west. Detectives Mulvihill, O'Malley, White, and Mahoney were on the stairs at the front of the station, and they hurried after Burns when Bowes shouted to them to arrest him.

Police Intercepted.

They overtook Burns and then started back to the police station with him. When they arrived there Tenny and a number of others had arrived. They intercepted the detectives and in a few moments the greater part of the crowd had arrived. Several shouted "kill him" and the crowd surrounded Burns and the detectives.

The detectives pushed through the crowd, however, to the basement of the police station. With the closing of the door Burns was safe, but for almost half an hour many who had been in crowd remained outside.

Physicians later examined the children and said that the Tenny child was in a serious condition.

Vincennes, Ind., July 30.—While swimming in the Wabash river just a few miles below Vincennes today C. K. Dryhead, aged 33, a business man of Lawrenceville, Ill., was drowned. The body was recovered.

D. S. Hanley, the coroner of Erie, Pa., telegraphed to the Chicago police last night that Clarence Colbert, 18 years old, of Chicago, was drowned at that place early yesterday. The young man was a son of Morris Colbert, Garfield boulevard and Mohawk street. He was discharged from the navy several years ago because of disability, and was on his way to visit former chums at Newport News when he stopped off at Erie and was drowned while swimming.

3 MORE VICTIMS OF INSANE 4TH.

Lockjaw Carries Off Two Little Ones, and Injuries from Dynamite Fatal to Third.

DEATHS TO DATE.....93

Three more children have died from injuries suffered during their celebration of the fourth of July. The last deaths bring the list up to ninety-three. Cleveland, O., is about the only city in the country that has not reported a fatality. This is attributed to a heavy rain on the 3d, which laid the tetanus germ.

The most recent deaths reported are:

ELKHART, IND.—Harry Allen Martin, 10 years old, is dead from injuries by dynamite, suffered on the 4th of July.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—George Davis, aged 91 years, is dead from lockjaw, caused by a toy pistol with which he was celebrating Independence day.

TERRE HAUTE, IND.—Lytton Markland, aged 11, died of lockjaw, contracted while firing blank cartridges on the 4th of July.

WOULD DIVORCE HOME AND SHOP.

on either in a disagreeable basement or else in the midst of the home life of the tenement.

Again and again it is discovered that ice cream is being manufactured and sold by tenement children which is being prepared daily in the most awful surroundings by children whose hands were never clean and who frequently were afflicted with skin troubles which could not by any possibility escape being transmitted, although possibly in a minor fashion, to the ice cream which is sold everywhere in the tenement district, and which is gulped down so eagerly by the little children.

Disease Thrives Among Poor.

It is no wonder that when disease does start in among these poor children they die like flies. There has been no race suicide in their family. The children swarm everywhere. They would overrun the city if it were not for the fact that the mortality among the children of the very poor under the age of 10 years is fearful. They eat contaminated food, they wear contaminated clothes, they breathe contaminated air, and the wonder is they live at all.

It sounds radical to talk of prohibiting all kinds of manufacture in tenement houses, and yet this is the thing people are coming to suggest with greatest earnestness—not so much for the sake of saving the grown people, for they are tough and seem to thrive upon these disagreeable conditions—but it is the children whose lives and futures are at stake. If they are to grow up under such conditions they are more than likely to be physical and mental degenerates.

To prevent this, and to strike at the root of the lowest and meanest kind of child labor, it is becoming almost an article of religion among charitable workers that the tenement must be what it was intended to be—a living place only—and that the law must step in more and more to prevent the mingling of the home and the shop. Adequate supervision is being maintained now over the factories, to a certain extent at least, but the workers ought never to be allowed to carry on processes of manufacture for anything except domestic use in places where they are not subject to official inspection.

Points Out Dangers.

The New York commissioner of labor, P. Tecumseh Sherman, who was appointed after a long fight successfully made against his predecessors, in summing up the question of tenement manufacture, said:

"The dangers from tenement made goods do not all come from the unhealthy or unclean conditions of the buildings. Some arrive from the character and habits of the occupants. In the typical tenements, which house a comparatively sickly and unclean class of our population and which swarm with children, ordinary infantile and certain other contagious diseases, not to mention vermin, would remain endemic.

"Consequently, all materials worked on therein would be more or less liable to infection, notwithstanding that the buildings be sanitary, clean, well ventilated, and uncrowded. The policy of forbidding any work in all tenements is a solution of this problem, towards which the majority of those who have studied it are tending. But to it there are strong theoretical and legal objections, and it would be subject to difficulties of enforcement which those who have confined their attention to lower grade tenements and to certain neighborhoods do not realize."

QUALIFY 500 MEAT INSPECTORS

It Is Expected This Number of Applicants Will Be Placed on the Eligible List.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—The civil service commission expects to obtain an eligible list of about 500 inspectors of meat products, the examinations for which were held in the various cities of the country on July 21 last.

The commission made arrangements to examine 3,886 applicants, and during the week ending July 28 2,240 sets of examination papers were received, and 680 of these were rated.

On Saturday last fifty-one eligibles were certified to the department of agriculture as qualified for appointment. By the end of this week it is expected by the commission that all the examination papers will be received and rated.

PACKERS BOOST MEAT PRICES.

Terre Haute Dealers Served with Notice of Increase, to Go Into Effect Today.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 30.—[Special.]—Terre Haute meat dealers have been notified by Chicago packers of advances in the prices of pork and pork products. The prices will be in effect tomorrow. The price of mutton also is advanced.

Prices Highest in Twenty Years.

Kansas City, Mo., July 30.—[Special.]—Butchers who buy in large quantities have been notified of advances in the prices of pork and pork products. The prices took effect today. Veteran butchers say they are the highest seen in twenty years. The retailers, of course, will also advance all prices. No explanation is given by the packers.

Boiler Explodes; Two Men Killed.

Vincennes, Ind., July 30.—Two men were killed and over twenty were injured by the explosion of a boiler at the Vincennes Paper Mills company today. The property loss is $15,000.

VOSS DENIES HE IS SLAYER

ACCUSED OF WIFE MURDER, HE BAFFLES THE POLICE.

Truck Gardener Is Put Through Strain of Sweatbox Examination, but Refuses to Change Story of Fire in His Home—Physician After an Examination Declares He Is Mentally Unsound—Waver on Story of Hearing Shots.

John L. Voss, the truck gardener accused of murdering his wife and firing his own house to hide the crime, is proving one of the most puzzling prisoners the police have had to deal with in years. After putting him through several degrees of the sweatbox last night, Assistant Chief Schuettler and Lieut. Collins of the Irving Park station, admitted that the crime would be most difficult to prove and that the man's story formed a remarkably clever defense.

The subject of his sanity was inquired into by the police, and they learned that two weeks ago Dr. Carl Beck and Dr. O. L. Dewitz had examined him at the request of his wife. Incipient paresis and alcoholic neuritis were discovered.

Declared Mentally Unsound.

"We decided," said Dr. Dewitz, "that the man was not mentally sound, and that his condition might become worse at any time. The asylum for the criminal insane is the place for him."

The puzzling feature to the police is that the man tells things about his relations with his wife that are damaging, as well as other details. He admits that he quarreled with his wife on Saturday morning and that he had asked her to get a divorce. He admits also that he was jealous of F. L. Wiederman, an aged neighbor, to whom his wife used to go with her troubles.

Adheres to First Story.

But on the matter of the fire the prisoner does not vary a jot in his original story that he and his wife went to bed in separate rooms, and that he knew nothing of the fire until the smoke woke him up. He says his wife must have had an epileptic fit while in the summer kitchen, and that the lamp exploded. The neighbors wavered in their story of hearing shots fired.

OBITUARY.

JOHN LAWRENCE TOOLE, the well known actor-manager, is dead at London. He originally was a clerk in a wine merchant's office. He was advised by Charles Dickens to adopt the stage as a profession, which he did, making his first appearance in 1853. He became the leading comedian of his day in England. Toole was a contemporary and lifelong friend of the late Sir Henry Irving. He toured the United States and Australia, where he gained many triumphs. He was born in 1830. Toole made his début on the London stage at the Haymarket as Simmons in "The Spittalfields Weaver." In 1859 he created the part of Mr. Spriggins in a farce called "Ici on Parle Francais." He played Bob Cratchit in Dickens' "Christmas Carol," and Caleb Plummer in "The Cricket on the Hearth." Other plays he acted in were "The Fast Family," "Dearer Than Life," "Not Guilty," "Paul Pry," "The Hypocrite," and "Wig and Gown." One of his best successes was as Chawles in "A Fool and His Money."

ALBERT W. FIERO, 2102 Calumet avenue, Chicago, who died last Saturday at Battle Creek sanitarium, was born in Battle Creek Jan. 29, 1849. He was an engineer for the Peninsular railway, now a part of the Michigan Central railway, and for the Joliet Steel company. Afterwards he represented the Chicago and Alton and several other railroads as inspector of rails. He made a study of the manufacture of rails and in 1888, together with Robert W. Hunt of Chicago and John J. Cone of New York, founded the firm of Robert W. Hunt & Co., with offices in London, New York, Pittsburg, San Francisco, and Chicago. He was a member of the Union League, Illinois Athletic club, Midlothian Country club, and was a thirty-second degree mason. He was also a member of the Western Society of Western Engineers, the Engineers' club of New York, and the American Society of Testing Material. The funeral will be at Christ's Episcopal church, Joliet, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

MRS. FERDINAND REESE, the oldest woman in Indiana, and perhaps in the United States, died at La Porte, Ind., yesterday, aged 112 years. In 1812, when Napoleon and an army of 700,000 invaded Russia, she saw the French emperor. On her deathbed she recalled vividly the circumstances of his visit to Volgravitz, which he devastated. She, among others, escaped by fleeing into the woods.

DANIEL PUTNAM, A. M., LL. D., since 1868 professor of psychology and pedagogy in the Michigan state normal college, is dead at the age of 82 years in Ypsilanti, Mich. He was the author of several works on psychology and pedagogy. He was a graduate of Dartmouth, class of 1851. Dr. Putnam was twice mayor of Ypsilanti. He leaves a widow and five children.

ROBERT ASPIN, superintendent of docks at the Illinois Steel company's works at South Chicago, died at his home, 120 Ninety-first street, yesterday at the age of 70 years. Mr. Aspin invented the Champion ore hoists for unloading vessels, which were used at the South Chicago plant for twenty-seven years.

KRALOVEC—Julia Kralovec (nee Kubin), beloved wife of John Kralovec, mother of Otto J., Emil G., Robert J., Charles V. Adelle, and Mrs. James Storkan, daughter of Antonia Kubin, sister of Otto Kubin, Mrs. Charles J. Yopicks, and Mrs. John Gerlinger, after short illness, at Watertown, Wis., July 29, in her fifty-fourth year. Funeral from her late residence, 979 S. Avers-av., Thursday, Aug. 2, 1906, at 12 m., to Bohemian National cemetery.

BODY OF FORMER CHICAGOAN FOUND

BURGLARY THE MOTIVE?

Police Think He Was Lured Away So That His Store Could Be Robbed.

Madison, Wis., July 30.—[Special.]—The body of Joseph Bardenhier, a jeweler of Madison, who formerly lived at 740 East Belmont avenue, Chicago, today was found in a hayfield three miles east of here. The police think that he was lured away and murdered that his store might be robbed.

Bardenhier, who was a large man, weighing 347 pounds, evidently had put up a hard struggle before being slain, as his clothes were badly torn and the ground near where the body was found was trampled and bushes beaten down. His watch, necktie, pin, and what money he had when last seen had been stolen.

Asked to Go to Farmer's House.

On Saturday, July 21, a man dressed in farmer's clothes called at Bardenhier's jewelry store, in Madison, and requested that Bardenhier come to his home and repair an old clock, fixing Monday as the date, and asking that the jeweler take a Fair Oaks car to the end of the line, where a boy would meet him with a buggy. This plan would have brought Bardenhier near the place where his body was found.

On Monday morning, putting the tools that he might need in a case and taking $2 in money, Bardenhier boarded the street car. This was the last seen of him.

Was Victim of Robbery.

This afternoon Clara Bardenhier said her father had been the victim of a robbery in Chicago, about Christmas, 1904.

"My father had been doing a big business and went down to the express company with about $2,300 in his pocket," said the girl. "He paid the express company $500 for an order payable to a firm in New York. With about $1,800, he went to one of the Chicago wholesale jewelry houses to pay a large bill, but when he got there he had no money. Papa never knew what became of the money. Papa never drank, so I know he did not lose it that way."

Joseph Bardenhier, until about six months ago, kept a jewelry store at 1136 Lincoln avenue and lived with his family at 740 East Belmont avenue. It is said by those who were associated with him that he had always expressed a desire to have a business in a smaller place than Chicago. He found a good opening at Madison, sold out his Chicago stock, and with the proceeds moved to Madison. Those who were well acquainted with him say that he always had considerable money about him and was lavish in spending it.

FOIL MOB AFTER NEGRO FIEND.

Slayer of Mother and Two Children After Attempted Assault Put Safely in Jail.

Washington, Pa., July 30.—Two attempts were foiled today to lynch Elmer Dempster, a negro, who last night killed Mrs. Samuel Pearce and her two children and mortally wounded a third child at Canonsburg, Pa., after an attempted assault on Mrs. Pearce's little daughter. At midnight all was quiet.

While Dempster was being brought hither a mob pulled him and the officers from a car, but the latter fought off the lynchers at their pistol points. Here a crowd of 300 gathered to mob Dempster, but he was spirited into the jail.

Dempster admitted tonight that he killed Mrs. Pearce and the children.

He cleared up another murder mystery, which led to the arrest of two other negroes, who are charged with the murder of John Koboda, a wealthy foreigner. He was found dead in a clump of bushes along the Wabash railroad tracks in Independence township on May 1.

Dempster confessed that he had served time in Allegheny, Fayette, and Westmoreland counties and twice before in Washington county.

Negroes Gather to Stop Lynching.

Mound City, Ill., July 30.—[Special.]—A mob of more than 100 residents of Ullin and Mounds tonight at Cairo attempted to lynch "Sam" McDonald, a negro, arrested today by Pulaski county officers, suspected of the murder of Homer Morris, a white man, at a negro picnic near Ullin, on Saturday night. Deputy sheriffs hustled the negro between freight cars and led him through back streets to a livery barn, where they secured horses and a wagon and drove to Mound City. Fully 200 negroes gathered at Mounds to prevent a lynching. The prompt escape with the prisoner probably prevented a bloody battle. McDonald is accused of giving another negro a revolver with which Morris was killed, because he refused to let them ride free on a merry go round.

THOMAS ORCHESTRA SEASON ON

Musical Organization, Under Frederick A. Stock, Begins Concerts at Winona Lake.

Warsaw, Ind., July 30.—[Special.]—Under the baton of Frederick A. Stock the Theodore Thomas orchestra of fifty pieces gave its opening program in a series of twelve concerts this afternoon in the auditorium at Winona lake. The soloists are Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds of Indianapolis; and Ludwig Becker, violinist; Bruno Steindel, 'cellolist; and Howard Wells, pianist, of Chicago. Excursions from Indiana cities are scheduled to arrive at Winona all week.

ROOSEVELTS AT BALL GAME.

President and Two Sons Spectators at Contest Between Deckmen and Engineers of Sylph.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 30.—President Roosevelt and his sons, Archie and Quentin, were the spectators of honor at a baseball game on Orchard lot, Sagamore Hill, today between teams representing the deck and engineer forces of the president's yacht Sylph. Rain stopped the game in the third inning. The score was 3 to 3.

GOURDAIN PANTS FOR GORE

CHALLENGES FORMER PARTNER TO DUEL WITH PISTOLS.

"You Shoot Awhile and Then I'll Begin," He Says to John H. Dalton, Who Was Convicted with Him for Operating a Lottery — Story Is Vouched For by the Mysterious Mr. Coakley, Who Is Working Hard as Press Agent.

"At last vill-yan! I challenge you to fight a 'jewel.' Your t-i-i-me has come!"

Louis A. Gourdain, convicted lottery shark—the man who has won fame by "trying" to break into the Joliet penitentiary, hissed these words into the ears of his former partner, John H. Dalton, whom he had enticed into a room in the Grand Pacific hotel Saturday afternoon.

He slammed down on a small table two magazine pistols, folded his arms like a tragedian, and exclaimed dramatically:

"Choose your weapon! One, perhaps both, of us never will leave this room alive!"

Dalton, who was convicted with Gourdain for running a lottery game, managed to escape. Later he appeared before the district attorney and asked for Gourdain's arrest. It was almost a chance for Gourdain to attain his wish and get back behind the bars, but he is still at large.

Gourdain would not deny or confirm the story yesterday, but it is given on authority of a mysterious Mr. Coakley, who has been Gourdain's companion—and press agent—for several months.

Automobile Starts the Trouble.

It appears that Gourdain, when he went to Joliet to break into the penitentiary, left his automobile with Dalton, having no further use for the material things of life. He changed his mind and after returning to his luxurious quarters at the Auditorium Annex took his auto car back without consulting Dalton.

Dalton, who is Gourdain's bondsman, was displeased with this. He talked bravely about what he would do to Gourdain when he saw him. He said he would surrender him to the authorities. They met in the lobby of the Grand Pacific hotel and Gourdain, in honeyed voice, invited Dalton to come up to his room. He has apartments at both hotels.

On reaching a large room on the fourth floor Gourdain produced his magazine pistols. Dalton says he saw him put three steel jacketed bullets into one of the pistols. This Gourdain handed to Dalton. He put one bullet in the other and retained it.

Invites Dalton Shoot First.

"Now, you shoot awhile," Gourdain said, according to the story, "then I'll begin."

Dalton ran to the door. It was locked. He looked out of the window. No fire escape.

"Coward!" said Gourdain. "Here, take both guns if you're afraid. Shoot awhile. Then I'll take my turn. I want to be perfectly fair."

Dalton grabbed the weapons and made his escape—how, is not disclosed. He came running into the federal building a few minutes later, shaking like a leaf. He hastened into the office of Marshall Hoy. He shouted to Deputies Middleton and Joseph Buckner that he wanted to surrender Gourdain. He produced the two revolvers and told his story.

"I'll go and get him," said Thomas Middleton, the oldest deputy marshal in the office.

"No, never mind," shouted Dalton, brandishing the pistols and rushing out. "I'll bring him back, dead or alive."

He rushed out and the next day it was reported that he and Gourdain had been seen drinking together in a downtown buffet.

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTHS SEEK JOBS AT PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Twenty Take Civil Service Examination and Answer Questions to Show Their Knowledge of Literature.

Twenty bright youths, aged from 16 to 18 years, yesterday took the civil service examination for pages at the public library. They are required to look for books and to return the volumes to the proper shelves.

All the applicants were either students or graduates from some high school, which was fortunate, as they were obliged to possess some knowledge of literature. The list of questions they were required to answer included:

Give the names of five books, each written by a different American author, and give the author. Who wrote "Evangeline," "Idyls of the King," "Robinson Crusoe," "The Great Stone Face," "Snow Bound," "Ivanhoe," "Alhambra," "Merchant of Venice," "Old Curiosity Shop," "The Last of the Mohicans?"

Name the poem or book in which the following characters are found: Sir Launfal, Uncle Tom, Ichabod Crane, John Alden, Shylock.

Other questions related to geography. A number of simple sentences were included in the examination for the correction of grammatical errors.

MAYOR UNMOVED BY CHARGES.

Declines to Act Against Accused Justice Clerks Without Definite Information.

A definite charge that Clerk John Kelly of Justice Dooley's court and Clerk Manny Abrahams of Justice Sabath's court are connected with gambling houses will have to be made to Mayor Dunne before he will take any action towards removing them from office. Clerk Kelly confessed that he had a "rakeoff" from the game run at the Dewey club, Washington boulevard and Green street, and a reporter for THE TRIBUNE saw the game in progress at Abraham's saloon, 451 Halsted street, Saturday night.

An investigation of both affairs was made yesterday by police from the Maxwell street and Desplaines street stations. The credulous minions of the law inquired at both places if gambling was permitted, and, upon being told it was not, so reported to Inspector Revere, who had been ordered to investigate the matter by Chief Collins. No effort was made to find out if there had been gambling.

"Definite information will have to be filed against Kelly and Abrahams before I take any steps toward removing them," said Mayor Dunne.

Englewood Woman Hurt in Runaway.

Laporte, Ind., July 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thomas W. Parshall of Englewood, Ill., is in a serious condition as the result of being thrown from a carriage in a runaway. Her horse became frightened and overturned the carriage. Mrs. Parshall suffered fracture of the collar bone and other serious injuries.

RUSSELL SAGE'S WILL.

A man professing to speak for one of the nieces of Russell Sage is quoted as giving the reason why it will be quite safe to bring suit to set aside his will. There is no hope of winning the suit unless it can be proved that five years ago, when the will was made, and continuously until his death Mr. Sage was not of sound mind. This will be hard to prove. In the long run the heir who brings the suit is likely to lose, but he will not lose much. It has been agreed, so the story goes, that one heir only shall sue, and if the case is lost he will lose his inheritance, but a contribution of $1,000 apiece from each of the other twenty-four heirs will have the effect of giving them each $24,000 without risk. It is hoped, however, that Mrs. Sage will be eager to compromise, and here the peculiar ingratitude and cold blood of the heirs is revealed if the story be true.

Mrs. Sage is now well on in years. The care of a great fortune will be a burden to her. A vexatious lawsuit may shorten her life. The heirs are to say to her, "If you do not settle this case out of court you shall never have the handling of a cent of the millions. We will carry this from court to court and delay the final decision until after you are dead." If she will pay each of the heirs $2,000,000 she may have what is left.

It would be hard to find a more iniquitous scheme to take from the widow what is rightfully hers. Her husband wished her to have the money which his shrewdness had accumulated. It makes no difference what she means to do with it. The public is interested in the belief, founded upon the known character of Mrs. Sage, that the larger portion of it will be devoted to public uses. But whether she will use it in that way or another, it would be cruel to take advantage of her age and the effect of the law's delays to compel her to surrender a large part of her inheritance in order that she may have the pleasure of spending a part of it. It is much as if a highwayman had a pistol at her head to force her to yield. If the attack is successful it will be a conspicuous example of the weakness of the laws which allow themselves to become weapons in the hands of lawyers.

This same thing occurs not infrequently. It is often cheaper to compromise than to fight. But it does not often happen that there is a frank confession that the object of bringing suit is not so much to obtain rights as to terrify another party into acquiescence in wrong.

AN ENGLISH TAILOR'S VIEW.

The English army tailor who made a hurried trip to the United States to give some expert suggestions on the uniforms of the army has returned home, and is now qualified to give expert testimony regarding American life in all its phases. He saw perhaps a few hundred men connected with the army, if, perchance, he happened to be near a fort at the time of dress parade, yet he tells an interviewer in London that the army contains "the pick of American manhood. The soldiers are as hard as nails, a magnificent lot of athletes, capable of standing any amount of hardships. It was a pleasure to design clothes for them, particularly as those they were wearing were illfitting and uncomfortable, without gracefulness."

The physical drill demanded in the regular army makes athletes. The setting up exercises soon transform the raw recruit into a man with a soldier's bearing, and the best coached college football teams have found worthy rivals in the sturdy boys on the Hudson who are dreaming of future shoulder straps. But there is no ground for the statement that the men in the regular army are the pick of American manhood, for every one of them can be matched many times by physical giants from forty states. The athletic tendency is strong everywhere with young American manhood and the chances are good that the average crowd on the street of any city of size would compare favorably with the best of any other nation.

The English criticism of the American uniforms carries with it a sweeping censure for American sartorial artists generally. "They make a lot of money inventing fad clothes. The result as far as the customer is concerned is ludicrous. The young men of the smart set in New York are the most foolish looking dudes I've ever seen. The smart youth as a rule wears a coat that might belong to a giant. As for the trousers, they only fit where they touch. They look as if they had been made in a hurry by the young man's women folk. Yet an American pays enormous prices for these awful clothes and imagines that he is dressed like an Englishman."

It is all a matter of standards. The average American visitor to England sees nothing in the uniform of the red coated soldier that appeals to him for an instant when it is compared with the blue of his own home. He looks at the clothes of the average man he meets and wonders at the inartistic effects. If he falls into the error of buying some clothes in London because he can get them cheaper than at home, he puts them away in his trunk just as soon as he gets back to America lest some friend see him in the illfitting garments. He feels just as sure of the superiority of the American tailor as the English expert does of his own preëminence as an artist. The difficulty comes in trying to harmonize the differing standards of two nations whose ideals are not the same. It is not likely that the English designed uniforms will have longer vogue than the English designed clothes ordinarily do. The American is pretty apt to like American patterns as much as the Londoner does the work of his own metropolitan tailor. The dude, of course, will be unique everywhere and will be governed by no rule. The ordinary man is the one most valuable to a tailor in the long run.

KILLED BY STREET CARS.

A report of the coroner on the fatalities resulting from street car accidents calls attention to the steady loss of life which attends the daily movement of population in Chicago. The statistics of a period of nineteen months were examined with the result that it is shown that 225 individuals have been killed. There has not been much publicity attached to such accidents, because the effects have been felt locally, where the family of the victim was known, and because the deaths have occurred singly, as a rule, and there has not been that startling of the city which came when the dreadful Iroquois fire stirred every one. And yet the coroner thinks that his administration will show almost as many deaths from car accidents on the streets as resulted from the fateful theater fire.

In some instances, though not so many as the traction companies would like to make out, death is the result of inexcusable carelessness on the part of the individual. Many persons are reckless in getting on and off cars. In other cases traction employés are criminally negligent or are unskilled in their business. If it were not for stupidity or bad training street cars would not collide at crossings so frequently as they do.

The coroner and the traction companies agree that one great cause of accidents is the defective equipment of the roads. The coroner does not undertake to explain why it is defective, but the companies do. They ascribe it to their uncertain tenure of the streets and their depleted finances. They say that if they had a more secure tenure they could supply equipment that would eliminate many of the features which cause loss of life.

There is no question that if the city and the companies had arrived at an agreement two or three years ago the roads would have had better rolling stock. There would have been more cars and less of the overcrowding, which is accountable for many accidents. The lack of a permanent arrangement is not the only cause of defective equipment. Another cause is the neglect to make repairs which there is money to make, and which are imperatively required for the safety of the public. There have been several serious accidents on Union Traction lines because of the bad condition of the roadbed. There was one last Friday in which eleven persons were injured. It is the manifest duty of the traction companies while negotiating with the city to do all they can to keep their plants in good order. As their cars are getting old it is their duty to inspect them with special care. This they have failed to do.

Every case of death arising from a street car accident should be investigated thoroughly, so that the exact cause may be determined beyond doubt. The recommendation of the coroner that the police coöperate more effectively than at present in the collection of evidence should be heeded. It should be ascertained in every instance whether the company was wholly, partially, or not at all to blame.

The recommendation of the coroner that the council shall pass ordinances to compel the companies to install up to date equipment and give the public safe service is excellent. He does not mean that the council shall pass futile ordinances against overcrowding cars but that it shall make an agreement with the companies under which they can be compelled to put on good cars and enough of them. There can be such an agreement if Mayor Dunne will cease from troubling and give "I. M. O." a rest and if the companies and the council drop unreasonable demands and find a fair, honest basis for settlement. As long as the companies run their cars under existing conditions and are collecting millions annually from the public they should be compelled to keep their tracks in better order than those on North State street, to operate every car which is in good shape, and to replace reckless with cautious motormen.

A DEDICATION TO LABOR.

There is something almost pathetic in the plan of a firm believer in the cause of union labor to devote his lisping child to the betterment of the race as such betterment may be secured through faithfulness to the ideals of labor. With religious rite and solemn ceremony this future knight is to be formally dedicated to a cause held dear by his parents.

The story reminds one forcibly of the unrelenting hate of Hamilcar, which led him to place his 9 year old son, Hannibal, upon the altar and make him swear eternal enmity to Rome, the great foe of Carthage. Or, again, there is thought of the familiar story of Hannah, who dedicated the boy Samuel to Jehovah, taking him to the temple in his early childhood and watching his development as, day by day, he grew up into manhood and into a place of responsibility and power.

No doubt it recalls to many a father and mother the hopes and aspirations which have centered about their children. Many a father has had his heart beat fast with high hopes that his son might have better advantages than he, might secure more commanding place in the world than he, might accumulate more wealth than he. Many a mother has prayed and wept over her children as she has dreamed of their possibilities in the opening future. It is no new thing, this decision of the parents to give their child to some sacred cause. It is the oft repeated story of human affection and human hopes.

The pathos of it all is that no one can forecast the future of an individual. The child, nurtured with watchful care, educated for a certain calling, surrounded with every possible opportunity for usefulness, may develop tendencies far from the ideals of his parents. The boy designed for the church may prove to be of anything but godly life. The intended lawyer may make a better farmer. The farmer's hope that his son may succeed him in the home community as farmer on the old place, as leader in the church, in local politics, in social standing, in the narrow environment of rural life, is often shattered as the boy drifts away to the city to seek a precarious living as a lawyer or physician, when he might have freedom and wealth on the farm. It is only the few among the thousands of Elkanahs and Hannahs that have the joy of seeing their Samuels realize the lofty ideals of parental aspiration.

The failure of boys whose fond parents baptized them with high sounding names has long since been an American joke, as "Wash" and "Link" or "Tom" have occupied the plane of mediocrity or sunk even beneath that, still carrying with them the appellations reminding of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, or Thomas Jefferson. The public dedication of a baby may be but one step in a series that shall lead to the exaltation of a future champion of the oppressed. Or it may furnish ammunition for future shots from boy and girl companions, which will wound with the most intense pain of childhood's darts. The proposition has its interest as showing the devotion of people for a cause. There is no one who can prophesy the position of the boy a score of years hence, when the demands of manhood are made upon him.

UNPRECEDENTED PROSPERITY.

Everything shows the wonderful prosperity of the United States. That building interests are prospering is plain to any observer, this being true not alone of the cities but of the smaller places. Iron and steel are reported by the mercantile agencies to be on an exceptionally strong financial basis. The advance orders indicate that the business will continue good for at least a year to come. The only limitations to the field of building operations are the enhanced cost of materials and the high rates demanded by labor.

Every farmer in the land has his face wreathed in smiles. The Hessian fly, and the army worm, and other disturbers of his peace cannot make the smile come off. The weekly trade review says, "Underlying the confidence in the future course of business are the magnificent crop prospects and the prosperous agricultural interests." In this day of urban activity some may be disposed to underrate the importance of the farmer, but it is a pretty safe hazard that when the agricultural interests are prosperous other business conditions feel the upward impulse.

The movement of freight is reported to reach a tonnage never before recorded, this telling of the increasing wealth of the rail and lake carriers. What is true of the central west, and especially of the territory immediately tributary to Chicago, is also true of the whole country. The carriers everywhere are rushed to the limit to meet their responsibilities in a time of overwhelming good fortune.

To be more specific, the reviewers of trade say that the examination of the reports of business during the first half of 1906, now practically complete, show clearly that the six months made the "most prosperous period in the history of the nation." There is the even more pleasing assurance that, "unless heavy cancellations occur the last half of the year will establish a still higher record."

Such statements make the vacation period a good time to think of the gratitude which every American should feel because his lines are cast in such pleasant places. With peace as the motto in our international relationships and prosperity the report from every domestic industry the prophet of ill finds small chance for his lamentations, while the man who loves to tell of his country's greatness and glory has an unprecedented opportunity.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

ALTHOUGH Lord Esher's name is rarely seen in print, and as far as the public is concerned he remains in the background, yet he justly has been described as one of the potent influences of the present day in England. It is doubtful if there is any one whose name carries a greater amount of weight with the king, who consults him upon every conceivable question, whether it be matters of state or of finance, of the domestic economy of the royal household or problems pertaining to his majesty's administration as supreme arbiter of English society.

The only office which he now holds is that of lieutenant governor and deputy constable of Windsor castle, and it is no secret to those behind the scenes that besides declining the permanent undersecretaryships of state of two of the most important government departments, he likewise refused the post of minister of war when it was strongly pressed upon him by the king. He, however, allowed himself to be induced by the king to consent to become chairman of the royal commission for the reform of the war department, and it is to him that the English people are indebted for the abolition of many of the most crying abuses of those Augean stables of the government administration. For a time Lord Esher was secretary of the government board of works, and it was this that first brought him into such close contact with the king. But he has long since severed his connection with that branch of the service, and is generally understood to have become one of the partners of Sir Ernest Cassel, the Anglo-German banker who financed the Nile dam in Egypt. This, however, is merely a matter of belief and of gossip. For Lord Esher keeps his own counsel, and he is not the sort of man to whom people are apt to address questions that are indiscreet.

Lord Esher first entered public life at the age of 26 as private secretary to the duke of Devonshire, then the marquis of Hartington, and for nearly a decade Reggie Brett, as he was known in those days to his friends, not only enjoyed the confidence of his chief but likewise did much of his ministerial work, the duke being the most indolent of men. As the duke was at the head of the war department during the Egyptian campaign and the Soudan expedition, Lord Esher had plenty of opportunity of becoming acquainted with all the ins and outs of the war department, which, according to many, he virtually "ran" in those days, the duke leaving almost everything to him.

But it was certainly not his fault if the army sent out from England to relieve and rescue Gen. Gordon in 1884 did not reach Khartum in time. Every conceivable obstacle was placed in the way of its dispatch by Mr. Gladstone, who was reluctant to the last to waste any more English lives or treasure upon Egypt, and there is no doubt that Lord Esher's withdrawal of his political allegiance from the Grand Old Man was largely attributable to his attitude in this particular respect. For Lord Esher was one of the closest and most intimate friends of China Gordon, who had nursed the viscount's brother on his deathbed, and among the most valued of all Lord Esher's possessions in his charming home in the Windsor forest are a number of keepsakes presented to him by the hero of Khartum.

The home in question goes by the name of Orchard Lea, and the late Queen Victoria, who had known both Lady Esher and himself from their childhood, was wont during the last ten years of her life to often drive over from Windsor castle to visit them and to take tea at Orchard Lea.

It is somewhat rare for the favor of one sovereign to be continued to an individual by the succeeding occupant of the throne. But Lord Esher stands quite as high in the confidence and regard of King Edward as he did in that of Queen Victoria. One of the most striking proofs of the value which the present ruler of the British empire attaches to the viscount's judgment, tact, and discretion is to be found in the fact that he has confided to him all the late queen's confidential papers, in order to make a selection therefrom for publication in a species of royal history of her reign. These documents embrace her correspondence not only with her ministers and with English statesmen, both in and out of office, but also with other members of the royal family and with foreign rulers, throughout a period of threescore years. Nor has any exception been taken to the king's selection of Lord Esher for the task of compiling "Queen Victoria's Life and Letters" from all this material, of such inestimable value to the student of history. Indeed, it seems to be unanimously agreed that no better choice could have been made for the work.

Lord Esher, in the days when he was private secretary to the duke of Devonshire, used to keep a small racing stud. But he has long since given this up, being unable to find the time required to supervise his stables. Indeed, every hour may be said to be taken up with the business of his king. All the work of restoring, redecorating, and rearranging Windsor castle, and its transformation into one of the most luxurious and perfect of royal abodes in Europe, has been carried out by his suggestion and under his supervision. He has done the same for Holyrood and for Balmoral, and he has converted Buckingham palace from one of the most hideous and unhealthy of metropolitan edifices into the stateliest and most dignified of royal homes. He possesses a perfect genius for arrangement, and the splendid blocks of government offices in Parliament street, as well as the new home of the Albert and Victoria Museum in South Kensington, may be regarded as a sort of memorial of the time when he was in control of the government office of works. He inaugurated there an entirely new method in building government offices. He entertained the profoundest disbelief in the capacity of architects to design a public building suitable for the work of the government department. He therefore restricted the architects to the exterior, insisting that the arrangement of the interior should be left to his own department, the office of works.

No one understands better than himself the arrangement of those magnificent pageants which have been such a feature of the present reign, and if Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee, her funeral ceremonies, and the coronation of King Edward worked so smoothly and without the slightest hitch, it was wholly due to his gift of organization and to his care in providing everything beforehand, leaving nothing to chance.

Lady Esher, like himself, wields a gifted pen, and his "Footprints of Statesmen" and "The Yoke of Empire" have their counterpart in her volumes of graceful poems. She may be described as half an American. For, while her father was Baron von der Weyer, for many years the Belgian envoy in London, and the personal representative there of Queen Victoria's uncle and former guardian, the late King Leopold, her mother was a daughter of that Joseph Bates of Boston who was the American partner of the great banking house of Baring. It was at Mr. Bates' house at Twickenham, on the Thames, that all those distinguished Americans who visited England during the first thirty years of the Victorian era were enabled to meet the leading men of Great Britain.

Lord Esher is the second peer of his name. His viscounty was bestowed upon his father in recognition of his services on the bench, and especially as the master of the rolls. He was one of the wittiest and assuredly the most handsome and courtly member of the English bar, and found a fitting consort in his French born wife, the step-daughter of the well known Col. Gurwood, whose name will be remembered by all who are interested in military history in connection with his standard work on "The Campaigns of the Duke of Wellington."

Lady Henry Somerset takes exception to the statement contained in my letter of May 28 that at the time of her separation from her husband the latter was retained by Queen Victoria as controller of her household, that his wife's name was entered upon her majesty's black books, and that she was never again received at court during the Victorian reign. Lady Henry states that a special exception was made in her favor to the rule excluding from court women separated from their husbands, whether through their own fault or not, and that she was frequently present at drawing rooms. Lady Henry is anxious that I should make this known, and I hereby comply with her wishes.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

A NAMELESS PLAY.

In Three Acts.
BY MARGUERITE MERINGTON.

Presented by Charles Richman and His Company at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, July 30, 1906. The Cast:

Vincent Adams	Charles Richman
Dr. Ludlow	Edward L. Walton
Ellis Price	George Christie
Brownell Mason	R. A. Roberts
Adrian Starr	Robert T. Haines
Silas Gooch	Stephen Maley
Julian	Frederick Heider
Christie Ludlow	Sarah Truax
Mrs. Ludlow	Louise Randolph
Nora	Lucille Flaven
Dorothy	Mary Ryan
Huldah	Ada Gilman

If Henry Arthur Jones had not announced already that his forthcoming play would be called "The Hypocrites" this title might be suggested as being quite appropriate for Marguerite Merington's unnamed play, which had its première at the Grand last evening. With but two exceptions the characters the playwright has assembled for the development of her plot are hypocritical and deceitful. Not always present in the same degree but never lacking is this trait. Therefore, as a creator of character Miss Merington is not consistent, for a much larger proportion of truth and sincerity is to be found in the human family than her characterizations would indicate.

Judged on its merits as a piece of dramatic writing, the new play is crude and amateurish in construction. Time honored devices are employed constantly and the lines are frequently stilted and unnatural. There is not one novel idea worth singling out for commendation. The indiscretions of a wife, the threat of compromising letters, and the sacrifice of a sister's fair name are the threads from which the plot is woven, and they have been used so frequently in days gone by and are employed so conventionally in the present instance that interest and sympathy are lacking.

The scenes are laid in a small New York state town—Rose Valley—and the interest centers in the family of the minister, Dr. Ludlow. Christie, his only child by his first wife, is the good angel of the household and of the village. Nora, Dorothy, and Julian, the children of the second marriage, are the first dissemblers encountered, for in the opening scene, while they are supposed to be studying diligently, they are going about their own pursuits. Dorothy is reading a trashy novel, Nora is writing a love letter, and Julian is drawing caricatures. Mrs. Ludlow is posing before clubs and societies as a model wife and mother, and is singularly blind to her home duties.

Vincent Adams, the owner of the Manor house and the rich man of the neighborhood, arrives on the scene in company with Brownell Mason, the copper king. Mason has been endeavoring to dispose of his wealth by founding a theological institution at Masonville, and it is in search of a young theologian, Ellis Price, that he comes to Rose Valley. Price and Christie Ludlow are in love with each other and for financial reasons a marriage between them has been out of the question, but the arrival of Mason with his offer to Price clears the way.

To free himself from the attentions of scheming daughters and matchmaking mothers Adams has caused the report of his marriage to be circulated, and, as he is a man of leisure and spends much time abroad, the villagers have no good reason to doubt the story. However, he, too, is a suitor for the hand of Christie, but, learning of her love for Price, makes a hasty departure for Europe.

Price, the smug young theologue, has had a previous affair of the heart, with Nora Ludlow, and although the wound is but a scratch in her case, her vanity is hurt when she learns that her erstwhile lover has transferred his affection to her older sister. She determines to make trouble between them and succeeds in placing Price in a compromising position, in which he is discovered by Christie. The elder sister, believing that Price has trifled with Nora, insists on relinquishing him, and Price and Nora marry and go to live in Masonville.

The second act is placed two years later. The minister, nagged by his wife, has been speculating in stocks and has lost all his own savings, as well as some church funds. In an effort to repay he has involved himself still more deeply with Deacon Gooch, and a mortgage on the home is about to be foreclosed. Price and Nora come home for their first visit, bringing a babe. In her first moment of confidence Nora tells Christie that she has become tired of Price and has indulged in a clandestine love affair with an artist. Her husband has learned of her deception and has brought her home. Nora brazenly boasts of her conquest, but for the sake of respectability asks Christie's aid in bringing about a reconciliation. This Christie accomplishes, Price believing Nora's lies, and all is forgiven.

Vincent Adams comes back to Rose Valley, bringing his nephew, Adrian Starr, an artist and the man in the case. At a garden party given at the Manor house Starr and Nora meet and she immediately falls under his influence. He is in possession of letters of hers, and under promise of returning them to her, invites her to come to his rooms that night. Christie learns of Nora's intention and goes in her stead. Starr is at first insolent and defiant, but finally accedes to Christie's request and gives up the letters. She is about to leave when Price arrives, suspecting that his wife is with Starr. Christie is discovered and shoulders the disgrace and the blame.

The final act is a brief straightening out of the tangle. Nora does the one straightforward act of her life and makes a confession. Adams wins Christie as his wife, and all the clouds that shadowed the "House of Deception" are dispelled.

The weaknesses in construction are many and frequent. Whenever there comes a moment's pause, regardless of time and place, the village choir is brought in for the weekly rehearsal. When in the last act the chorus of villagers appeared an audible groan escaped from an audience which had been indulgent throughout but was fast reaching the limit of its endurance. The scene between Dorothy and Mason, in which a young and supposedly innocent girl is made to force a proposal from a recently bereaved widower, may amuse the thoughtless, but its good taste is questionable.

Charles Richman is featured, but his rôle taxes him lightly. He has less to do than almost any one else in the cast. He is manly and convincing whenever the chance is offered him. Miss Truax, as Christie, has the one opportunity in the play, and succeeds admirably. She has never made a more attractive appearance personally. Her Christie was a sunny tempered, whole souled, courageous girl. She never overacted, and delivered her lines with a ring of sincerity. Her appeal to and defiance of Starr in the third act was well worked up and was awarded much applause and several curtain calls.

Lucille Flaven was decidedly at a disadvantage, for a more despicable character could not have been offered her than this Nora, who possessed no redeeming trait. Mary Ryan appeared as a scheming and designing ingénue, a new stage type and not a wholly pleasing one, but through no fault of Miss Ryan's.

Robert T. Haines came on only in the third act and had little to do. Louise Randolph made the part of Mrs. Ludlow sufficiently disliked to warrant praise for her acting. R. A. Roberts as Brownell Mason relieved the somberness of the theme when he appeared. May Vokes as Pleasantina, contributed one of her skillfully created slavey rôles, never failed to arouse merriment and made the popular hit of the evening. Ada Gilman was conventional as the village gossip, and Frederick Heider pleased as the precocious youngster.

Pride.

"You need not be so critical," says the person accused. "You say I have a vinegary disposition, but every one knows you have one, too."

A Novel in a Nutshell

VANITY SQUARE.
A NOVEL BY EDGAR SALTUS.
J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia.

Scene, Vanity square.
Time, hanging heavily.
Wax figures (with all movements complete).
Mr. and Mrs. Uxhill and their little girl; Miss Sixmith, a trained nurse; the family physician; and a few others which move about, but do little talking.

A poor man, upon whom devolves the responsibility of going downtown once a week to cut off coupons, presents to anatomists of the morbid a curious example of that mental disease of confused personality. The victim always thinks he is somebody that he isn't, and so is this Mr. Uxhill a sort of appleless Adam who has never discovered that he is without even the shred of a moral or the fag end of manliness to render him fit for observance or worthy of attention. What with this coupon cutting, the whirl of society, and the company of a fair wife who actually persists in remaining at home with him, amiable and content, he is developing all the symptoms of ennui, when his young daughter considerately becomes ill and so introduces upon the scene the elements of salvation, the family physician and a trained nurse.

The doctor's face is "the color of brick," which we trust means Milwaukee brick, for the effect would otherwise be startling, and we need all our astonishment for our introduction to the nurse who accompanies him. Miss Sixmith can and does say "hypnogogic hallucinations" without so much as a blink, and what is more to the purpose of this story she is beautiful. At dinner she appears in an effective gown—an evening gown of black. She is regal.

Uxhill greets her with a remark which in real life would arouse a good nurse's professional fears at once. "One should have smoked glasses to look at you," says he, and then probably spills his soup or transports the pâte du foie on his knife, for his wife becomes intuitive, and—well, when a woman's intuition begins one might as well go out to hunt up an alibi.

Later Uxhill encounters "the vision" in the library, and she proves to be a cold, cold vision, a veritable icicle; for what heart is so aged that it would not be stirred to erstwhile passion when this man addresses her with such a burst of ardour as this:

"He got up, went to her, peered in her eyes, and in a voice that was hardly above a whisper, said swiftly, 'At luncheon I could have said to you, kiss me and kill me, but kiss me first. Since then——'

"With the air of a divinity offended at being but looked at the girl interrupted him, 'Once and for all, I forbid you to address me as you have.'"

But, although she can withstand such eloquence, it is not supposable that a man's face will be left without some noble after glow of such emotional fire—and Mrs. Uxhill arrives upon the scene just then with her intuition.

Now, it is not to be understood by this that Mrs. Uxhill will write a letter to Beatrice Fairfax or a book to the world. No matter what the misogynist may have uttered in his zeal, he must swallow his words in despair when he learns what this woman did.

First, she contracts a "touch of coryza" (model wives will take note), and so places herself at the mercies of the fair nurse who promptly proceeds to administer slow poison in discreet doses. When she discovers, whether by her intuition or otherwise, we cannot say, that her medicine is intended to kill her, believing her husband as guilty as the nurse, Mrs. Uxhill swallows one last dose and leaves—getting up from her bed, taking her young daughter, and giving a clear field to the man whom she still loves and the woman toward whom she evinces no bitterness.

Mr. Uxhill thereupon loses his head, as good husbands do, and rushes about in a circle for a few days, contracts a disease of the brain which resummons the brick faced doctor and the beautiful toxicologist to his bedside; and then, no doubt, feeling that he has done his duty and that it is time to reap the reward of such husbandly virtue, he falls into a deep sleep and awakes to look into "the vision's" eyes.

Later he has the opportunity of making good what he proclaimed in the library. But it seems that he has changed his mind and is not so hungry for death, having kissed her once, more or less, but recovers to go post haste for the divorce which will permit him to marry the vision.

Miss Sixmith, with rare discretion, is about to depart from the Uxhill mansion, now that her mission is accomplished and her patient restored to his normal condition of simpering immorality.

They dine together before she goes and we must step aside for one moment en passant to learn something worth while.

"On the dream's fork was a bit of orange that had bathed with other fruits in Maraschino. She put the fork down and looked at him reproachfully. . . . Stella went back to her orange. But from the fork it had slipped. She tried to fish it up, and, failing, looked at it as though it were some curious thing. It must have been curious, some highly charged slice, perhaps. The fork with which she was spearing at it gave little taps, not on it, but against the plate. Had you not known better you would have said that the phenomenon was due, not to the orange, but to her; to some tremor, perhaps."

This will come as a paragraph of revelation to those who had never before known the ingenious method of getting around an ignominious failure in the field of "phenomena" here referred to, and no longer will the furtive wretch at table sin in obscurity, for now we may most virtuously detect the harborer of illicit emotion by his manipulation of hot potatoes, sphagetti, asparagus stems, and slippery fruit.

But the most interesting question hereby suggested—viz.: Did the vision succeed in catching the bit of orange or did it continue its ablutions in Maraschino, must be left to the profound while we turn again to witness the artistic solution of this problem.

Uxhill sets out for the divorce, but instead gets evidence of the poisoning which has driven his wife from home. Now, a man may beat his dog all he will, but he will beat another man who tries it; and it is on this principle, no doubt, that Mr. Uxhill's righteous indignation is aroused to act as an instant eradicator, expelling all Sixmith germs from his manly bosom and sending him flying in the opposite direction to his wife, who receives him with open arms.

We are deeply touched by the magnanimity of our hero as he forgives his wife for all her sins and allows her to return home, and it is to be hoped that all this has not been in vain; that this woman will devote the rest of her life to repay her husband for the protection of his name and honor.

"KILTIES" TO GIVE PROGRAM ON TRIBUNE BABIES' DAY.

Canada's Band to Play Special Music and Other White City Attractions to Make Extra Efforts Next Tuesday.

The following contributions to THE TRIBUNE summer hospital and free ice fund have been received:

Mrs. Harry Willson	5.00
Kitty	.40
Bertha D. Simon	5.00
Florabelle Reinach	1.00
Benefit concert given at Clear Lake Manor, Buchanan, Mich.	20.00
A Friend	7.00
Harold H. Rice, Hyde Park	2.00
S. R. W.	1.00
Anonymous	10.00
F. club	1.00
Total to date	$1,596.00

Contributions to the fund should be mailed to THE TRIBUNE. Checks should be made payable to F. H. Rawson, treasurer. A few dollars will keep a sick baby at THE TRIBUNE'S hospital for a week. Help save the babies.

A special program will be given by the Kilties, Canada's greatest band, on THE TRIBUNE babies' day at White City a week from today. This announcement was made yesterday by the White City management.

The Kilties, who wear the costume of the Scotch highlander, have proved to be one of the most popular attractions ever put on the boards at White City, and the announcement that a special program is to be arranged for the day on which the proceeds from the sale of tickets to the big amusement park are to be turned over to THE TRIBUNE hospital and ice fund means that the purchasers of tickets for the big benefit will be given an opportunity not offered on any other day.

On "TRIBUNE babies' day" the Kilties will play every piece that has helped to make the Canadian band famous in the musical world, together with a number of selections especially appropriate to the occasion. Two concerts will be given during the day—one during the afternoon and the other in the evening. Both concerts will be held in the plaza and will be free to all holders of THE TRIBUNE ice and hospital fund benefit tickets.

Extra Attractions Offered.

In addition a number of attractions brought from the New York hippodrome will be offered on the plaza stages on that day. The proprietor of every show in White City during the day promised to introduce a number of new acts and features on TRIBUNE babies' day—attractions which will not again be offered during the season.

The wild animal show will be lengthened and every animal from the big lion down to the smallest yelping dog will be called upon to go through his entire repertoire on next Tuesday. Special features will be put on the boards at the vaudeville theater, at the Manikin theater, in the Midget City theater, and at all the other playhouses in White City. No effort will be spared by the management to make next Tuesday the biggest day in the history of White City in point of the number of attractions offered.

Admission tickets to the White City next Tuesday are on sale today at every newsstand in the city and at all TRIBUNE "want ad" branches, at the downtown hotels and depots. Tickets also may be obtained at the business office of THE TRIBUNE.

Should it rain on the day of the benefit, the tickets will be honored at the White City on Wednesday, the day following. This guarantee was made during the day by President Beifield of the White City company.

Every purchaser of a ticket to White City for Tuesday, Aug. 7, will know that his dime has given some poor baby a chance to live. Ten cents will buy 100 pounds of ice to keep the milk supplied to the tenement babies from spoiling. Every purchaser of fifty tickets will know that he has been the cause of taking some sick child or invalid mother out of the insanitary home surroundings and giving it the opportunity to regain health.

HUNT WITNESSES FOR OIL INQUIRY

FEAR RUSE BY OFFICIALS.

Men Who Seek Immunity May Hide Employes; News of the Railroads.

While the government attorneys will carefully avoid summoning the high officials of the Standard Oil company or of the railroads against whom they hope to secure indictments, the number of minor employés who will be subpœnaed depends largely upon how big a list of them the attorneys are able to get. It is the intention of District Attorney Morrison and his assistants to call before the grand jury, which will convene here next Monday, every person from whom they think there is any chance of obtaining light upon the alleged violations of the anti-trust laws.

The attorneys are carefully guarding the names they have obtained, for fear these men will be sent away or hidden by the officials of the companies, who would be damaged by their testimony. The prosecutors realise that they are dealing with the strongest corporation in the world, which will not hesitate to use its power in any manner possible to save itself or its officials.

It is the government's announced intention to try to get indictments against the Standard Oil company and its officials under the anti-trust law, which provides a punishment of a jail sentence as well as a heavy fine.

Telegraph Lines Being Rebuilt.

The telegraph lines of the Rock Island-Frisco system are being reconstructed at a cost of more than half a million dollars. Most of the block signaling system which is being constructed in Illinois and Iowa will be in commission by Aug. 1, and then work will commence on block signal extensions on other parts of the system. A line from Joppa, Ill., to Jackson, Tenn., is to be constructed by the Frisco, it is said, as the result of the building plans of the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City railway.

A new idea has been presented to the railroads by a man in St. Paul, who claims that he has a device which will revolutionize the operation of trains and especially passenger trains. His proposition is to have the locomotive push instead of pull the train, and he claims that it will not only be more economical but safer. The scheme which he has devised is to have an observation vestibule on the forward end of the first car. In this will be stationed a lookout, who will have control of the emergency air brakes, the whistle, and the bell.

Rails and Equipment Ordered.

The aggregate tonnage on the books of the steel mills of the country for delivery in 1907 exceeds 1,500,000 tons. Taking this into consideration it is safe to assume that the total booking for rails for delivery next year will exceed 3,000,000 tons. The railroads are more prosperous than they have been for years, owing to continued good business.

President Delano of the Wabash has asked bids for 80 locomotives, 4,000 freight cars of 50 tons burden, and 2,000 freight cars of 40 tons burden. The contract will be awarded within the next six weeks and the equipment will be paid for out of a new loan which recently was made in Paris. Despite the fact that the Gould lines have ordered a large quantity of steel rails this year it is believed the Wabash will soon place another large order. It is known that Gould has plans for many extensions, and the increasing of terminal facilities in many places, among which is Chicago. One of the weakest points on the Wabash is Chicago, where the terminals are inadequate to care for the business that it ought to get out of here. When Ramsey was president he paid much attention to building up the St. Louis and Pittsburg terminals, but left the Chicago end to look out for itself, and the consequence is that the Wabash only carries about 6 per cent of the eastbound traffic.

Five Acres, with Water Front, Near Mayflower Avenue, Sold to Mark S. Willing for Forty Thousand Dollars.

Granger Farwell has sold to Mark S. Willing a tract of five acres on the lake shore near Mayflower avenue, Lake Forest, for $40,000. It is Mr. Willing's intention to improve with a handsome residence.

St. Mary's settlement, a Catholic woman's league, has bought from Anna M. Bunker 121x126 feet at Forty-fourth and Union streets for $10,000.

Hiram B. Peabody, who owns the property at the southwest corner of Madison and Halsted streets, 100x125 feet, has added to it by the purchase from the estate of Frederick H. Winston of 30x125 feet and two story building on the west side of Halsted street, 100 feet south of Madison, for $17,500.

The Chicago City railway company has bought from the South Side Elevated railroad company the property at the northwest corner of Wabash avenue and Fortieth street, 95½x160 feet, except a triangular piece 33x80 feet in the rear abutting the alley, for $25,000.

The old Frank Cooper residence at 2440 Michigan avenue, with 49x191 feet of ground, was conveyed by John Hewitt to E. Louis Hedrich for a consideration of $1, subject to an incumbrance of $16,000. Hedrich subsequently conveyed the property to Louis T. Orr for $40,000, subject to the same incumbrance.

Hedrich also conveyed to Orr the property at 1507 Michigan avenue, 30x161 feet, for $45,000, subject to an incumbrance of $30,000.

Joseph Donnersberger is trustee in a loan of $30,000, five years, at 5 per cent, secured by property at Prairie avenue and Fifty-first street, 98x124¾ feet.

FOUR STRAIGHT GAMES FOR CUBS

CHANCE MAKES A HOMER.

[BY SY.]

Boston, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—Chicago made it four straight from Boston today in a long batting contest which finished 5 to 2 in the Spuds' favor.

Lundgren was hit a shade harder than Lindaman, but kept the hits scattered in better fashion. Not until near the end did Tenney's men have Carl in serious trouble; then it was staved off with the help of fine fielding. Once a double play by Evers and Tinker stopped the gap. Again Schulte's good arm prevented a run by cutting it off at the plate on a long fly.

The Spuds bunched their hits to better advantage in the first and seventh innings. Chance led in the stick work with two singles and a home run, the four bagger being made in the ninth with the bases empty.

An accident to Evers, who got a bad bump under the eye from a hot grounder, may keep him on the bench for a day or two, but no longer. The Spuds began early with two runs in the opener. Bridwell's fumble gave Slagle his life, and Sheckard sacrificed expeditiously. Schulte was out, but Chance singled against the right field fence, scoring Slagle. The manager then stole second and scored on Steinfeldt's single to left. Tinker closed with a roller to Tenney.

Bad Start by Lundgren.

Lundgren got a bad start, for two singles, a sacrifice, and a pass filled the sacks with only one dead in Boston's half. Right there Tinker staved off woe by jumping in the air and pulling down Howard's line drive, just missing a double play on it. Dolan rapped hotly to Evers, and the gap which looked as big as a barn door was closed.

The Spuds failed to take advantage of the good opening presented by Dolan's muff of Kling's fly in the second after one was out. Lundgren singled to left and Slagle walked, filling the bases. Sheckard hit straight to Tenney, forcing Lundgren at the plate, and Schulte popped to Dolan. Bridwell and Tenney started off again in the third with singles off Lundgren, but Brid was nailed stealing second before Tenney pickled his hit. Consequently, nothing happened, because Tenney stood fuming on first. Brain popped to Kling and Bates struck out.

Spuds Hit Spit Ball.

The Spuds hit Lindaman's spit ball in the third, fourth, and fifth rounds, but phenomenal support on the infield cut off hits and the visitors were disposed of three in a row each time. Brain was chief swat killer, with Strobel as chief assistant. For the third time in succession Bridwell and Tenney reached first base in the fifth, but two were out already, and Slagle camped under Brain's long fly, keeping the row of goose eggs continuous.

Chicago broke down Bostons' guard again in the seventh and made Lundgren's burden lighter. Kling led off with a bingle to left. Lundgren struck out trying to bunt, but Slagle delivered a single to right, driving Kling to third, and going to second himself on the throw in. Sheckard hit to Bridwell and was out, but it scored Kling. Schulte then beat out his roller to Bridwell, letting Slagle home with a second run. Chance cracked a single to left, but Steinfeldt's grounder finished the volley.

Boston Scores in Seventh.

Boston scored its first run in its half when Strobel and Lindaman led with singles. Bridwell fouled, but Tenney bumped right field fence for a single, scoring Strobel. Brain stung one straight at Evers on the ground, and a lightning double play closed the threatening gap.

Boston threatened seriously again in the eighth. Bates and Howard singled, the latter knocking Evers out with a nasty bounder which hit Johnny under the eye. Lundgren's wild throw gave Dolan his life, letting Bates score. Then Schulte came to Lundgren's rescue. He caught O'Neil's fly, and Howard dared not try to score from third. Schulte likewise caught Strobel's high one, and this time Howard tried for home, but was nailed by a step, ending the round.

Home Run by Chance.

Notes of the Spuds.

Kling and Lundgren singled after two were out in the eighth, but Brain cut off Slagle's efforts, forcing Kling at third.

Kling misjudged Howard's high foul in the sixth, overrunning it, but Del skied to Slagle. Dolan then singled, but Lundy fanned O'Neil quickly.

Evers got a frightful rap under the right eye from Howard's hit in the eighth, the ball taking a nasty bound. He had to retire in Hofman's favor.

Schulte and Chance let Howard's pop fly fall safe between them at the beginning of Boston's fourth, but Schulte picked up the ball and winged it to Tinker on a line in time to nail Howard, who tried to stretch it into a double.

Brain robbed Chance of a hit in a barefaced manner in the third. Dave dove toward third, knocked the ball down, and then pegged wildly to first. Tenney completed a great play by stabbing the wide throw with one hand and holding it.

FOUR STRAIGHT TO NEW YORK.

Giants Have Little Difficulty in Making Clean Sweep of Cincinnati Series, Winning Last, Nine to One.

New York, July 30.—New Yorks had little trouble in making it four straight from Cincinnati by winning today's game. Corcoran's errors were responsible for the big score of the home team. The fielding features were fine catches by Jude and Shannon. Score:

M'GINNITY AND PEITZ SUFFER FOR FIGHT IN PITTSBURG.

Both Are Fined and Suspended by Pulliam, the Former Until Aug. 6—Umpire O'Day Soaked $50.

New York, July 30.—President Harry C. Pulliam tonight announced his finding in the cases of the players Peitz of Pittsburg and McGinnity of New York, who recently engaged in an altercation at the Pittsburg ball park. McGinnity is fined $100 and suspended until Aug. 6. Peitz is fined $50, but his suspension is lifted tomorrow. President Pulliam also unexpectedly fined Umpire O'Day $50.

Pulliam says he fined Peitz for violating section 58 of the playing rules relative to coaching, as this violation precipitated the fight. Commenting on his decision, the league president says:

"I give notice to players in the National league that these penalties must not be taken as establishing a precedent by this office. I consider them light, and the only reason I impose such slight penalties is in recognition of the good order that has been maintained by nine-tenths of the National league players this season.

"Inasmuch as this entire disgraceful affair could have been avoided had Umpire O'Day, at the first breach of section 58, sent Peitz from the coaching lines, I impose a penalty upon that official."

SEESAW GAME TO HIGHLANDERS

Three Runs Made in Seventh Through Timely Hitting and Error—Cleveland Loses, Six to Four.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—New York won a seesaw game today, scoring three in the seventh on a double, two singles, and an error. Hess' support was weak at critical times. Score:

Cleveland Gets New Player.

Des Moines, Ia., July 30.—Ben Caffyn, left fielder for Des Moines for two years, was sold today to Cleveland, and will leave this week. Caffyn's price is said to be $3,000, $500 more than was paid for Bob Gahley by Pittsburg to Cantillon last year. Caffyn played in all but three games last season, and all but four this year. He has a batting average of .344, and a fielding average of .965.

Letcher to Succeed Ryan.

South Bend, Ind., July 30.—[Special.]—Kessler, a third baseman from the Kitty league, will replace Evans on the South Bend team. It is announced here that Ed McKean, the old Cleveland shortstop, will succeed McKinley of Dayton as manager, and that Fred Letcher, formerly of South Bend, will manage Evansville, succeeding Jimmy Ryan of Chicago.

Brashear to Manage Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., July 30.—[Special.]—Roy Brashear, second baseman on the team for four seasons, has been appointed manager of the Louisville ball club, Suter Sullivan having resigned. Sullivan was discouraged at the showing of the team on the road, and said tonight he quit for the best interests of the club. He will continue to play first base.

New Blood for St. Paul.

Memphis to Secure Catcher Stange.

Memphis, Tenn., July 30.—[Special.]—The Memphis club practically has accepted an offer by the Cincinnati club of Catcher Stange.

TRIPLE BY SULLY BEATS SENATORS

OWEN PROVES INVINCIBLE

With Clever Support to Back Him Up, Local Twirler Is Unhitable All the Way.

Bill Sullivan, with one mighty swat of his bat, overwhelmed the Senators yesterday and maintained unbroken the pledge of the White Sox not to lose a game on the home grounds during this visit.

Besides that mighty triple with two on bases, Sullivan garnered three more hits and led his team mates in avenging upon Patten all the wrongs suffered at the hands of the Stalwarts during the recent visit to the capital. Score, 4 to 1.

Owen was unhitable, and, aided by brilliant and clever support, he kept Stahl's warriors at bay during the entire contest, which was played in jig time. For three innings the White Sox hammered and sawed and planed away at Patten's curves, and during that time their ultra timely hitting yielded three runs, while their brilliant defense kept the Stalwarts helpless.

Sox Draw Blood in First.

The White Sox, remembering their pledge, went straight at Patten and scored in the opening round. With two out Isbell wounded Stahl with a slashing bounder, Davis cracked out a long single to right and Isbell, by desperate sprinting, scored all the way from first on the hit, Davis reaching second on the futile throw to the plate. Donohue walked after that, but C. Jones camped under Dougherty's fly and ended the rally.

Two hits were wasted in the second, Washing fielding being too keen, but in the third, after holding the Senators runless by clever fielding after Heydon opened the round with a double, the Sox clinched it. With one out Patton tried to strike out Davis with a quick return, and the veteran cricketed the ball over third for a two-bagger.

Close Call for Davis.

Donohue hit fiercely straight at Cross, who breasted the ball, fumbled, and recovered too late to get Donohue. Davis, meantime, had started to third and was forced to make a despairing slide to get back to second, escaping alive because Cross' snap throw was low. Dougherty hit straight to Patten, who hurled the sphere to Cross. With a double play in sight Cross, instead of touching the base and hurrying the ball across to first, waited and touched Davis out.

Two were gone and men on second and third when Sullivan lambasted the ball to the center field fence, scoring Donohue and Dougherty and reaching third on the hit, although there was a chance for C. Jones to cut him off had the latter handled the ball cleanly. Tannehill slammed into the ball and put a screaming single to left that sent Sullivan home with the fourth and last run for the Sox.

Owen Just Like a Clock.

Owen was pitching like clockwork, and the Senators were plugging away hopelessly. It looked like a shutout up to the sixth, when Patten himself rolled one safe past Tannehill. A moment later, when Sullivan returned the ball to Owen, Frank carelessly muffed it, and, slapping at it, rolled it back towards the plate, while Patten sprinted on to second. He reached third on Altizer's out, and scored when Stanley cracked the ball safe past Isbell.

Never again were Stahl's men dangerous until the ninth, when a gift and Schlafly's second hit aroused apprehension among the fans. Stahl drove a fly to Dougherty and it was over. Score:

Notes of the White Sox Game.

J. Towne, Comiskey's recent acquisition from Jay Town, Ia., will join the team today. Cantillon will bring him over from Des Moines.

The record of the two pitchers was a wonderful one. Patten got one putout and eight assists, while Owen had five assists. Neither struck out a batter.

Washington closes its engagement today, and the Sox have vowed to make it four straight to avenge the recent disaster at Washington. Smith is right to pitch.

Tannehill made a wonderful catch off Altizer's bat in the eighth, going clear over under the stand and capturing the ball, which just grazed the front of the boxes.

Heydon opened Washington's third inning with a ripping double over F. Jones' head and went to third on Patten's out. Tannehill, diving sideways, speared Altizer's hot bounder and cut Heydon off from the plate, saving a run.

The star feature of the game was a catch by Altizer in the fourth inning, which robbed F. Jones of a hit. Altizer, who is tall and lanky, ran back towards second, leaped, extended himself like an extension telescope, shot up one hand, and dragged down the ball.

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 30.—[Special.]—The annual field day and athletic meet of the Y. M. C. A. institute and training school was held today.

The final round in the July golf tournament was won by Dr. W. J. Monilaw of Des Moines, defeating J. G. Perkins of Chicago, 3 up, 2 to play. Monilaw's medal score was 82, the lowest ever made on the Kish Wau Ke Loc course.

The tennis tournament for the Stroud gold medal was won by G. A. McMichael of Atlantic, Ia., from Montgomery of Topeka. Score, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4. The free for all singles also was won by McMichael from Montgomery. The free for all doubles was won by McMichael and Jackson, Topeka, from Kallenberg and Crossman, Chicago, 6—1, 2—6, 6—2, 6—1.

There were nine field and track events and seven entries. L. Samse, the world's champion pole vaulter, was winner, with 447 points; McCord second, with 378. Results:

Discus throw—Won by Lee.
100 yard hurdles—Won by Samse, McCord second.
Running high jump—Won by Samse, Todd second.
12 pound shot put—Won by McCord, Cherrington second.
Running broad jump—Won by Morgan, Cherrington second.
Pole vault—Won by Samse, Todd second.

CONTESTS FOR GOLF PROS.

TWO TOURNAMENTS TO BE PROVIDED FOR PRESENT SEASON.

One Will Be Thirty-six Holes, Medal Play, in August, and the Other Will Be the Annual Championship in September—Midlothian Arranging a Tournament for Left Handed Competitors—Open Event of Homewood Country Club Tomorrow.

Directors of the Western Professional Golfers' association met yesterday and made preliminary arrangements for two tournaments—one a thirty-six hole medal play event, and the other the annual championship of the organization. Fred McLeod of the Midlothian club, the present holder of the title, will be called upon to defend it the last week in September at a course to be chosen later. The one day tournament will be held the third week in August.

President Robert White said negotiations were in progress for links for these events, and that if sufficient entries could be secured for the championship a qualifying medal play round would be played, otherwise it would be all match play. The other officials present at the meeting were J. W. Watson, David McIntosh, George O'Neil, W. Marshall, and James Foulis.

Secretary Helmer of the Midlothian club is arranging a tournament for next month in which only left handed players will be eligible. All of the local clubs have a few capable southpaw players, and it is thought nearly all of them will enter. The affair will be at thirty-six holes, medal play, Western Golf association handicaps.

Play in the open tournament of the Homewood Country club will start tomorrow morning with the qualifying round for the Flossmoor and subordinate cups. Chairman C. F. Thompson of the sports and pastimes committee has received entries from many of the leading players and a good field is assured. The Homewood cup will be played for on Saturday by teams of five from clubs. Ten teams have been nominated to date.

The women's open tournament of the Skokie Country club will start tomorrow. It is reported a number of the best players in the city will take part. It is expected the program will be made public on the morning of the first day.

Notes of the Golfers.

One day tournaments for women are scheduled for today at Midlothian and Calumet.

Matsu, the new lawn game, appears to have taken hold at several of the local golf clubs and has been installed at Midlothian, Chicago, Homewood, and other clubs.

American Meeting Today.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 30.—President O'Brien of the American association has called a meeting of the board of directors in Chicago tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to sift the charges against Umpire Owen. The board of directors' meeting will be followed by a meeting of the American association magnates.

CLEVELAND BOAT IS ALSO OUT.

Toledo Yachts, However, Will Take a Chance in the Lipton Cup Competition.

Toledo, O., July 30.—[Special.]—According to reports received by Toledo yacht officials tonight it is now doubtful if the Cleveland Yacht club will send its new racer to compete in the Lipton cup race at Chicago. It appears the Cleveland officials recently passed a resolution similar to that of the Country club at Detroit against the decision of the Chicago committee in allowing double rudder boats to compete. The Toledo officials, however, are sending out notices tonight for a meeting of the committee, composed of E. P. Warner, Chicago; M. B. Vorce, Cleveland; and J. S. McMurray, Toronto, to meet here on Thursday to adjust the whole matter. Toledo will enter the races either way the matter goes.

Expect Spray in Lipton Race.

Columbia Yacht club members have received word that Spray probably will be sent to the Lipton cup races by the Detroit Yacht club. Inasmuch as Spray has defeated Ste. Claire in races with the latter this year, it is thought the Detroit Country club's action in refusing to send Ste. Claire will be nullified. Local yachtsmen also expect the Cleveland boats, despite reports to the contrary from that city.

SWIMMING FEAT BY TOLEDO BOY

Jermain Chandler Buffets Waves from Lakeside to Kelly's Island, 4½ Miles, in 2 Hours 35 Min.

Toledo, O., July 30.—[Special.]—Jermain Chandler, aged 19, yesterday broke all previous records by swimming four and one-half miles from Lakeside to Kelly's island in two hours and thirty-five minutes. The swim was made in the teeth of a stiff southwest wind and heavy sea. Chandler was aided only by an occasional swallow of whisky. He was accompanied by a party of two in a rowboat and a launch. Chandler will attempt to swim from Put-In-Bay to Lakeside, a distance of six miles, when conditions are favorable.

Ski Jumping in Midsummer.

Capt. Carl Howelson, formerly of the Swedish army, said to be the world's champion ski jumper, arrived in Chicago yesterday, coming to compete against Hjalmar, a Chicago Norwegian jumper of note. Ski jumping in midsummer sounds like a joke, but the absence of snow has been made up by the construction of a steel runway at Chutes park, where the match will be held. The slide will be 300 feet in length and 125 feet in height. The lowest edge will be over the lake, into which the jumpers will plunge. The date of the match has not been announced.

ANN DIRECT'S M.&M. M'HENRY DRIVING

Black Mare Wins Rich $10,000 Purse for 2:24 Trotters at Cleveland.

HONORS GO TO DRIVER.

Victory Due to Superb Reinsmanship of Veteran; Silver Band Scratched.

[BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.]

Cleveland, O., July 30.—[Special.]—Myron McHenry, assisted by the black mare Ann Direct, won the $10,000 purse, the M. & M., for 2:24 trotters at the Cleveland track this afternoon.

That the man by his superb reinsmanship was more responsible for the victory than the mare with no more speed than several of the other starters was the universal testimony of expert horsemen, as well as the audience, which cheered the victory to the echo.

In the morning it was found that Silver Band, favorite in the betting, had come down with a fever, his temperature being 104. It was not believed he would start, but McGuire warmed up the Colorado entry and decided to take the chance, with the result that Silver Band, after leading for more than three-quarters of a mile in the opening heat, gave it up in the stretch and finished fifth. He was sixth the second heat and then drawn.

McHenry's First Work Since 1903.

With Silver Band barred in the pools, Ann Direct brought $25, Kenneth Mac. $14, Brilliant Girl and Belle Isle $10 each, and Czarina Dawson $11, Allie Jay $5, and the field $10. When it was announced from the judges' stand that McHenry would drive Ann Direct in place of Ben Walker, a cheer went up. Not since the fall of 1903, when he gave Dan Patch the champion pacing record, had the Illinois reinsman appeared in a sulky, and as Ann Direct was known to be a peculiar mare to drive, there were many who doubted his success.

In the opening heat Silver Band, that had the pole, went away at a great rate, considering the track was slow and holding from the big rains, but Czarina Dawson was right with him and had the pole at the turn.

This was the order as they passed the quarter in :32, Brilliant Girl, a fair third, and the rest strung out, with Ann Direct in the back row owing to a poor start, and Direata already practically distanced from the same cause.

Nothing Doing in First Heat.

The leading pair trotted to the half in 1:04, but on the upper turn Brilliant Girl, admirably driven by Jack Curry, began to close the gap. She was behind them as they turned into the homestretch, but took the middle of the track and came steadily. Czarina Dawson was the first to tire, and an insant later both she and Silver Band were coming back to Brilliant Girl, which won handily by a length in 2:11¼, the last half being done in 1:07¼ and the final quarter at a 2:16 gait, the track being tiring. McHenry, seeing that Ann Direct had no chance, took matters easy and was next to last at the finish.

Second Heat Another Story.

But in the second heat there was a different story. Ann Direct, scoring back of the pole horse, went away from the wire sailing, but owing to her position could not get through at once. Again Czarina Dawson made the pace, Belle Isle right with her. They stepped over to the quarter in :32½ and swept past the half in 1:05¼. At this point Ann Direct was fifth, but McHenry had her going good, and around the upper turn she closed on the leaders, although at the three-quarters she was five lengths to the bad. As the black mare headed into the home stretch McHenry had her going great guns.

Czarina Dawson Quits in Stretch.

Half way down the stretch Czarina Dawson quit trying and Brilliant Girl moved up and took the place from her, Belle Isle still there. Then the latter cracked, and Brilliant Girl looked all over a winner when the crowd saw McHenry coming down the middle of the road with the black mare. He had his old time seat and poise for a whirlwind finish, arms high in air and the mare balanced in the bit so she could not break if she tried. But few thought he could win from there. On and on came Ann Direct, however, seemingly trotting faster with every stride, and right at the wire she got up to Brilliant Girl and beat her out by a neck in 2:13.

In the third heat McHenry showed his complete control of the mare. McHenry took her over to the quarter in :32¾, holding the pole. Belle Isle was alongside, and there was no change to the half in 1:05, Czarina Dawson was third, and the others were strung out. All the way to the wire Ann Direct held her advantage, but there was a change in the other positions, Capt. Bacon coming with a rush in the last quarter, finishing second in 2:12¼.

Mainsheet Suffers Defeat.

A mild sensation of the afternoon was the defeat of Mainsheet in the third heat of the 2:08 trot. All the races here end with three heats, and after Mainsheet had taken the first two in his race, the opening one from Turleyin 2:09½ and the next from Angiola in the same time, it was thought the third mile would be merely a repetition of the others. But this time Geers got Turley away with his right foot first and forced the pace all the way. He took Mainsheet to the half in 1:03¾, then stepped him the next quarter in :31¼, making the middle half 1:02¾. The battle was kept up in the home stretch, until the long distance was reached when Mainsheet slowed up all at once, and was beaten before the people realized the fact, Turley coming to the wire a length ahead in 2:08¼.

HANDICAP AT BRIGHTON CAPTURED BY CONSISTENT.

F. L. Watts' Filly Defeats Good Field in Feature—Angler Scores Fifth Consecutive Win in the Fifth Race.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—T. L. Watts' Consistent won the Glencove handicap for 3 year olds at six furlongs at Brighton today. he had a pull in the weights, Inquisitor, the favorite, conceding twenty-four pounds to her.

At the start Notter took Consistent out for a heartbreaking struggle with King's Daughter, top weight. The latter quit at a half mile, after which Consistent went on and breezed home three lengths in front of Inquisitor in 1:13, which had five lengths over King's Daughter, the latter beating Belle of Pequest by a head.

Angler, which had won four consecutive races, was the succesful favorite in the fifth event, a handicap at a mile and a quarter. He carried top weight. H. E. Rowell's Corrigan made the running, attended by Coy Maid, for nearly a mile. Angler then joined them and the trio raced head and head until the homestretch was reached, where Angler drew away and was eased up by a length in 2:05 2-5. Corrigan beat Coy Maid with a margin of four lengths for the place.

F. A. Forsythe's Fountainblue, one of the best colts in training, made a show of his field in the third event, for 2 year olds, at five and a half furlongs. Lyne broke him off in front and the colt just galloped all the way to the wire, where he had eight lengths to spare, in 1:06 2-5.

RAIN SPOILS THE HILL CLIMB.

Three Cars Make Slippery Trip, and the Entire Contest May Start Anew Today.

Bretton Woods, N. H., July 30.—[Special.]—It rained today, and the hill climbing up Crawford Notch of 1.42 miles was postponed until afternoon. Three cars went up the measured distance on the hill. They were in different classes, and there is dissatisfaction here tonight over the prospect of some cars of the same class competing over a slippery road and others in the class having a chance to make the same distance over dry roads.

P. H. Allen and Dwight Huss went up in Oldsmobiles. Allen made the run in 4:20. Huss got stalled, and his time was 6:29. J. H. Jones, in a Knox waterless, ran up in 4:25. He was in another class.

It is possible the whole thing will be started anew tomorrow.

Galligan-Lewis Match Off.

Harry Lewis has called off his match at Grand Rapids with Joe Galligan. He says he cannot make the weight, 132 pounds at 3 o'clock. Galligan can scale 130 handily and is willing to meet anybody at that figure.

WIN DOUBLES IN WESTERN TENNIS

Waldner and Emerson Defeat Collins and Hunt at Kenwood.

FIVE SETS ARE PLAYED.

Mrs. R. B. Neff Takes Western Honors from Miss M. McAteer by Default.

The chief event of importance of the western tennis tournament at the Kenwood Country club was decided yesterday when L. H. Waldner and Nat Emerson defeated Kreigh Collins and Reuben G. Hunt in the final round in doubles after a remarkably close and hard fought five set match.

The victory gives the winners the right to meet Hackett and Alexander, the eastern champions, at Newport on Aug. 21.

Mrs. R. B. Neff, who, as Miss Closterman, was former western champion, regained the title by defeating Miss Miriam Steever, the Illinois state champion, 5—7, 6—4, 6—2, and then winning the western title by default from Miss Myrtle McAteer.

Pairs Evenly Matched.

Two more evenly matched pairs than Collins and Hunt and Waldner and Emerson would be hard to produce, and from the first service until the last ball was played, all four men kept the gallery applauding their brilliant work.

The fourth and fifth went to Collins and Hunt almost as easily, but the sixth and seventh again went to Waldner and Emerson.

The eighth game was taken by Collins and Hunt in easy fashion, but it was their last—Waldner and Emerson taking the next two and the set, 6—4.

Play in Second Set.

The second set furnished one of those remarkable reverses of form so often seen in tennis, and Collins and Hunt literally ran their opponents off their feet, taking six straight games. Emerson and Waldner seemed unable to check their opponents' rush, and played into their hands repeatedly.

In the third set both fought desperately and the play was the closest of the entire match. In this set the score ran evenly up to 2 all before Waldner and Emerson, by sensational playing, took three straight, gaining a lead of 5—3.

In the ninth game Hunt won three points on brilliant smashes and took the game. The next also went to Collins and Hunt, but the tenth was taken by Waldner and Emerson, and with it the set, 6—4.

Rest Is Omitted.

The usual rest was omitted after the third set and Emerson and Waldner kept up their pace of the third set, taking the first two games. Again a slump came and Collins and Hunt, playing faultlessly, captured six straight games and the set.

After this both teams and also the crowd nerved up for the final set, the one that was to determine the champions of the west.

Close Work in Final.

The first two games went to Hunt and Collins, the second being a deuce one. Waldner and Emerson won the third, a love game. The next was a long deuce game, and finally went to Collins and Hunt after some beautiful tennis, in which all four men were at the net.

With the lead 2—1 against them Waldner and Emerson played faster and managed to keep the position of vantage at the net and took three straight games and led 4—3. But Hunt and Collins took the next, and 4 all was called. The ninth game was a love one and went to Waldner and Emerson, and the next, a brilliant one, decided the set in their favor and gave them the match.

Neff-Steever Match.

Mrs. Neff won from Miss Steever after three close sets. The Chicago player took the first of these, 7—5, but she was unequal to the pace and lost the next two, 6—4 and 6—2. Mrs. Neff's playing was confined largely to the back court, while Miss Steever played aggressively at the net.

Two first round matches were played in the mixed doubles and in the morning Emerson and Waldner defeated Larned and Ryerson of the Onwentsia club in the semi-final doubles.

For this afternoon the finals in men's singles between Waldner and Emerson and the finals in women's doubles have been scheduled.

FINALS—MEN'S DOUBLES.
Waldner and Emerson beat Collins and Hunt, 6—4, 0—6, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4.

SEMI-FINALS—MEN'S DOUBLES.
Waldner and Emerson beat Larned and Ryerson, 6—4, 6—3, 6—0.

FINALS—WOMEN'S SINGLES.
Mrs. Neff beat Miss Steever, 5—7, 6—4, 6—2.

CHALLENGE ROUND—WOMEN'S SINGLES.
Mrs. Neff [challenger] beat Miss Myrtle McAteer [holder], by default.

SECOND ROUND—MIXED DOUBLES.
Mrs. Barnes and Mr. Hayes beat Dr. Lee and Miss Steever, 6—4, 2—6, 7—5.

Behr Defeats Clothier.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—Karl K. Behr of Yale defeated William J. Clothier of Philadelphia in the finals of the Longwood Cricket club's tennis tournament today in straight sets, 6—1, 8—6, 6—4. Behr tomorrow will meet William A. Larned, holder of the Longwood cup.

Play at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 30.—Play in the northwestern tennis tourney began today. H. M. Jones beat S. Moulton, 10—8, 6—1; Trafford Jayne beat Dr. Bates, M. D., 6—0, 6—4; Ward Burton beat Samuel Thompson, 6—2, 6—3.

JAIL BIRD LIFTS YACHT CUP.

Oconomowoc, Wis., July 30.—[Special.]—The closing race of the twenty-ninth annual regatta of the Oconomowoc Yacht club was won this morning by Douglass Petit of Milwaukee with his one design yacht, Jail Bird, representing the Oconomowoc Lake club.

The weather conditions were fine for spectators, but the air was too light to make the sailing exciting. Seventeen boats started in a bunch at 11 o'clock, No. 19 leading 14 slightly. The Petit boat soon got away from the Wurderman craft and slowly opened the gap between itself and the fleet.

At the second mark the boats turned as follows: 14, 12, 16, 11, 15, 8, 27, 24, 18, 31, 26, 3, 5, [illegible]. The remainder of the race no change was made except among the tail enders. Summary:

14—Douglass Petit, O. L. C.	[illegible]
19—C. Wurderman, O. L. C.	[illegible]
12—Hamilton Bros., O. L. C.	[illegible]
11—Camp Vandyke, O. L. C.	[illegible]
10—Clement Petit, O. L. C.	[illegible]
27—L. Weinhagen, P. L. Y. C.	[illegible]
16—F. Adler, O. L. C.	[illegible]
24—Phil Armour, O. L. C.	[illegible]
8—Norman Inbusch, O. L. C.	[illegible]
18—W. Coleman, O. L. C.	[illegible]
29—J. Carter, P. L. Y. C.	[illegible]
26—W. Wahra, P. L. Y. C.	[illegible]
31—George Meyer, P. L. Y. C.	[illegible]
15—S. Peck, O. Y. C.	[illegible]
5—Peck Bros., O. Y. C.	[illegible]
1—W. N. Pelouse, O. Y. C.	[illegible]

Lester Armour's boat, winner of Friday's cup, was capsized by a sudden puff while making the first buoy. The wind was light and the accident was caused by the main sheet being made fast. Lester Armour and Charles Lester, who were on board, were picked up by the Inbusch launch.

The winning of this race gives Douglass Petit the Oconomowoc Yacht club challenge cup to hold for one year, and also the permanent possession of the one design cup offered by the club. Commodore Peck presented the cup after the race.

Handy Andy, Minnewoc, and Louise, the three class A boats, have been entered for the Pewaukee regatta, which begins Monday. The boats are now en route for Pewaukee.

Point Gained by Bookmaker.

Kansas City, Mo., July 30.—The bill of exceptions to the conviction of Charles Oldham for selling pools on horse racing at the Elm Ridge track last spring was accepted in the Criminal court here today and the case will now go to the Supreme court of the state for a final decision.

Nelson Knocks Out Greene.

CAREFUL HANDLING, HOWEVER, PREVENTS SLUMP IN PRICES.

Profit Taking in Stocks, Which Is Indulged In to Great Extent, Is Well Provided For and the Market Holds—Announcement of the Suspension of Dividends on Brooklyn Union Gas Responsible for That Feature's Fall.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—[Special.]—Profit taking sales yesterday were evident on the stock market, but the supplying of stocks was done with such care and skill that small impression was made on prices. The only stock which slumped much was Consolidated Gas, and this was caused more by the official announcement that the Brooklyn Union Gas management had determined to suspend payment of dividends than by the profit taking sales.

The market did not throw off the effects of this announcement, and, although there was some rally, the closing was irregular.

The possible bad effects on securities of the agitation directed against corporations again was brought forcibly forward today. As Consolidated Gas and the affiliated Brooklyn company are within the group of companies regarded as being controlled by Standard Oil capital speculative opinion was keen to read an indication of proposed policy on the part of that influential element in the action on the gas dividend.

Continued assertions of an early dividend for Southern Pacific and the strong showing expected of the United States Steel quarterly statement of net earnings, to be published tomorrow, were elements in the strength of those stocks. Southern Pacific again advanced to the highest point of the movement. This and the gain in other special stocks aided in sustaining the market.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,945,000. United States 2s advanced ¾, the 3s coupon and the old 4s ¼ per cent on call.

Prime mercantile paper, 5¼@5¾ per cent. Sterling exchange firmer, at 484.90@484.95 for demand, and at 482@482.05 for 60 day bills. Posted rates, 482¾ and 485½. Commercial bills, 481⅝@481⅞. Bar silver, 64⅞. Mexican dollars, 50¼. Government bonds strong. Railroad bonds irregular. Money on call easy, 2@2¼ per cent; ruling rate, 2¼@2¼ per cent; closing bid, 2 per cent; offered at 2¼ per cent. Time loans dull and steady; sixty days, 3¾ per cent; ninety days, 4¼@4½ per cent; six months, 5¼ per cent.

MAN WITH HAMMER WINS.

WHEAT DRIVEN SHARPLY LOWER ON ENORMOUS RECEIPTS.

Holders of Cereal Overwhelmed by Deluge of Offerings Here and in Southwest — Fine Weather Northwest and Weaker Cables Also Figure in Bears' Argument—Corn Strengthens After Dip—Oats Under Pressure—Setback for Hog Product

The man behind the hammer had all the better of the argument in the wheat market yesterday. Overwhelming receipts of the new grain here and at the leading southwestern points completely swamped all the bullish news offered, and when the final gong sounded prices showed declines of 1⅜c for July, 1¼@1⅜c for September, 1¼@1¼c for December, and 1c for May. The price defenders flaunted materially improved export business in the faces of the bears, but, though temporarily checked in their aggressiveness, the latter, seeing only the enormous mass of wheat shipped from farm to market, vigorously kept at their pounding process. Some bulls stood up bravely under the pressure against them, but many of weaker sentiment shifted to the selling side. There was only a fleeting moment early that the optimists approached within reasonable distance of the Saturday close, and that distance measured about ⅜c.

The day's general news was distinctly in favor of the pessimists. The opening was lower under the influence of weaker cables, generally propitious weather and crop conditions in the northwest, the receipt of 885 cars here, of which 821 cars graded contract, against an estimate of 638 cars, and the talk of fine weather in England and France for harvesting operations. Pressure against values became greater as the figures began to pile up on the board of statistics. When Kansas City reported arrivals of 985,000 bu, compared to 557,000 bu the corresponding day in 1905, and the total primaries were given as 2,176,000 bu, against 1,647,000 bu a year before, and receiving houses advised that acceptances of bids at the reduced prices again would average large, longs let go in earnest, their lead being followed by many a short who heretofore had been held in check by the bullish complexion of foreign gossip. It was a matter of only a short time before the September was shoved off to 74⅝c, the December to 77c, and the May to 80⅝c. Important shorts took advantage of the softer spots and covered sufficiently to cause a partial reaction in the values.

Liverpool Heaviest at Close.

The close at the Liverpool market was the weakest point of the session, prices showing ½@⅝d lower. The heaviness here last Saturday and less discouraging information from the southern parts of Russia were given as the reason for the sharp break. While export sales from this country were large as compared to those of days last week, they were disappointing in view of the marked reduction in American values. It was figured that the better weather conditions in England and France partly offset the possible bullish influences for business with the foreigners. Omaha reported direct export sales of 250,000 bu of hard winter wheat late Saturday, via Philadelphia, and all points yesterday reported sales aggregating in the neighborhood of 480,000 bu, principally of the hard winter variety. The day's clearances were large at 646,000 bu, about half of which represented flour.

Big Increase in Visible.

The world's exports of wheat last week totaled 7,872,000 bu, against 6,432,000 bu the week before and 8,336,000 bu the similar period last year. The supplies on ocean passage—28,328,000 bu—showed a decrease of 792,000 bu, and compared with 36,776,000 bu the corresponding time last year. An increase of 2,466,000 bu in the visible supply, compared to an increase of 1,479,000 bu a year ago, also figured as a point in the bears' argument. Bulls declared that the heavier world's shipments were not to be construed as bearish, inasmuch as the increase was made up largely of the American product. Arrivals of wheat at Duluth and Minneapolis were 212 cars, against 342 cars a year before. The latter place reported a good demand from millers for the cash article, and its flour shipments for the day were large. Kansas City reported a weaker cash situation. Locally the sample market was heavy, and a good many of the men in that branch of the trade lent considerable stress to the fact that almost all outside markets were relatively lower than the Chicago market.

Valentine, who was reported a big buyer on the weak spots Saturday, was the seller of fully 1,000,000 bu, and the trade concluded, inasmuch as his offerings were of the long stuff, that he represented eastern interests that had bought around 76½c. Aside from short covering the holders of downward indemnities provided about all the speculative support that the market received. Final prices were within ¼@⅜c of the session's bottom.

Corn Stronger After Weak Start.

Despite the pronounced weakness in wheat, corn dragged itself out of an early rut and closed ⅜c higher for July and September, ¼c up for December, and ⅛@¼c loftier for May. Reported beneficial rains over Sunday in sections that have been wiring drought damage stories were largely responsible for a weaker opening. Prices were beaten down ⅛@⅜c in the first hour. Lower Liverpool cables also had a depressing effect on the trade. Advices to Finley Barrell & Co. and other leading houses were to the effect that precipitations had been light and scattered and had not quenched the pronounced thirst of the growing plant in important regions of Illinois. Local receipts were 198 cars, of which 97 graded contract, compared to 180 cars estimated, and primary arrivals—454,000 bu—were 206,000 bu under those of the corresponding day last year. Some houses reported a slightly improved acceptance of bids, but the majority of receivers saw nothing in the situation to indicate an early increase in the movement from farms. The small acceptances figured as one of the bulls' biggest points. Last week's world's exports of the cereal aggregated 4,550,000 bu, compared to 4,071,000 bu the week before, and 4,615,000 bu the corresponding week last year. The supplies on ocean passage showed an increase of 454,000 bu, and the visible supply showed a decrease of 636,000 bu. Seaboard clearances were 45,000 bu. Final prices were 51c for July, 50⅞c for September, 47⅞c for December, and 48⅜c for May.

Cash Oats Sharply Lower.

Liberal acceptances of bids and a free movement of new grain to market were influences which weighed on the oats market. Early operations were marked by declines of ⅛@⅜c, the July being hardest hit. The reported showers and the pressure from hedgers also had a depressing effect on the speculative market. The late rally in corn had a stimulating influence, dragging the July up to within ⅝c of the previous close, the September up to within ¼c, the December ⅛c above, and the May up to within 1-16c. The day's arrivals, principally of the new article, were 278 cars, or 50 cars more than estimated. Prices in the cash market sank to losses of 1@1½c, the general demand being slow. In view of the sharp drop at the sample tables, the trade considered the pit market strong. The visible supply showed a decrease of 333,000 bu. Seaboard clearances were about 10,000 bu. It was only on the weakest spots that the inquirers for cash grain would buy.

Drop in Provision Values.

Weakness characterized the provision market, which was only moderately active at its best, the principal pressure being against lard and ribs. Pork, much neglected, sagged off largely in sympathy with the weight against the other products. Final prices showed declines of 7½@20c for pork, the July being lowest, and 7½@10c for lard and ribs. The pressure came chiefly from local packers, the best part of the support being from scattered shorts. The market at Liverpool was lower, and the hog arrivals here and at the leading western points were large as compared to those of a year ago. The western receipts totaled 81,300, compared to 66,300 a week before, and 51,500 a year before. The local receipts were 7,000 more than estimated. Meat shipments hence were well under those of a year ago, but those of lard showed an increase, the figures being based on the movement for forty-eight hours.

Rye Values Are Lower.

Rye prices were ½c to 1c lower in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and other grains. Offerings were fair, while the demand was extremely limited. Receipts were 10 cars. No. 2 sold 57½@58c; No. 4, 49@50c; September was 57c asked, December 61c asked.

Barley was easy, with a fair quantity of old stock offered for sale. Offerings of new barley were moderate, but did not sell readily. Receipts were 10 cars. Feed was quoted 35@39c; malting, 40@50c; screenings, 30@39c.

Timothy seed was fairly active, with prices unchanged. There was a sale of old cash seed at $3.50. Contract spot was quoted $3.85; September, $4.30 bid and $4.50 asked. Country lots were $2.50@4.00.

Prices for flaxseed were nominally 1c lower. No. 1 was $1.06; No. 1 northwestern, $1.09; September, $1.06½. Receipts at Minneapolis were 21 cars and at Duluth 63 cars.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Local sales of cash wheat yesterday were 215,000 bu, including 50,000 bu No. 2 red, and 150,000 bu No. 2 hard, sold to New York exporters. Prices were relatively easier, No. 2 red selling at September price on track, and No. 2 hard at 1c to 1¼c under. Acceptances were again heavy, both here and in the southwest, although the bids sent out Saturday night were at lower limits. Southwestern markets were weak, the heavy receipts and free acceptances at St. Louis and Kansas City making weak sample markets. No. 2 red at St. Louis was quoted 72¼c to 73⅝c; No. 2 hard, 71c to 74c. At Kansas City, No. 2 red was 70½c and No. 2 hard 69@71c. Kansas City wired that about 400,000 bu had been sold to go out there yesterday, but no export business was reported. St. Louis reported 50,000 bu No. 2 red for export. No. 1 northern at Minneapolis was quoted 2¼@2½c over September. New York wired: "It is safe to say that 336,000 bu No. 2 red and No. 2 hard wheat have been worked for export today. From appearances we think there has been a great deal more, but do not care to say so positively." Local exporting houses late in the afternoon confirmed sales of 60 loads, or 480,000 bu, in all positions, principally via the gulf. Philadelphia claimed that the export demand was poor and ventured the prediction that if it did not improve wheat would go to 70c in short order. Winnipeg also claimed that the inquiry from abroad was not as good as expected. In the local sample markets there was a poor demand for corn from the east, but local industries were excellent buyers of No. 3 at 50¾@51c. Prices were ¼@½c lower. One house said that for the first time in several weeks their Illinois stations were reporting corn bought from the farmers. They bought the largest amount yesterday for any one day in six weeks. Other houses also reported freer country offerings, but the total was not large. Oats were decidedly weak, 1@1½c lower. New oats are beginning to move more freely, and acceptances were liberal. Sales here were 75,000 bu corn and 100,000 bu oats.

The visible supply of wheat increased 2,466,000 bu last week, compared to an increase of 1,667,000 bu the week previous, and a gain last year of 1,479,000 bu. Corn supplies decreased 636,000 bu, against an increase the preceding week of 690,000 bu, and a decrease a year ago of 181,000 bu. The oats visible decreased 333,000 bu, compared to decreases of 732,000 bu and 635,000 bu the week previous and last year, respectively. Rye stocks decreased 27,000 bu, and barley increased 99,000 bu. Following are the totals, with comparisons:

Pit observers figured that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bu long wheat was liquidated yesterday. Valentine was the largest individual seller, disposing of fully 1,000,000 bu September on the decline. Pringle sold about 600,000 bu, but later was a buyer. Cash houses were moderate sellers early, but later in the day the Rosenbaum Grain company and Rosenbaum Bros. were fair buyers. Near the close Wrenn was a big seller of May wheat. Peavey, Logan-Bryan, Bliss, and Bartlett-Frazier also were heavy sellers. Shearson-Hammill were about the best buyers. Lake was a fair buyer on the decline, as were Kidston and Logan. In corn, Bartlett-Frazier bought September and sold May; Updike and Barrell bought September; and Logan-Bryan took the May. The selling was mostly by scalpers and scattered commission houses. Bartlett-Frazier, Lake, and local longs sold oats. Wells, Northern Grain, Updike, Peavey, Merritt, and Requa bought. The best selling of lard and ribs was by John Cudahy and the Cudahy Packing company. Armour brokers bought ribs on the decline.

Members of the board yesterday approved the proposition to employ outside solicitors by a vote of 364 to 58. The proposition was submitted as an amendment to rule 4 by adding a new section to be designated section 33. It allows the employment of outside solicitors either on a salary or commission basis. If on commission the compensation is fixed at 20 per cent of the gross rates charged. The principal argument made in favor of the amendment, and which seemed to find favor with the membership, was that it would help to increase business on the exchange.

Local public stocks of contract wheat increased 1,350,210 bu last week, the increase being principally of No. 2 red. Corn stocks decreased 19,033 bu, and oats 154,314 bu. Total contract stocks, with comparisons, follow:

Western lines have consented to amend their tariffs so as to permit the same time for filing reconsigning orders on grain at Chicago as the free limit under the car service rules—viz.: Forty-eight hours from 12 o'clock noon day of arrival, if inspected before 10 a. m.; if inspected after 10 a. m. forty-eight hours from 12 o'clock noon of following day. Changes to this effect will be made in reconsigning rules of the various roads within the next two weeks.

Outside markets were claimed to be underselling local cash houses on wheat. They said that the Wabash rate to Philadelphia from Omaha of 17⅝c, including fobbing charges at the seaboard, gave Omaha exporters ⅝c to ⅞c the advantage over the local shippers. Updike worked 250,000 bu No. 2 hard wheat from Omaha to Philadelphia late Saturday, on the basis of 82c Philadelphia, or equal to ⅞c below September price here.

A private Argentine cable was that rains had fallen in sections where most needed. Slaughter also had a cable, saying: "Heavy rains in some parts. Weather threatening."

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, ½@⅝d lower; Paris, 1¼c higher to ¼c lower; Antwerp, unchanged; Berlin, ½c lower; Budapest, ⅛c lower.

Broomhall cabled that Odessa advices were that arrivals of wheat there were heavy.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

The volume of offerings weakened the demand for cattle yesterday, except as regarded a few choice lots, and the trade ruled 10@15c lower. There were no Texas offerings. Hogs closed 10c lower on the bulk of stuff and packing sorts were as much as 15c lower. The sheep and lamb trade was fully steady, and in some instances an advance was noted. Buying was active. Receipts were 51,000 hogs, 31,000 cattle, and 20,000 sheep.

CALL LOANS TO ADVANCE.

WILL BE MARKED UP ½ PER CENT BY SOME BANKS AUG. 1.

President Reynolds of the Continental National Believes Money Situation Will Be Close as Usual This Fall—Movement of Grain Promises to Begin Early—Chicago City Railway Borrows an Additional $1,200,000—"Big Men" Gather in Wall Street.

Some of the banks which have a few 5 per cent call loans out probably will mark them up to 5½ per cent on Aug. 1. The demand for funds is reported good, although some institutions are making records in the matter of deposits.

Speaking of the money market yesterday, George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental National, said:

"I believe we shall have this fall the usual close money situation. While New York seems to believe there will not be as large a demand upon the east this year as last, it will be found that when the actual currency is needed it will first be drawn from Chicago and then from New York. It will be cash. The Chicago banks alone cannot furnish the currency which will be shipped and their next resort is their balances in New York banks. There will be plenty of credit in the country and it will move to New York. The exports of grain will lodge in New York in the form of foreign exchange bills, but New York cannot replenish its cash in the same way that Chicago can.

"The crop outlook is such that I believe money would be easier if the yield were not so large. It is true, though, that the movement of grain promises to be early and in view of the fact that so many borrowers have provided themselves with time funds, the money market may to this extent be helped."

City Railway Borrowings.

The Chicago City railway company borrowed an additional $1,200,000, which, with the $1,800,000 borrowed some time ago, makes the company's borrowings $3,000,000, against which debentures have been issued. Other than this debenture issue the company has no bonds. The money was loaned by the Illinois Trust and First National banks. The debentures bear 5 per cent interest. They are short term paper. The proceeds of the latest loan will be used in trolleyizing the State street and Cottage Grove avenue lines.

May Leave Out Metropolitan.

As announced last Saturday, the plans for the elevated railroad consolidation continue along the line of putting three roads into the combination at this time. Some of the interests in the Metropolitan directory think the price offered them was too low. The other three roads are unwilling to concede the terms which a part of the Metropolitan directory insist shall be granted. The only thing left for the other lines to do is to proceed with their present negotiations and agree upon a price, something which it now seems will be done in the course of a few months.

Kansas City Railway.

Kansas City Railway and Light company earnings for June were at the rate of 3.75 per cent on the common stock, as against a rate of 2.9 per cent for the corresponding month last year. The figures follow:

June.	Gross.	Operating.	Tax. & int.	Net.

Gathering of "Big Men."

It is pointed out that seldom at midsummer has there been such a gathering of the so-called "big men" in Wall street as is now the case. The group includes James Stillman, president of the National City bank; William Rockefeller, who returned a few days ago; J. P. Morgan, who arrived last week, and John D. Rockefeller, who is just back. H. H. Rogers has not been away. John B. Archbold, E. T. Bedford, and F. Q. Barstow of the Standard Oil crowd are in New York. E. H. Harriman has been much in evidence and James J. Hill is due from the northwest.

General Financial News.

N. W. Harris & Co. have recently purchased $200,000 city of Memphis 4 per cent water bonds.

Since last Friday the New York subtreasury has lost $61,000 to the banks.

It is officially announced that the Black Mountain Mining company has won its suit in the matter of a dispute over the title to a portion of the company's property.

The Canadian Pacific has just authorized the construction of 7,000 miles of new telegraph lines.

By a vote of 364 to 58 members of the New York stock exchange voted to employ solicitors on a commission basis of 20 per cent of the gross charges.

August Disbursements.

Dividend payments for August will aggregate $33,282,828, according to figures compiled by the New York Journal of Commerce. Industrial companies contribute $16,531,968, as compared with $15,710,529 for the corresponding month of 1905. Railroad disbursements will total $15,533,985 and traction payments $1,216,875.

Illinois Central.

An official of the Illinois Central is quoted on the Fish-Harriman controversy as saying:

"It may be relied on that President Fish is well fortified in his position. The contending forces would be making a fruitless attempt in trying to dislodge him through stock acquirements in the open market. The rank and file of the shareholders will support Mr. Fish and his directors, and there is enough stock in strong hands to assure his control of the board."

Chicago Stocks.

In the local stock market Diamond Match shares reached top price and sold off at the close. The fact that the buying in the last few days has been in round lots indicates there has been a good deal of covering by shorts. Henry C. Hackney was one of the buyers. Alfred L. Baker & Co. sold freely.

In the bond department Pneumatic Tool 5s were moderately active and firm.

Foreign Exchange.

The foreign exchange market was quiet again. Actual closing rates for bankers' 60 day sterling bills were 4.8210@4.8220; demand, 4.8485@4.8495; cable transfers, 4.8535@4.8545; commercial long, documents payment, 4.81⅞@4.82¼; short marks, 94 11-16 plus 1-32 @94¾; sight francs, 5.18⅜@5.18⅜ plus 1-32; guilders, 40 1-16@40⅛ less 1-16.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, July 30.—Money was dearer today owing to month end requirements and the reducing of the week's gold arrivals. Trading on the stock exchange was quiet and the undertone was easier, owing to discouraging Paris advices and the renewed weakness of new Russian bonds, which went down to 10 per cent discount. Consols yielded fractionally but home rails kept firm.

Americans opened steady and closed firm. Foreigners and Kaffirs had an easier tendency earlier in the day in sympathy with Paris, but closed firmer. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 closed at 102¼.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—Prices were fairly steady on the bourse today, although they weakened slightly towards the end of the day, closing on an average a fraction below Saturday's prices, imperial 4s at 72¼ and 5s at 84¼.

PARIS, July 30.—Prices on the bourse today generally opened heavy, with Russians falling. Later an upward tendency developed. Trading at the close was calm. Russian imperial 4s closed at 71.75 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 466.00.

BERLIN, July 30.—Prices on the bourse today were lower.

READY FOR THE CARNIVAL

DETAILS FOR SUMMER FETE AT OCONOMOWOC COMPLETED.

Entertainment to Be Given Friday and Saturday by Society Women on the Shore of Lac La Belle Promises to Surpass Anything of the Kind Ever Seen at That Resort—Ten Acres Will Be Covered by Attractive Booths.

Preparations for the Oconomowoc midsummer carnival have been completed, and it is promised by the society women, who have been busy with the work of perfecting details for the last fortnight, that the event of next Friday and Saturday will overshadow any of the kind ever before given on the shores of Lac La Belle.

The carnival inclosure covers ten acres of ground, and in it will be seventeen attractive booths, an amusement park, three theaters, in which acts typical of the playhouses of the countries they represent will be offered. The park is situated on the bank of picturesque Lac La Belle, and an architectural scheme of rare beauty has been worked out by the committee in charge of the building, the decorations, and illuminations. Mrs. Montgomery Ward has supervised this work and the attractiveness of the park externally promises to be one of the distinct features of the carnival.

Mrs. Lawrence Fitch, who has acted as general chairman of the carnival, will preside over three of the entertainment tents, and has secured performers from New York and Chicago theaters. Mrs. P. A. Valentine, who is secretary and treasurer of the general committee, will have charge of the German village. Among the attractions to be offered in this village are a continuous vaudeville and a café in which German dishes will be served. The women in the garden will be dressed in peasant costume and Mrs. Valentine will be assisted by Mrs. Quincy, Mrs. C. E. Kohl, Miss Vojl, Miss Quincy, Miss McCord of Milwaukee, and Miss Edna Dixon.

Mrs. Walter Dupee, assisted by Mrs. Darius Miller, Mrs. Harry Brookings, and Miss Kennett, will have charge of the maze, in the center of which Mrs. Gale Thompson, Mrs. Bert Walker, and Mrs. Scudder will have charge of the raffling and grab bags. Miss Lida Tichenor, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Archer and Clarence Chattell, will have the silhouettes and photography. Miss Mary Peck will have charge of the Turkish booth, where coffee and Turkish sweets will be served. Miss Peck will be assisted by Miss Inderrieden and Miss Susan Gay of Kansas City. In the center of the main street Miss Marjorie Ward will have a booth, where she will sell confetti, squealing pigs, and other carnival properties.

The "Oconomowoc booth" will be in charge of Miss Mary Fay, Mrs. Meissner, and Mrs. Kartack. In the main street there will be a free show called "The Globe of Death," which has been donated by Mrs. A. J. Earling. The dancing pavilion will be in charge of Mrs. Earling. Mrs. John Dupee is to have a day nursery and Mrs. Kohl will have charge of the fortune telling, assisted by the Misses Stone, Ackley, and Mills. Mrs. Wood of St. Louis will have a dairy show in a Swiss chalet, assisted by Mrs. William Kelly and Mrs. Wallace Simmons. Mrs. James H. Eckels will have charge of the French theater and will be assisted by Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Miss Phœbe Eckels, the Misses Marion and Charlotte Partridge of Minneapolis, Miss Katherine Hoyt of Cleveland, and Miss Dorothy Hussey of Louisville.

Other booths and those who will have charge of them are:

Minstrel show—Miss Elsie Dixon.
Soft drinks—Mrs. George L. Earling.
Peanuts, popcorn, and candy—Miss Grace Dixon.
Lunch—Miss Mary Fay.
Spanish village—Mrs. Charles Harries Simms.
Maze—Mrs. W. H. Dupee.
Seeing Oconomowoc—Mrs. Gale Thompson and Mrs. W. N. Pelouze.

The Evanston Country club has arranged a unique garden party for Friday. The grounds of the club are to be transformed by birch bark tents and avenues of bay trees to represent a French garden as nearly as possible, and the porches of the clubhouse are to be turned into a palm garden. The hours are from 4:30 until 7 o'clock, and a Hungarian band will play during the interval. The committee in charge follows:

Mrs. E. W. Webster, chairman,	Mrs. Bruce Kirkman,
	Mrs. Paul Tietgens,
Mrs. John T. Sickel,	Mrs. Chas. T. Boynton,
Mrs. Frank P. Frazier,	Mrs. Arthur Towne,
Mrs. H. H. Hoyt,	Mrs. Frank C. Letts,
Mrs. William Warren,	Mrs. Charles Marlowe,
Mrs. Henry Patton,	Mrs. Frank Dakin,
Mrs. Eugene Willoughby,	Mrs. Charles Deering.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUN RIO DE JANEIRO, July 31.—Secret State Root, in a speech tonight at a session of the Pan-American conferen stroyed the last vestige of what sus the lesser republics of this continen have had of the intentions of the States and dispelled once and for al fear of European aggression.

It was a remarkable speech, eloq simple, and stirred the congress to a burst of tremendous enthusiasm for tary Root and the nation he represent The secretary declared the United desired no territory except its own a it deemed the weakest of American re worthy of as much respect as the str He declared also that the next Hag ference would mark the world's fi ceptance of the principle that this co must be held immune in the exp dreams of European powers.

Points Out Path to Goal.

Secretary Root said:

"I bring from my own country a greeting to our older sisters in the c tion of America. Unlike as we are i respects, we are alike in this, that all engaged under new conditions, fr the traditional forms and limitations old world, in working out the sam lem of popular self-government. T difficult and laborious task for each Not in one generation nor in one c can the effective control of a superi ereign, so long deemed necessary to g ment, be rejected and effective self- by the governed perfected in its plac

"The first fruits of democracy are of them, crude and unlovely. Mista many, partial failures are many, a not a few. The capacity for self-gove does not come to man by nature. art to be learned as well as an exp of character to be developed am great number of men who exercise sovereignty.

"To reach that goal toward which pressing forward, the governing of th tude, we must first acquire the kn that comes from universal educati wisdom which follows practical exp that personal independence and self- befitting men who acknowledge no s self-control to replace that external which democracy rejects, respect of t obedience to the lawful expression public will, consideration of the opini interests of others equally entitle voice in the state, a loyalty to the a conceptions of one's country as insp that loyalty of personal sovereigns has so illumined the pages of histo subordination of personal interests public good, and love of justice, me erty, and order.

Change Sweeping Whole Wo

"All these we must seek by slow tient effort. How many shortcoming are in our own lands and among our o ples, each one of us is conscious; yet dent of our times can fail to see t America alone, but the whole civilize is swinging away from the old govern moorings, and intrusting the fate of tion to the capacity of the popular govern. By this pathway mankind is ing whithersoever it leads, and upon cess of this great undertaking the humanity depends.

"Nor can we fail to see that the w making substantial progress towar perfect popular self-government. I it to be true, viewed against the back of conditions a century, a generatio a decade ago, that the government of country has advanced in the intellig ticipation of the great mass of the the fidelity with which they are repr respect of the law, obedience to the of sound morality, and in effectiven purity of administration.

"Nowhere is the progress more than in Latin America. Out of th of Indian fighting, race conflicts, a wars strong and stable governmen arisen. Peaceful succession in acc the people's will has replaced the seizure of power permitted by the indifference. Loyalty to country, i dignity, and honor have risen above tisanship of individual leaders.

Rule of Law Must Preva

"The rule of law supersedes th man. Property is respected, the enterprise are secure, individual l respected, continuous public policie lowed, and the national faith is hel This progress has not been equale where, but there has been progre where. The movement is in the rection and it is not exceptional.

"The present affords just cause faction and the future is bright w Not by national isolation have sults been accepted nor is progre continued. No nation can live u alone and continue to live. The each nation is the art of the dev of the race. There may be leaders may be laggards, but no nation lon tinue first in the advance of th progress of mankind, and no na doomed to extinction can remai behind.
